COUP DE GRACE WILL BE DEALT TO VARE TODAY

Senate to Polish Him Off at Noon, Along With William Wilson.

WATERMAN REPORTS ON LATTER'S CONTEST

Few on Hand to Hear as He Presents Finding of "No Fraud."

WHEELER WILL ARGUE ON WILSON'S BEHALF

Action Denying Claims of Both Rivals, However, Is Held Certain.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Senate gang will take Bill Vare for a ride at noon today. After squabbling a good part of yesterday as to just how it should be done agreement was finally reached that a vote will be taken today at 12 o'clock, first on a resolution by Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, that W. B. Wilson, Democratic candidate in the 1926 Pennsylvania senatorial campaign, is not entitled to the seat, and then on the Norris resolution denying the seat to Vare on the grounds of excessive use of money in the campaign and that his election was tainted with fraud. The vote on the second resolution under the unanimous consent agreement is to follow immediately the vote on the Reed proposal.

Both resolutions will be adopted and the three-year-old case will then be at an end.

Two senators are yet to be heard in the one hour and a half between the convening of the Senate and the time for voting. One of them, at least, Senator Wheeler of Montana, intends to argue for the seating of Wilson.

Few Listen to Report.

So definitely set is the Senate on just what it wants to do, however, that few senators attended the obsequies yesterday. Senator Waterman of Colorado, droned away at length with the report of the Senate privileges and elections committee which heard the Wilson contest and which reported that there was no fraud and that Vare was elected, and Senators Caraway and Bratton, of New Mexico, gave minority reports that although Wilson was not elected even if all questionable votes were thrown out, they could not agree that it followed that Vare was elected because the election was tainted with fraud.

Caraway enlivened his remarks with such characteristic utterances as "If a man wants to be immortalized all he has to do is to get on the voting list in Philadelphia. They will vote for him long after he is dead."

But the remarks of Waterman, Caraway and Bratton were for the record. Few senators remained on the floor.

More attention was paid to the conferences of the leaders in trying to reach an agreement as to when and how the Senate should proceed. There had been sort of an understanding that the Senate would vote first on the Waterman report, but Senator Norris suddenly got suspicious of this parliamentary move. Had the Senate adopted the Waterman report it would have denied the seat to Wilson, but at the same time it would have also adopted the report's conclusion that Vare was elected.

Norris Charges Bad Faith.

Then a pretty picture would have been created when it adopted the Norris resolution a few minutes later saying in effect: "No, Vare wasn't elected either."

The alternative to this procedure was to adopt the minority report of the privileges and elections committee which said neither Vare nor Wilson was elected.

But in this Senator Norris saw an effort to sidestep an expression by the Senate on excessive campaign funds. Whether there was such a purpose in mind is problematical, but the Nebraska senator tore up the air with invective for quite a while, charging that he had been the victim of bad faith.

Finally he and Reed, Watson, Robinson, of Arkansas, went out to the cloakrooms to talk it over. The agreement resulted.

Strangely enough, the agreement provides for the displacement of the Waterman committee report altogether in that in refusing the seat to Wilson the Senate will act on a resolution by Senator Reed.

Prompt Action Likely.

However, the effect will be the same. Those against Vare will have won their fight and Reed will win his point that the Governor of Pennsylvania be permitted to name a Republican to replace the ousted man.

And although it is expected that Gov. Fisher will name this successor with reasonable promptness there are many matters to be worked out before he can make his decision.

It is understood from political powers in Pennsylvania that Joseph

Tariff Group Votes Confidence in Arnold

Association Will Not Let Him Quit. Caraway and Garner Flayed.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—State representatives of the Southern Tariff Association, in session here today, put the label of confidence on J. A. Arnold, its Washington representative, who submitted his resignation after he had been charged with being a "lobbyist" by the special Senate lobby investigating committee.

Instead of accepting his resignation, they extended him a vote of confidence and thanks and voted $200,000 for legislative, educational and organization work, including the Washington agency. After the meeting Arnold said in a statement that he would withdraw his resignation and "would carry on the work of the association with increased vigor."

The meeting opened with a vigorous speech by John Henry Kirby, president of the association, in which he charged Chairman Caraway of the special Senate lobby committee and Representative Garner, of Texas, member of the House ways and means committee with being interested in tariff on commodities in which they had personal interest.

"Garner has a goat farm," Kirby said. "He got protection on goats' hair. Caraway was interested particularly in rice, but he didn't seem to see that other interests of the South had an equal claim with rice to protection."

JOHN HENRY KIRBY.

Kirby said the association's activities in Waashington were "open and above board" and "there was no buttonholing of congressmen."

HOUSE ADOPTS TAX REDUCTION BY 282-17 VOTE

Weak Opposition Mowed Down as Measure Is Passed.

SENATE TO DEBATE PROPOSAL MONDAY

Delay Is Threatened in Upper Chamber by Tariff Bill.

GEORGE URGES CUT SPREAD OVER YEARS

Smoot Expects Quick Action as Both Parties Pledge Support of Plan.

(Associated Press.)

Showing its usual speed in disposing of administration legislation, the House yesterday quickly adopted the $160,000,000 income tax reduction resolution by 282 to 17 and sent it to the Senate.

An effort will be made there by the old guard Republicans to duplicate the celerity. Chairman Smoot had the finance committee together on the resolution yesterday and called a meeting for today.

The slight opposition that developed from both sides of the House was easily overriden to send the measure that was introduced only four days ago safely past the halfway point of its legislative journey.

Senate Action Anticipated.

Backed by the administration and approved by party leaders in both houses, it was not expected to encounter much serious opposition in the Senate. Smoot expects early approval by his group and plans to bring it before the Senate no later than next Monday, despite a Democratic movement in the finance committee sponsored by Senator George, Georgia, to extend the reduction over two or more years instead of one.

Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking Democrat of the finance committee, said it would be better if a reduction could be made permanent, but agreed there was ground for apprehension by the Treasury because of the possibility for creating a deficit. A majority of the Democrats and the Republican regulars, he predicted, would favor the administration program.

The only obstacle threatening interference with the Republican leaders' plan for quick adoption of the resolution in the Senate was the desire for the Democratic-Independent tariff coalition to delay action until disposition of the tariff bill. In a statement last night through the Democratic national committee, Simmons said the coalition favored continuing the tariff work after disposition of the Vare case.

House Eager to Act.

As a contrast, the Republican-controlled House displayed an eagerness to finish with the tax reduction pro-

BLEASE AND HEFLIN DODGE GRAND JURY ON SCRIVENER, USING SENATE FOR SCREEN

Both Ignore Subpenas, After Claiming They Had Information.

BLEASE SCENTS POPE AND CAN'T BE LURED

'Fitzpatrick' as Foreman Sounds Bad to Him, He Explains.

CONTEMPT CITATION MAY BE AFTERMATH

Justice Gordon Considers Matter; "Girl Friend" of Scrivener Sought.

Two United States senators—Heflin (Democrat), of Alabama, and Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina—last night stood upon their right to congressional immunity, and refused to answer subpenas to appear before the grand jury.

The two senators had been summoned to tell what they knew about the death of Headquarters Detective Arthur Scrivener three years ago. Previously they had repeated information given to them that a member of the Police Department had murdered Scrivener.

But, whereas Senator Blease refused to give the grand jury an information whatever, Senator Heflin wrote a letter to United States Attorney Leo A. Rover in which he gave the name of a Government clerk who provided him with his information about the Scrivener case.

"Girl Friend" Hinted.

In the meantime, the grand jury last night was making intensive efforts to locate a "girl friend" of Scrivener who is declared to have attended a party with him a few nights before his death.

This girl and Lieut. Edward Kelly, deposed chief of the homicide squad, who declared Scrivener to be a suicide, are the principal witnesses of the half dozen yet to be heard.

Heflin said last night that John J. Maragon told him that the grand jury had refused to listen to certain important information his wife wanted to present in connection with Scrivener. Mrs. Maragon, formerly Helen B Parker, was to have been married to Scrivener on the night following his death. Susequently she married Maragon, who was considered Scrivener's closest friend.

Blease received his subpena to appear before the grand jury Wednesday, but Heflin was not served with his until 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It was handed to him by J. J. Clarkson, deputy United States marshal.

Both in Same Position.

Like Heflin, Blease had repeated information given to him that Scrivener was killed by a member of the Police Department.

When Blease failed to appear yesterday, the grand jury cited that fact to Justice Peyton Gordon, of the District Supreme Court, and asked what could be done to bring the South Carolinian before it.

Gordon last night was pondering the question. He has two alternatives, one to respect the congressional immunity of Blease and the other to issue an order holding the senator in contempt of court.

If Justice Gordon decides to cite Blease for contempt he will have as his precedent a ruling by Justice Chase, of the United States Supreme Court, who in 1800 ruled that "the Constitution gives to every man charged with an offense the benefit of compulsory process to secure the attendance of his witnesses. I do not know of any privilege to exempt members of Congress from the service or the obligations of a subpena in such cases." This ruling was handed down during an action brought against a

HUNTERS FIND BODY OF MISSING AVIATOR

Mail Plane Had Crashed Only 25 Feet From Heavily Traveled Highway.

WAS SHROUDED BY SNOW

Cleveland, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—The mystery of the fate of Pilot Thomas P. Nelson, who disappeared in the darkness and snow storm of early Monday while flying the air mail from Bellefonte, Pa., to Cleveland, was solved today when Nelson's body and his badly wrecked plane were found in a ravine near Chagrin Falls, Ohio, 35 miles southeast of Cleveland.

Nelson, a pilot of the National Air Transport Co., apparently had realized death was close at hand, for his parachute was found partly opened, indicating he had made a belated effort to jump for his life. His body was found about 100 feet from the wreckage of the plane.

Acting Coroner Reynolds, of Cuyahoga County, said a blow on the head had apparently stunned the flier and that he had died of exposure without regaining consciousness.

Finding of the body ended one of the most intensive searches ever made for a missing flier. All Monday and Tuesday, from five to a dozen planes had searched over the mountains of western Pennsylvania and along the flying route as far as Cleveland. Today, fifteen planes, led by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, a former "buddy" of Nelson's, had carefully and systematically continued the search over the 1,200 square miles just east of Cleveland, and there were 26 planes assembled this afternoon for the same work when the body was discovered.

It was a search made frantic by the possibility that Nelson was still alive and in need of assistance.

Discovery of the body and wreckage was made by Joseph Vincent, of Cleveland, while he was hunting rabbits. He found the plane facing eastward, the motor buried 4- feet deep in the frozen ground. The body of Nelson was partly covered by his parachute.

Both the body and plane were partly covered by snow and although only 25 feet from a heavily traveled highway were hidden from view by the snow and the sides of the ravine, even after the discovery had been re-

TWO CITIES IN HAITI UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Proclamation Comes After Customs Office Clerks Go on Strike.

GUARDS QUELL RIOTING

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Col. Richard Cutts, brigade commander of United States Marine Corps forces here, issued a proclamation last night declaring martial law in Port-au-Prince and Cape Haitien. A strike in the customs office, which threatened serious complications, was the cause.

The strike broke out at 9:30 a. m. yesterday after the dismissal of a Haitian customs employe for fraudulent entries.

Collector D. P. Johnson and another American were struck by clubs while trying to calm the disorder in the customs house. Some of the clerks smashed their typewriters and forced an entrance into government buildings to oblige other employes to join them.

This demonstration was broken up, but the clerks returned again and had to be checked once more.

Twenty-eight leaders and members of the crowd, who defied the gardes, were arrested.

Patrols of marines and gardes had the city quiet within an hour and a half.

Capt. George O'Shea, son of the fire department chief of Brooklyn, was attacked while making an arrest single-handed. His clothing was badly torn before a patrol of gardes came to rescue him. They were stoned by the crowd.

With the exception of two customs officials, who were slightly injured, no Americans were hurt. The military authorities acted swiftly. Only three shots were fired, and they were to summon aid.

The news of the proclamation and the sight of patrols of Marines in the streets had an immediate effect on the population here. Stores were opened and business, which had stopped for a short time, was renewed. The American colony was calm and felt no apprehension for its safety.

All points outside the capital were quiet this morning. Reinforcements were sent to Cayes. Customs service

NATIONALISTS FACE CRISIS AMID MUTINY

BANDITS LOOT PROVINCES

Shanghai, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—China's Nationalist government faced tonight one of the most serious crises in its brief and tempestuous existence.

Many thousands of its troops are in mutiny in several provinces, and disorders grip almost the entire Yangtse valley in which live many millions. Organized Communists and bandits are ravaging the countryside in at least five central and southern provinces.

Rebel forces, admittedly bribed by the Kucominchun, give signs of again fighting government troops and southern rebel forces threaten the great City of Canton.

For the time being, at least, Russian armed raids in Manchuria are halted by preliminary negotiations for peaceable settlement of the Chinese Eastern Railway dispute.

The mutiny of government troops, which began Tuesday at Pukow,

Barnes, Made Chairman, Moves to Perfect Organization.

(Associated Press.)

American industry in all its immense ramifications took stock yesterday of the prospects for business in 1930—and found them encouraging.

Leaders of its scores of industrial associations and corporations gathered to hear President Hoover outline briefly the reasons for their assembly, and to give one by one the views they held as to the outlook in their particular field.

The President told them that the recent crash in the stock market had been followed first by a recovery of confidence in money markets, and second by a movement of leading employers to maintain wages and activity.

"The third line of action has been to undertake through voluntary organization of industry, the continuity and expansion of the construction and maintenance work of the country," Mr. Hoover continued. "The extension and organization of this work are the purpose of this meeting."

He remarked that in preliminary meetings representatives of the country's leading business enterprise had "shown an unanimity I have seldom seen in our country" in the endeavor "to assure employment and to remove the fear of unemployment."

"The very fact that you gentlemen come together for these broad purposes represents an advance in the whole conception of the relationship of business to public welfare," he said. "You represent the business of the United States, undertaking through your own voluntary action to contribute something very definite to the advancement of stability and

LIQUOR BUYER HELD GUILTY IN ALABAMA

State Supreme Court Rules Him Equally Amenable With Bootlegger.

IS REGARDED AS AGENT

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—The much controverted question of the guilt of purchasers of liquor has been settled for Alabama State courts by a ruling of the State Supreme Court today that sellers and buyers of intoxicants are equally amenable under the State's "bone dry" liquor law.

In writing the opinion Justice Virgil Bouldin reversed a decision of the court of appeals, which had upheld the contention of Jim Jinright that his conviction in Pike County Circuit Court for "buying or selling" liquor was invalid because the State statute did not specifically prohibit such purchases.

The court of appeals granted Jinright a new trial on the premise that the permitted inclusion of the word "buying" in the indictment returned against him constituted an error by the trial court.

Under the interpretation given Justice Bouldin's opinion by attorneys here, it is a misdemeanor in Alabama to receive or posess liquor, regardless of the manner in which the contraband is obtained. Elaborating on his interpretation of the law, Justice Bouldin said in the opinion:

"Receiving prohibited liquors into possession, having them in possession, whether by manufacture, gift or purchase and whether held for sale or for personal use is an offense under the law."

Admitting the illegality of the "purchase" of a prohibited article, Justice Bouldin held that the "ac-

Telephone Company To Spend $22,000,000

Expansion Program Announced by Chesapeake & Potomac Head in Outline of Five-Year Project for Construction.

Another herald of sustained prosperity came yesterday in announcement by President Lloyd B. Wilson, of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.'s plan to spend more than $22,000,000 for new construction in the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia during the coming year, or $6,000,000 more than the amount expended during the present one. These expenditures are part of a five-year program under which the company estimates it will spend approximately $100,000,000.

Next year's expenditures are estimated at a rate for new construction of $3,500,000 for the District of Columbia, $8,000,000 for Maryland, $6,200,000 for Virginia and $4,450,000 for West Virginia. Facilities to be provided by this tremendous outlay include buildings, central office apparatus, local and intercity telephone lines and other equipment.

Among important projects included in the plan for the coming and four successive years are approximately $12,000,000 for land and buildings, $22,500,000 for central office equipment and $10,500,000 worth of intercity toll lines and cables. Much of the expenditure in this last item is for the placement of the companies' toll line system in cables to safeguard intercity service against interruption due to storms.

Contemplated expenditures are based on an estimated increase of 30,600 telephones during the next year and one of 155,000 during the ensuing four-year period, contrasted with a gain during the past five years of 129,000. Realization of these estimates will bring the total number of telephones in service up to 774,000 at the end of 1934.

Details of new construction for the District of Columbia, nearby Maryland and Virginia are not yet completed, but will be announced within a short time. When made public they will present an elaborate arrangement for the facilitation of local service and the convenience of subscribers.

Commenting on the enormous improvement program, President Wilson said: "The fact that the telephone company has a $100,000,000 construction program to care for the anticipated growth in the business is evidence of our faith in the continued prosperity of the territory served by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Companies.

A huge mosaic, largest and finest ever made by the Vatican Mosaic Works and gift of Pope Pius XI to the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception at Catholic University, is expected to arrive in the Capital before Christmas, when it will be installed in a chapel at the entrance to the crypt in the National Shrine.

Approval of the Pontiff was all that remained before shipment of the val-defendant indicted for libeling the President of the United States.

Blease gave two reasons for not wanting to appear before the grand jury. First, he said he would have nothing to do with a grand jury that had failed to return a murder indictment in the case of Virginia McPherson, and, second, he charged that there was "too much of a certain religion" in the grand jury.

"Fitzpatrick" Sounds Bad.

The name of the grand jury foreman, James N. Fitzpatrick, the senator said, sounded very much as if he might belong to a certain religious fraternity.

Blease said that he would be perfectly willing to appear before Justice Gordon or any of the other justices, but he insisted that he would not appear before the present grand jury. The next grand jury could call him, he said, and he would be willing to appear.

Blease said that he did not think Justice Gordon would be "so foolish" as to issue a contempt order for him, adding that Gordon must be too conversant with the law to do that. If Gordon did make such a move, Blease said, he would be liable to impeachment proceedings.

Senator Heflin said that, in view of the fact that he had written Rover a letter telling him what he knew about the Scrivener case, he did not think it would be necessary for him to appear before the grand jury.

"However," said the senator from Alabama, "if they try and intimidate me I will get out on the floor there and fight them."

Girl's Name Is Learned.

Lieut. Edward Kelly, who was removed as chief of the homicide squad after the July grand jury charged him with malfeasance in his investigation of the death of Mrs. Virginia McPherson in September, is expected to tell the grand jury today the reasons why he believes Scrivener took his own life.

Kelly, as spokesman for the Police Department at a conference with newspaper men on the night of October 30, 1926, advanced numerous statements which he declared to be facts tending to show that Scrivener's death had been suicide.

Late yesterday the grand jury obtained the name of the girl who, it was said, accompanied Scrivener on the party at which Kelly also was declared to have been present, a few nights before the fatal shooting. The body learned not only the girl's maiden name, but also her present name, she having been married some time later. The address given the grand jury, however, was one at which she had lived prior to her marriage, and apparently no trace now can be found of her present whereabouts.

This girl, the grand jury believes, was in the confidence of Scrivener, and may be able to relate the details of the trouble which has been declared to have been worrying him just before his death and which, it is believed, was the basic cause leading to the tragedy.

Twenty Heard Yesterday.

Whether this trouble was the fear of assassination as the result of investigations Scrivener was conducting into the activities of a liquor ring, or whether it was some personal worry which might have influenced him to suicide, is the question the grand jury hopes to have answered by this witness.

In addition to these two, the grand jury expects to hear three or four members of the Police Department, former friends of the detective.

Twenty witnesses were heard yesterday, all except three being members of the Police Department. Among these 20 were Capt. Guy Burlingame, former commander of the Second Precinct; Maj Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, who as head of the detective bureau conducted the police investigation of Scrivener's death; Mrs. George W. Dow, of the Episcopal City Mission; Miss Katherine Kendrick, a former friend of Scrivener; Col. William L. Peak, superintendent of the District Jail; Detective Sergt. George Darnall, who testified that he had given Scrivener a gun resembling that with which the latter was shot, but who was unable to identify the death weapon positively, and others.

Teacher Whips Girl And Kills Father

Tennessee Man Surrenders to Sheriff Following Fatal Affray.

Madisonville, Tenn., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—A father is dead and a school teacher is in jail here tonight, the result of a whipping administered to a little girl at Sutton Chapel School, Monroe county, this morning.

Charlie Young is dead and the teacher, Phillip Lee, is in jail. The little girl's first name was not known here tonight.

Lee told the sheriff he whipped the child soon after she came to his school this morning. When she returned home at noon and told her father the parent obtained a club and went to the school room where a fight started. Lee said he fired twice with a revolver he had taken from his desk and Young fell dead. Several pupils substantiated Lee's story.

Sheriff Jim Kennedy went to the settlement, 15 miles from Madisonville, after Lee had arrived at the jail to surrender.

SULLIVAN CONTEST BREWING IN SENATE

Appointment of Successor to Warren Regarded as Illegal by Some.

WALSH UPHOLDS ACTION

(Associated Press.)

Although a contest against seating Patrick Sullivan is in prospect next week when he presents himself as the appointed successor of the late Senator Warren, of Wyoming, there appeared last night to be much sentiment for his being seated.

The contest threatens to be based on the Wyoming statute adopted during the administration of a recent Democratic governor, Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, which stipulates that the governor can fill a vacancy of Congress only when it occurs during a session. Senator Warren died during the week's recess between the extra and the regular sessions. Sullivan was appointed by Governor Emerson, a Republican.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader and a noted lawyer, expressed the view yesterday after an examination of the precedents that the weight of opinions favored the legality of Sullivan's appointment.

Senator George (Democrat), Georgia, a member of the elections committee, expressed the view that the question was one which would have to be settled by the elections committee. He believed Sullivan would be challenged but expressed the view that the appointee would be allowed to take the oath of office and serve during consideration of the dispute.

Sullivan's appointment holds good only until a successor is selected at a special election called for next month by Gov. Emerson. Consequently, unless a quick decision is reached by the Senate his term will have been completed.

Not Afraid of Fight.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Patrick J. Sullivan, of Casper, appointed to temporarily succeed the late Francis E. Warren in the United States Senate, arrived in Cheyenne today to confer with Gov. Frank C. Emerson and receive his credentials. Commenting on the reported impending dispute in the Senate over his qualification for a seat, Mr. Sullivan, who has served as Republican national committeeman from Wyoming, said:

"I cant' be stampeded by the talk of a fight. I've been in fights all my life."

Edison Seeks Sun's Stimulus in South

Rubber-Producing Golden Rod Experiments Will Continue in Florida.

West Orange, N. J., Dec. 5 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—Bundled against the cold in a heavy overcoat and a woolen muffler, with which he wore a bowler hat, America's foremost electrical and inventive genius, Thomas A. Edison, fared forth from his home here today, accompanied by Mrs. Edison, for the sunny South.

The couple left in a special car attached to a limited train. The destination is the Edison winter home at Fort Myers, Fla., where the aged inventor will turn the greater part of his attention until next June to his experiments in obtaining rubber from golden rod plants, which discovery was announced 24 hours previous to his departure.

Although looking quite restored in health, and able to talk with vigor and his accustomed enthusiasm with the group of newspaper persons gathered to see him off, Edison left at least two months earlier this season on account of his recent serious illness. The usual time for his Southern trip is the middle of February, and the customary stay is two months. This year, the Edisons will remain in warmer climes until June. They will receive long visits from Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone, close friends of the inventor, within the next six months.

BANDITS LOOT WHILE CHINA TROOPS REBEL

across the Yangtse River from the Nanking capital, is reported to have spread to many other localities. The original mutineers rebelling against orders to proceed to Kwangtung to suppress the attack directed at Canton, looted Pukow and went northward by train to Pengpu. Joined by other rebel forces of Kaiangsu and Shantung provinces, their numbers were said to have reached 30,000 along the Tientsin-Pukow Railway, under command of Shir Yu-San, general of the twenty-fourth mutinous division.

President Chiang Kai-Shek sent three of his best divisions to Pukow to cope with the situation, and approximately 15,000 men crossed the Yangtse before nightfall. Twenty-five thousand others are expected to proceed to Pukow unless the insurrection ends quickly.

The Kuominchun rebel forces, whose fighting in Honan and Hupeh provinces ceased recently when their leaders were said to have been bribed with many millions of dollars by Nationalist government officials are said to be about to resume armed attack upon government forces.

Thousands of bandits and "Communist armies" are actively looting the people of Fukien, Kiangsi, Honan and Hupeh provinces.

In Kwangtung province, the Nationalist government resorted to the "silver bullet" campaign against the rebels threatening Canton, hoping by this method of buying off the opposing soldiers to end the warfare in the south, as it had done in Honan and Hupeh.

In a battle in this area described as sharp, the Nationalists claimed success at a point 30 miles north of Canton, but a Nationalist gunboat commander was killed. The Nationalists, admitting that their activity in this region had been defensive, asserted they planned large-scale offensive movements.

In addition to outbreaks at Pukow, disorders at Wupu, 60 miles from the Nanking capital, and the reported looting of Anking in Anhwei province were reported. Dispatches from up the Yangtse River stated that Nationalist government forces at Itu, 200 miles above Hankow, and a detachment at Ichang had turned rebel. Both Itu and Ichang are in Hupeh province, up river from Hankow.

STIMSON CONSIDERS RUSS MATTER ENDED

Secretary of State Indicates Satisfaction Over His Peace Efforts.

NINE NATIONS BACK U. S.

(Associated Press.)

Indicating satisfaction with the results of his efforts to bring peace between China and the Soviet in Manchuria, Secretary Stimson last night considered as closed his dramatic attempt to mass public opinion of the world against war.

Almost at the moment the Secretary showed his belief that the troubles in Manchuria had been ended by a basis of settlement reached through direct negotiations, six other nations responded to his urging that the signatories of the general pact for the renunciation of war cooperate with the United States in bringing about a cessation of hostilities. No further correspondence on this subject is expected to be initiated by the American Government.

Nine nations, Great Britain, France, Italy, Holland, Portugal, Mexico, Panama, Cuba and the Dominican Republic, so far have joined the United States and have indicated their full accord with the move by the Secretary last week in his effort to bring about peace between China and the Soviet by a mobilization of world public opinion in support of the antiwar treaty.

Czechoslovakia, an original signatory of the antiwar pact, expressed its desire to cooperate fully and stated it had taken steps to learn the attitude of France and Italy in the question. Egypt and Poland remained noncommittal, while Belgium indicated to the American Government that the matter would be taken under immediate consideration. Only Japan and Germany of the great powers which were original signatories of the antiwar pact declined to cooperate in the move.

The friendly reply of the Chinese government—which is recognized by the United States—to the Secretary's appeal for peace arrived at the State Department late yesterday, the Nanking government indicating that it had always desired peace and would continue to maintain a peaceful attitude in accordance with its obligations under the Paris pact in the future.

The Chinese reply was in sharp contrast to that of the Soviet government, as indicated in press reports from Moscow. The Soviet was reported to have forwarded to the French government a reply to the Secretary's appeal asserting the American communication could "not be taken as a friendly act" and constituted "unjustifiable pressure."

Secretary Stimson yesterday made public the text of the protocol signed between the Mukden and Soviet representatives establishing a basis of settlement for the dispute between the Chinese and the Soviet, which began last summer when the Chinese took over control of the Chinese Eastern Railway and deposed the Soviet manager and assistant manager. The text of the protocol was contained in a telegram of the official Russian news agency, Tass, and was forwarded to the State Department by the American Legation at Peiping.

Woman Files Suit Over Loss of Mind

$100,000 Damages Asked From Street Car Company.

Helen B. Downing, who is an inmate of the State insane asylum at Islip, N. Y., yesterday filed suit in the District of Columbia Supreme Court against the Washington Railway & Electric Co., seeking to recover $100,000 damages for the loss of her mind as the result of a street car accident.

The suit is filed through Charles P. Downing, a brother, as ancillary committee. It sets out that the woman was crossing Seventeenth street northwest at I street October 11, 1928, when the street car struck her. Prior to that time she was of sound mind, but, as a result of her injuries, the suit alleges, she lost her mental balance. Negligence on the part of the motorman of the street car is alleged.

The woman suffered a fractured skull as a result of the accident, and was committed to the New York asylum January 11, 1929, it is set out. The brother states that he was appointed guardian on April 19, last. Attorney Alvin L. Newmyer appears for the plaintiff.

Woman, 40, Dead From Gas Fumes

Note Found After Body Is Discovered With Tube in Mouth.

After she left a note stating she was "tired of living," Mrs. Louise Cornell, 40 years old, was found dead in bed in her room on C street northwest near Third yesterday, a tube attached to an open gas jet in her mouth.

L. E. Spoon, a taxicab driver, who also lodges at the C street address, detected the odor of gas and notified other residents. Police were called and the body was discovered after breaking in the door.

The note apologized to the management of the lodging house for her act and also asked that her husband, Robert Cornell, of Hagerstown, Md., be notified of her death. Police are of the opinion that the woman died some time Wednesday night. District Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt, after an investigation, stated he would issue a certificate of suicide. The woman, police said, had been employed as a solicitor for a furniture store.

ARCHANGEL HEROES BURIED IN ARLINGTON

Veterans Are Decorated in Impressive Military Rites at Graves.

JAPANESE FLAG WAVES

More than a decade after they had died on the battlefields of the wind-swept tundra of North Russia, the bodies of three American soldiers in Michigan's famous "Polar Bear" army were buried at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Arlington Cemetery.

Impressive military rites were conducted by the Veterans of Foreign Wars as the caskets were lowered into the graves. During the ceremony Department Commander Harvey L. Miller decorated the dead veterans with the Cross of Malta, the insignia of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the badge of overseas fighting men since the days of the Crusaders who stormed the walls of Jerusalem.

The Army Band played the dirge for the returned soldiers, and an Army firing squad sounded a salute. Taps were played by Sergt. Maj. William P. Winsdale, national bugler of the veterans' organization, accompanied by the muffled roll of drums in charge of Sergt. Robert A. Windsor, of the Overseas Drum and Bugle Corps.

For the first time in history a Japanese flag waved in Arlington. It was for Private James T. Ida, a native of Japan, who enlisted in the Polar Bear Division at the age of 17. Representatives of the Japanese Embassy participated.

The other two veterans were Louis A. Szymanski and Elmer E. Steicher.

Banners of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Spanish-American War Veterans, the Army and Navy Union, the American Legion, the Disabled War Veterans, the Women's Overseas League, the American War Mothers, the Gold Star Mothers and the women's auxiliaries of the Spanish-American War Veterans, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion added to the colorful rites.

The funeral procession, with the caskets mounted on War Department caissons, began at Fort Myer, where the bodies were stored temporarily in vaults after they had been brought from Russia to the United States.

quiring actual possession" of liquor constitutes a violation of the prohibition law of Alabama.

Justice Bouldin cited Section 4651 of the State Criminal Code of 1923, the year the present dry law was enacted, as authority for his opinion. The section, captioned "agent or assisting friend of buyer or seller" says:

"Any person who shall act as agent or assisting friend of the seller or buyer in procuring an unlawful sale of any prohibited liquors and beverages shall be punishable as if he had sold said prohibited liquors and beverages and conviction may be had of such agent or assisting friend upon an indictment, affidavit or complaint against him for selling prohibited liquors and beverages contrary to law."

An appended note said the section was intended to meet decisions of courts holding views as did the court of appeals.

Chauffeur Is Held As Capitalist Dies

Truth of Tennessee Killing "Would Create Scandal," Says Employ.

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—The strange shooting of Texie Parks, 63-year-old capitalist, became the Parks murder case today with the death of the former banker. His chauffeur, Jack Pugh, 24, was held for grand jury investigation. He told officers he knew who shot his employers, but would not tell "because it would create a scandal."

Parks was shot at the intersection of the two busiest streets in the city while they were lined with shoppers. No one has been found who heard the shot. Pugh, arrested Saturday night, first said he did not know his employer was wounded until he removed his coat after the drive. He later changed the story, and said a man jumped on the running board, poked a gun into Parks' side, fired and fled.

No one has been found who saw the supposed assailant leap on the car, but a 6-year-old girl told authorities she saw the car stop near the corner while Pugh adjusted the lap robes of Parks, who was an invalid.

Parks told detectives Sunday his chauffeur did not shoot him, and bore out Pugh's story.

Champion Steer Brings $8.25 a Pound at Sale

Chicago, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Twelve dollars a pound steaks. This epitomizes what occurred at the stockyards today when Elliott Brown, 20-year-old Iowa farm youth, sold his grand champion steer to a millionaire for $7,837.

The actual price paid was $8.25 per pound on the hoof, for 950 pounds of beast, but after the steer is dressed the steaks and roasts would have to retail at $12 to keep from showing a loss. J. C. Penney, the chain-store merchant, who bought the steer, donated the animal to the United Charities of Chicago, who announced the steer would be sold again to enrch the Christmas fund.

The price paid for the grand champion was a new high figure. A good portion of the money likely will send young Brown to Iowa State College, where he intends to enroll next January.

TAX CUT PROPOSAL APPROVED BY HOUSE

gram so it could turn its attention to the big annual supply bills.

Approved by the House ways and means committee Wednesday after Undersecretary Mills, of the Treasury, explained the plan for a flat 1 per cent reduction on corporation and normal individual incomes, the measure was brought before the House by Chairman Hawley, of the committee, yesterday.

The debate occupied little more than three hours, during which Representative Ramseyer, of Iowa, a Republican member of the ways and means committee, predicted a deficit of $107,000,000 in the National Treasury at the end of the fiscal year 1931 would be created by enactment of the resolution. He based this on the possible need of the Federal Farm Board for $150,000,000, which, he said, was not included in the estimates for the budget.

Chairman Hawley Replies.

Chairman Hawley contended the enactment of the measure would stimulate business and that the taxpayers were entitled to benefit from the surplus in the Treasury.

Representative Collier, of Mississippi, second ranking Democrat on the committee, said his only objection was that the resolution did not go far enough.

He favored a reduction of from 12 to 10 per cent in the corporation taxes instead of from 12 to 11 per cent, as stipulated in the measure.

Representative Ragon (Democrat), Arkansas, a member of the ways and means committee, approved the measure, saying he could not see how any one could afford to oppose it.

Representatives LaGuardia (Republican), New York, and Hoch (Republican), Kansas, and Rankin (Democrat), Mississippi, opposed the resolution, but LaGuardia said he would vote for it.

Point of Order Raised.

An attempt to amend the measure to compel Government employes and military and naval personnel to pay income taxes was offered by Representative McClintic (Democrat), Oklahoma, but was ruled out after Chairman Hawley raised a point of order that it was not germane.

The bill first was considered by the House as a committee of the whole, and when Representative Sloan (Republican), Nebraska, reported its approval to Speaker Longworth, the members joined in a chorus of "vote! vote!"

Representative Howard (Democrat), Nebraska, asked for a roll call vote, but lacking support a division vote was called for by Representative Tilson, Connecticut, the Republican leader. The 17 votes were divided among members of both parties.

Potters Condemn Senator Caraway

Attack on Their Lobbyist Comes Under Fire of National Body.

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—The United States Potters Association today had condemned Senator Thaddeus Caraway, of Arkansas, for an attack upon the late William Burgess, lobbyist of the potters' association.

Burgess, said a resolution adopted by the potters at the final session of their convention yesterday, died last week in his New Jersey home from a "broken heart induced by Caraway's unwarranted attack."

Earl R. Crooks, of Crooksville, Ohio, was reelected president. Other officers named included James M. Smith, Newcastle, Pa., first vice president, and Joseph M. Wells, Newell, W. Va., chairman of the labor committee.

HAITIAN MARTIAL LAW IS DECLARED

was functioning at all ports save Cayes.

The proclamation issued last night said that the United States forces were pledged to support the constitutional government of Haiti and with the assistance of the garde had maintained peace and tranquillity for many years. The disorders had followed the activity of agitators who were fomenting trouble, and the proclamation had therefore invoked martial law.

The proclamation added that press articles stirring up opposition to American Government forces or officials and speeches of an incendiary nature would cause their authors to be tried before a military tribunal.

(Associated Press.)

Information of the Haitian strike was received yesterday by the American Government and the situation was believed to have been discussed at a conference in midafternoon between President Hoover and Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy.

American marines have occupied the republic since 1917 and martial law will be enforced by them and the Haitian police, which have been organized and trained by Marine officers.

Asks $25,000 Damages In False-Arrest Suit

Charles J. Raff, of 1100 Eighth street northeast, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court against William R. Baugh, of 1739 Park road northwest, seeking to recover $25,000 damages for alleged false arrest.

Raff, through Attorneys M. J. Lane and Samuel Robinson, tells the court that he was falsely arrested on November 24 last, and that after a Police Court hearing he was acquitted. He asserts that he was irreparably damaged inasmuch as he was forced to ride in the patrol to the Ninth Precinct and to the Police Court.

M'MANUS ACQUITTED IN ROTHSTEIN DEATH

Directed Verdict Liberates Defendant, Accused of Slaying Gambler.

DECISION IS ANTICLIMAX

New York, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—By directed verdict George McManus was cleared today of the charge of murder of Arnold Rothstein, king of Broadway gamblers. The trial started three weeks ago. McManus was an associate of Rothstein.

Judge Charles C. Nott, jr., in directing the jury as to its verdict, said:

"It is not sufficient to prove that a man might have committed a crime. It is necessary to prove that he must have done so."

That, he continued, the State had not done and he had no alternative but to throw the case out of court.

Verdict Is Anti-Climax.

The verdict, which was not unexpected, came as an anticlimax to a case that had stirred the city for over a year, a case which had cost a police commissioner and several ranking policemen their jobs.

McManus, smiling, rushed from the defense table inside the rail to the place where his wife sat in a second row spectators' seat. They embraced. Mrs. McManus wept. The verdict had ended for him a year of court appearances and police surveillance, four months in Tombs Prison, next door to the building where his trial was held.

"I am very happy," was all he could say. "I am going to my mother."

Three Men Still Indicted.

Three men remain under indictment for the murder, none of them in custody. They are: Hyman (Gilly) Biller, pay-off man for McManus, and John Doe and Richard Roe.

District Attorney Joab H. Banton would not say today whether he would quash the indictments against them, but that course is expected as he had said he believed McManus was the man that actually fired the shot. He said the State had put into evidence all the testimony it had and judge and jury had found that insufficient to even warrant a defense against it.

Case Made Political Issue.

The failure of police and district attorney to prosecute the case to their satisfaction had led administration opponents to make it a major issue in the last city political campaign. Both the Democratic and Republican candidates for district attorney had said they would have handled the matter differently and the Republican candidate, Frederic E. Coudert, jr., promised, if elected, to bring the case to a speedy and satisfactory conclusion. He lost the election.

Rothstein was found fatally wounded in a service entrance of the Park Central Hotel the night of November 4, 1928. He died two days later, a direct result of a gunshot wound.

Bank Representative Dies in 11-Story Fall

Indianapolis, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Gilbert B. Clippinger, prominent Indianapolis business man, fell to his death from the eleventh floor of an office building here today. The body was found on the roof of an inner court on the fourth floor. Clippinger was a former newspaperman and since 1927 had been Indiana representative of Dillon, Read & Co., investment bankers.

Friends of Clippinger said an examination of the open window indicated that the fall was accidental, occurring when Clippinger sought to adjust it.

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

To stop an automobile anywhere on any thoroughfare in Washington is to park it, though some drivers believe they can stand their cars in a "No parking" zone if they remain at the wheel and keep the engine running.

The traffic regulations state that to park "means to leave any motor vehicle standing on a public highway, whether or not attended." And to tell a policeman, "I only intended to stand here a minute," won't help.

Example: A driver pulls up in front of the White House, where the signs read "No parking at any time." He stops, intending to remain for a minute or so, but he has violated the regulations and is subject to arrest.

16 SAILORS PERISH AS SHIP FOUNDERS

Great Britain Again Swept by Hurricane Winds; Damage Heavy.

WATERS COVER WALES

London, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—A tempest in which the wind at times blew at the rate of a hundred miles an hour swept Great Britain last night and most of today. Before it had spent its force it had caused enormous damage on land and at sea.

The crowning tragedy of a day and night of destruction was the foundering of the steamship Frances Duncan off Lands End. Destruction of the big boat could be plainly seen from the Longships lighthouse.

The vessel, which was 2,384 tons, was trying to fight her way against the storm when a big wave tossed her high in the air and she turned over. A few seconds later she bobbed up like a cork but was lying on her side.

Within a minute or two she had disappeared. Sixteen of her crew of 21 went down with her. The other five clung to bits of wreckage until the steamship Alice Marie, bound for Norway, picked them up. The rescue vessel turned out of her course and set the survivors ashore at Falmouth.

Torrential rains, which accompanied the gale, increased the already widespread flood damage in Wales. Throughout the United Kingdom many persons were injured by flying debris or in traffic accidents that were due directly to the weather.

The storm swept in from the Atlantic and hit Ireland last night. Then it crossed over Wales and England, blowing itself out on the French channel coast.

All shipping in the English Channel was halted and the regular service from Newhaven to Dieppe was cancelled. That between Folkestone and Boulogne was diverted to the Dover-Calais route. All London-to-Paris air service was cancelled for the day.

INTERIOR SUPPLY MEASURE UP TODAY

Decrease of $2,444,102 Is Recommended by House Committee.

LARGE ITEMS ARE CITED

(Associated Press.)

The annual supply bill for the Interior Department will be taken up today by the House as the first phase of the yearly task of providing funds for Federal operations.

The sum of $283,189,973, a decrease of $2,444,102 under this year's figure, and $200,000 less than that approved by the Budget Bureau for next year, was recommended by the House appropriations committee.

The principal item provided was $235,099,400 for the Pension Office. This was a decrease of $8,111,600, caused by the regular decrease in pensioners.

Other large items were $19,786,129 for the Indian Bureau, an increase of $3,112,913; $8,321,000 for the Reclamation Service, and $8,070,935 for national parks, both increases over current appropriations.

Education, conservation of health, industrial assistance and irrigation and drainage would receive the increases asked for the Indians.

For the General Land Office, $2,136,830 was provided, a slight decrease below the current sum. For protecting public lands, $450,000 was requested, a $20,000 increase, recommended to make effective an increase from $40,000 to $60,000 for prevention and fighting of forest fires.

Aside from this bill, President Hoover requested the House to approve a supplementary appropriation of $1,500,000 for the Bureau of Indian Affairs of the Interior Department to be used in the fiscal year 1930.

Methodist Merger Is Seen by Bishop

Texan Predicts Union of All Protestant Churches at Meeting.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Predicting the union of all Protestant churches and the consolidation of the two Methodist churches, Bishop John M. Moore, Dallas, Tex., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, declared today the two churches had every reason for uniting because of similarity of doctrine and organization. He spoke before the interMethodist council.

The council is made up of approximately 2,000 laymen and ministers of both the Methodist Episcopal and the Methodist Episcopal South churches. The delegates represent Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Nebraska, New York, Ohio and other States. The conference here was called "to foster a spirit of brotherhood between the men of the churches," officials said.

Other speakers on the program were Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, Chicago; Sir James Endicott, former moderator of the united church in Canada; the Rev. Dr. Frederick F. Shannon, pastor of the Central Methodist Church, Chicago; Dr. Bert F. Smith, secretary of men's work for the Northern church; Bishop Horace M. Dubose of the Southern church; Branch Rickey, St. Louis, and E. Dow Bancroft.

Chairman Caraway, of the lobby committee, showed interest yesterday in reports from New Orleans of the meeting of State presidents of the Southern Tariff Association.

John Henry Kirby, of Houston, president of the organization, and J. A. Arnold, of Washington, vice president and general manager, were questioned by the committee in regard to the activities of the association. Arnold was on the witness stand nine days.

Informed that Arnold had withdrawn his resignation after he received a vote of confidence, Caraway said:

"What good will that do him? The people have withdrawn their contributions and that is the only activity the association had."

Commenting on the denial by Kirby that the association had engaged in "lobbying" in Washington, Caraway said:

"A Negro, when trying to conceal the truth, always says: 'Not as I knows of.' Kirby should have added to his statement, 'Not as I knows of.'" demands by the plaintiff. In addition, Standifer, in his affidavit of merit, stresses the point that Huston solicited the loan.

Attorney Milton W. King appears on behalf of the plaintiff. Discussing the suit last night, King said that so far as he knew his client and the defendant had never been associated in business and that the loan was in the nature of a favor between friends. He added that Standifer had attempted to collect on several occasions in New York City, but had obtained no satisfaction from Huston, although, King says, Huston had, on previous occasions, promised to pay.

Huston's office with the Republican committee is located in the Barr Building, on Seventeenth street northwest. He was reported to be in Washington last night following considerable time spent in New York.

He could not be found for a statement of his side of the case.

Hundreds Join Search for Child's Assailant at Middleton, Tenn.

Middleton, Tenn., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Several hundred men were searching woods near here tonight for an unidentified Negro, who today slashed and attempted to attack a 13-year-old school girl. Although her tongue was slashed by the Negro, the girl was able to tell officers that the Negro waylaid her today as she was walking home from school and stabbed her.

Her screams attracted Maynard Newland, a farmer, and the Negro fled. As word of the attack spread, a mob formed and at 8:30 several hundred men were divided in several posses and seeking the Negro.

The girl was cut across the chin and about the body and was badly bruised. Newland said her clothes had been torn from her body.

She was taken to her father's home and a guard placed about the house.

A telephone call to New Albany, Miss., brought a pack of bloodhounds and they were placed on the Negro's trail.

HOOVER PRESENTS BUDGET SUMMARY

FOUR DIVISIONS LET OUT

In order that the man-in-the-street will be better able to understand the Nation's budget of $3,830,445,231, President Hoover yesterday presented "to the people" his personal summary of the budget, grouped in four divisions under four general purposes.

The startling disclosure of the President's grouping was the fact that approximately 72 per cent of the expenditures by the National Government, for the fiscal year commencing July 1, will be spent to pay for past wars and to provide the sinews for national defense.

In comparison to the $2,733,213,283 to be used for wars, past and future, the $300,307,860 to run the Government, the $511,193,070 for public health, education, aids to business and agriculture and for public works, and the $285,731,018 for trust and other funds and the running of the District seem small.

Wars Draw Big Allotment.

Although the President did not make the analysis, a study of his grouped summary showed that 72 cents of every dollar expended by the National Government, irrespective of the expenditures of the States and cities, would go to pay for the wars of the past and for national defense.

But 8 cents of the dollar will be used to keep the machinery of government going, 13 cents will go to the social and business aids and subsidies, and 7 cents to maintaining the Government's fiscal affairs.

Outstanding in the President's presentation was the item of $1,254,324,000 for the payment of the public debt, both principal and interest. The Government will have to pay to veterans of former wars the sum of $759,799,895, and Congress has been asked by the President to appropriate $719,089,388 for the National defense.

Postal Deficiency Met.

In group two have been placed the legislative, executive, judicial and other expenditures. Foreign relations will cost the United States $16,735,902, and the postal deficiency, due to losses due to contract air mail routes, will amount to $50,098,000.

In group three is placed the cost of the Federal contribution to education, which is but $14,491,938. Aviation will get $22,517,630 and agriculture $51,755,016. The cost of planned public buildings and public works has been placed at $246,012,161.

In group four the President has placed the refunds of taxes and customs at $162,528,500. The running expenses of the District have been set down as $47,880,228.

The budget for the coming fiscal year, if Congress adopts the figures presented by the President, will be $3,830,445,231, while that of the current fiscal year was $3,976,141,651.

HUNTERS FIND BODY OF MISSING AVIATOR

ported, other fliers found it difficult to locate the wreckage.

The clock in the battered craft had stopped at 1:55 a. m., showing that Nelson, who had dared death in crossing the mountains of western Pennsylvania during a blizzard, had been within 20 minutes and within 35 miles of his goal—the Cleveland Airport.

Vincent was so frightened by his discovery that first reports of what he found were indefinite. On first seeing the wreckage, Vincent summoned his hunting companion, Louis Bellinger, also of Cleveland. From the top of the ravine they could not tell what the wreckage was, but after scrambling down the incline they were able to see it was the remains of an airplane.

Vincent and Bellinger then ran a half mile to a telephone and sent out their first meager report. Nearly a half hour later officials of the N. A. T. reached the scene and confirmed the identification of the plane and found the body. They also found the several sacks of United States mail that Nelson had been carrying in the body of the plane.

Nelson was 24 years old. He is survived by a widow, Helen Nelson, and a son, Thomas, jr., of Plainfield, N. J. He was a native of Wilton Junction, Iowa.

Officials of the transport company said Nelson was considered by other fliers at the Cleveland Airport to be the best aviator in this part of the country. He had 2,900 flying hours to his credit and had flown an estimated 290,000 miles.

stfletaoinshrdlcmfwypcmfwypetaoi

Nelson entered the air-mail service with Col. Lindbergh a number of years ago on the run between St. Louis and Chicago. He had one previous serious mishap when on November 6, this year, his plane burst into flames near Ringtown, Pa. On that occasion Nelson cast overboard the mail sacks and jumped safely with his parachute.

The two hunters who found the wreckage of the plane plan to divide the $500 award offered by the N. A. T.

Nelson's body was removed to undertaking rooms at Chardon, Ohio, near here. It will be shipped tomorrow to Plainfield, N. J., for services.

Four Strikes Set In Garment Trades

Walkout in Cleveland on New Year's Day Latest One Scheduled.

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Four strikes in the garment trade had been approved here tonight by the delegates to the International Ladies Garment Workers Union convention. Unanimous approval for a general strike in Cleveland, to begin January 1, 1930, was given by the convention late this afternoon. A few minutes later a strike by 10,000 workers engaged in the manufacture of children's garments in New York City, was voted support. A strike involving 45,000 members in New York City and 10,000 in Philadelphia had been previously approved.

Benjamin Schlesinger, New York, president of the organization, deplored strikes as a means of settling labor difficulties during his address today and said that he hoped it would be possible to obtain a peaceful settlement of the controversies before the strikes went into effect the first of the year.

The controversy leading to the strike requests from various cities with strong local lodges of the Garment Workers Union has involved, principally, the objection of the organization to sweat shops and the trade which manufacturers have given such shops. Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, offered vigorous opposition to the proposition that labor engage in forming a political party with a view to gaining control of government and insuring a better deal for the worker.

progress in our economic life. Beyond this, a great responsibility for stability and prosperity rests with the whole people. I have no desire to preach. I may, however, mention one good old word—work."

After applause, the meeting heard in quick succession from Secretary Lamont and his Assistant Secretary of Commerce, Julius Klein, and elected Julius H. Barnes, its permanent chairman.

Lamont said the chief contribution business organizations could make to continued prosperity would lie in maintenance of their normal buying of materials and equipment. He pointed out that Federal, State and community building programs for next year would involve the expenditure of "well above $2,500,000,000 and furnish employment to more than 600,000 men."

Any interruption to business prosperity, he predicted, would be of short volume. Klein spoke of the increased organization of American business and asserted that its possibilities of effective cooperation constituted a guarantee against recessions of importance.

An estimate that general construction next year would require $8,000,000,000 was presented by R. C. Marshall, for the Associated General Contractors, who remarked that "speculative money is now flowing back into investment field, stimulating particularly residential construction activity in many sections."

Frank L. Smith, president of the Portland Cement Association, said that the effect of business conferences had been to "establish the hope that demand for building materials in 1930 would equal that of 1929."

In discussing credits, John G. Lonsdale, president of the American Bankers Association, predicted that there would be ample credit available during 1930 on reasonable terms for business conduct and expansion.

Trowbridge Callaway, president of the Investment Bankers Association, and Hiram S. Cody, of the Mortgage Bankers Association, reviewed briefly conditions which led them to agree in general with Mr. Lonsdale's judgment.

S. W. Wilder, for the Manufacturing Chemists Association, said that its members had "entire confidence in satisfactory business during 1930," and intended to carry forward an improvement program that would involve $250,000,000 for the industry.

A. D. Whiteside, of the American Wool Institute, said that industry was "holding its own and would do everything it could to maintain its present situation in production and employment," and had confidence in being able to do so because there was only a 30-day supply of worsteds on hand.

Chairman Barnes on motion of J. H. Fahey, of Boston, appointed a committee of 40 to meet at the end of the session to consider the advisability of maintaining a continuing organization.

Roll Call Continues.

As the roll call of industry continued it brought up Homer L. Ferguson, president of the Newport News Shipbuilding Co., who reported vast improvement in shipyard activities during recent months and an outlook for further expansion soon. Under construction in American yards today, he said, was a $90,000,000 total of commercial vessels and a $32,000,000 total of naval vessels in addition, with export trade prospects that promise further development.

For the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, John W. Blodgett reported that improvement in lumber demand during 1930 would depend on increase of farm building construction.

Clarence L. Collins, representing the National Electrical Manufacturers Association, said electric manufacturing for the first six months of 1930 would probably be 3½ per cent under the volume of the last six months of 1929.

Consumption Is Balanced.

Production of the three leading non-ferrous metals—copper, lead and zinc—F. H. Brownell, vice president of the American Smelting & Refining Co., said is now "more closely balanced to consumption than ever before."

"Copper producers look forward to a prosperous year, with no prospect of wage or force reductions," he continued. "Right now the producers have 40,000 tons more of copper sold ahead than is in existence."

Frederick H. Ecker, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., assured the conference that "the whole institution of insurance—life, fire, surety, casualty and marine—may be depended upon to render service as in the past and in their particular fields a normal and healthy increase in their activities is certain to continue."

Normal Volume of Business.

He predicted a normal volume of business for the next six months and the maintenance of working forces of all life insurance companies at present levels.

A review of merchandising conditions by great executives in various lines was asked by Chairman Barnes at the night session.

"Holiday business is off to a good start generally over the United States and Christmas buying seems to be up to normal," said Alfred B. Koch, president of the National Retail Dry Goods Association. "Taking a test group of stores located in different parts of the United States, we find that business for the first three weeks of November is showing a substantial increase over the same period last year."

He said that the trade judgment was that dry goods sales during the next six months would equal or surpass those of last year "unless some untoward condition industrially developed."

Telegraphic Canvass Made.

Thomas F. Branham, president of the National Wholesale Grocers Association, said that its members had been telegraphically canvassed.

"November sales reports show that for every jobber with a decreased business under last year, we have two jobbers with increases," he said. "Collections are running normal, though the buying tendency is cautious. Price levels are on a safe basis for all food products and inventories are not high."

H. T. Sheets, chairman of the board of the National Retail Association, gave the findings for several retail lines.

Groceries, he said, are finding "average sales at this time better than last year, net profits better and the outlook for 1930 at least fair." Furniture dealers, he said, were finding sales better than a year ago, but installment collections slow.

In men's apparel, where conditions were said to be of more important influence than any other factor, and in women's apparel, business was said to be slightly below last year. Agricultural regions were found to be developing better business than city localities. He asserted that the jewelry trade had a normal business for November and an "encouraging Christmas outlook." He classified shoe sales as slower.

Lunchroom Owner Given Health Fine

Inspector's Report on Ice Box Brings Leads to $25 Sentence.

Nathan Greenstein, who operates a lunchroom in the Stewart Building, faced Judge Isaac R. Hitt in Police Court yesterday on a charge of violating the health regulations regarding public eating places and drew a sentence of $25 or 25 days.

Greenstein, who is familiarly known as "Jo Jo," pleaded not guilty, but an inspector dispatched across the street to make an additional inspection brought back a bag of refuse which he said he had found in the ice box. Judge Hitt then imposed the fine.

Greenstein was brought into court several weeks ago on a similar charge and was given until Wednesday to remedy the condition.

Girl Reserves Need Toys For Shop They Conduct

The toy shop, being conducted for the second year by the Girl Reserves of the Young Women's Christian Association at the Administration Building, Seventeenth and K streets northwest, is in need of additional toys, books, dolls, games and other kinds of gifts—outgrown by their present owners—that would give pleasure at Christmas time to hundreds of boys and girls in the many homes, hospitals, orphanages and associated charities in the District of Columbia.

The Girl Reserves meet every afternoon during the weeks and on Saturday morning to repair, repaint, renew and generally put in first-class condition the used toys that the boys and girls, the mothers and fathers, and the merchants in the city bring in to them, for this purpose. Then, on the Sunday and Monday before Christmas, the reserves distribute the "good-as-new gifts" to the boys and girls who otherwise might not have any toys at Christmas.

METHODISTS ASSAIL TOBACCO CONCERNS

Attempt to Increase se of Cigarettes by Women Is Charged in Meeting.

HOOVER WORDS PRAISED

Vigorous denunciation of the methods used by tobacco companies to increase cigarette smoking among women and charges that "the wet forces are making definite efforts to capture the youth of the country" were made yesterday at the annual meeting of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals.

Declaring that prohibition of the manufacture and sale of tobacco is not intended, the borad of managers adopted a resolution protesting against the "exploitation on billboards of women smoking or in display advertising in magazines and newspapers" and the radio. The practice is "subversive of essential racial interests and should be indignantly rebuked by American public sentiment," the resolution stated.

Replying to a statement of Representative Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts, suggesting that the Senate lobby committee "unmask the indefensible political activities" of the Methodist board and the Federal Council of Churches, the temperance group adopted another resolution demanding the investigation of all associations or societies which appear before Congressional committee either for or opposed to prohibition if the Methodist board is to be called on the carpet.

Senator Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, chairman of the lobby committee, last night said that he had not received the resolution, but that if there is a real demand for such an inquiry he would not oppose it. The lobby committee is overwhelmingly dry.

Another resolution adopted called for the enactment of such legislation "as may be suitable in protecting the right of worship and the right of periodic rest" in the District.

Approval was expressed of the proposal of Senator Harris (Democrat), Georgia, to introduce a resolution providing for additional funds to be used in prohibition enforcement.

The secretaries of the board were directed to conduct an educational campaign among the young people of the Methodist Church against the use of tobacco.

D. Stewart Patterson, young people's secretary, decried the efforts of the wets to win the support of the youth of the country and declared that "there has not been one-fourth of the drinking among students (high school and college) as has been claimed by opponents of prohibition."

Lavish praise was voiced yesterday by Ernest H. Cherrington, of the Antisaloon League, on the stand taken on law enforcement by President Hoover in his message to Congress. It was called "the greatest recommendation as well as pronouncement on national prohibition ever made by a President to Congress."

A statement from Dr. William Hiram Foulkes, executive chairman of the National Loyalty Commission of the Presbyterian Church, likewise lauding the message was transmitted to the Chief Executive yesterday from Philadelphia.

Rum Police Chase Driverless Auto

Car oGes Half-Mile Before It Strikes Pole and Dumps Liquor.

Prince Georges County police discovered an automobile which ran for more than half a mile without a guiding hand.

County Policeman V. M. Nichols and Deputy Sheriff Harry Robinson were in wait for rum runners on the Southern Maryland pike when they saw a small coupe which they had been told about. After a chase of more than a mile, the driver made a sharp right turn at Red's Corner and leaped out. Nichols went after him but was unable to catch him.

The automobile continued down the road and the police again gave chase, believing it was still under human control. A half-mile farther the car collided with a telegraph pole, turning over. The policemen found to their surprise that the only occupant was a load of 272 quarts of alleged liquor.

120-Foot Brick Chimney Is Razed by Dynamite

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Dec. 5.—The dynamiting of the 120-foot brick chimney of the J. P. Houck Tanning Co., which for 39 years was Harrisonburg's tallest structure, has removed practically the last vestige of what for a half century was the city's principal industrial plant.

The removal of the landmark was to clear the two-block area in the heart of the city formerly occupied by the tannery. Only one of the tannery buildings now remains, and it is being converted into other uses. The plant had been idle since the World War. The razing operations have been in progress for the last two years.

Mrs. Church Hints Million-Dollar Alienation Suit Against Stepmother.

HUSBAND SPEEDS TO HER

San Francisco, Calif., Dec. 5 (A.P.). While Mrs. Agnes Aurelia Church, wife of Francois Louis Church, son of the late Elihu Church, millionaire baking powder manufacturer, awaited the arrival of her divorced husband, whom she expects to remarry here or in Europe, she threatened today to bring an alienation of affec- mother. Church, she revealed, is speeding Westward either by airplane or train and is expected within the next two or three days.

Mrs. Church, with her aunt, Mrs. Winifred Bateman, arrived in San Francisco last night from Reno, where she was granted a divorce from Church on the technical ground of non-support.

Mrs. Church declared the divorce was forced upon her by the stepmother, Mrs. Joseph H. Urdang. "I learned," she said, "that Mrs. Urdang objected to Francois marrying because she wanted him to marry some girl of the Urdang family so that the Church money or part of it would not go to me.

"But Francois paid no attention to her and we were married."

Mrs. Church while here will claim a $30,000 draft representing a portion of the settlement reported made by the Church family incidental to separation from her husband. She mentioned the possibility of a $1,000,000 alienation of affections suit. "If Mrs. Urdang doesn't stop meddling with my husband and me I'll go right back to New York and file a $1,000,000 alienation suit against her," she said.

Change in Boiler Laws To Be Discussed Today

Possible amendment of District laws and regulations governing the installation and maintenance of hot water heating plants and related equipment will be considered at a meeting of the District officials called for 10 o'clock this morning.

The meeting is an outgrowth of the McCrory explosion, which cost several lives and the injury of many others. The study of existing regulations is being made by a special board composed of Col. John W. Oehlmann, building inspector; P. M. Greenlaw, inspector of steam boilers, and A. R. McGonegal, inspector of plumbing. These three officials were appointed by Maj. D. A. Davison, assistant Engineer Commissioner, as a committee to study existing regulations with a view to remedying any defects. A report will be made to Col William B. Ladue, Engineer Commissioner.

I. C. C. SEES DANGER IN CARRIER MERGERS

Report Says That Congress Shoud Pass New Rail-Combine Legislation.

VAN SWERINGENS NAMED

(Associated Press.)

The Interstate Commerce Commission believes large holding corporations may, through the purchase of competing railroads, defeat the purpost of the plan for "orderly" consolidation of lines upon which the commission is working and expects to complete soon.

Naming specifically the Alleghany Corporation, a Van Sweringen organization, and the Pennroad Corporation, majority stock of which is owned by stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad, as two companies apparently effecting virtual consolidation "through common control of affiliation," the commission recommended to Congress yesterday in its annual report legislation to deal with these companies.

"It seems clear," the report said, "that the acquisition of control of an amount of stock sufficient to influence the policies of competing railroads, either by individuals or by noncarrier corporations, may result in the suppression of competition in a manner no less harmful than if such control be exercised directly by one carrier over another."

Under the Clayton act, railroads are prohibited from acquiring control of competing lines without the consent of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the consolidation program now being drafted by the commission is designed to facilitate unifications in the interest of the public along the general lines laid down by the commission. By use of holding corporations, however, the commission contended that "the orderly processes of a carefully planned scheme of public regulation is very likely to be partially or even wholly defeated, subject to the possibility that the Clayton antitrust act may in some measure, after protracted litigation, enable control over the situation to be maintained."

No specific recommendation for legislation was made by the commission. Asserting that difficult legal, and perhaps constitutional questions are involved, the commission merely called the problem "together with its evident dangers, to the attention of the Congress, accompanied by an expression of our conviction that it merits thorough consideration."

Mystery Woman Not Banker's Wife

Detained at Hospital, She Proves That She Is Not Mrs. Crouse.

St. Clairsville, Ohio, Dec. 5 (A.P.). A woman whose appearance answered closely a description of Mrs. Beecher Crouse, missing wife of a wealthy Utica, N. Y., banker, was located today at the Belmont County Infirmary near here, but officials who investigated said they were virtually convinced that she is not Mrs. Crouse.

The woman herself denied that she is the banker's missing wife. She gave her name as Mrs. Elizabeth McCullogh and inquiry by police at Bellaire, in this county, revealed that she had been in that city several times during the last year. Mrs. Crouse disappeared only five weeks ago.

Considerable mystery, however, enshrouded the woman's appearance at the infirmary, her account of her own life and her interest in the case of the New York woman. The close resemblance between Mrs. McCullogh and Mrs. Crouse and the discovery that she was wearing a hat purchased in a store at Mohawk, N. Y., near Utica, caused prompt investigation.

FIRE FIGHT HURRIED AND SHOW IS SAVED

Jefferson Blaze Battlers Are Recalled in Time to Go on Stage.

PLAY WELL PRESENTED

"The show must go on!" shouted the chief of the Jefferson District Fire Department, as he recalled several of his men from the burning roof of a house, just off the Richmond highway, last night.

And with the spirit of real troupers the members of the cast of "A Fortunate Calamity" ceased chopping holes in the roof, a job from which they seemed to get much enjoyment, and raced back to the auditorium of the fire house at Virginia Highlands in time to start the performance just five minutes later than the program called for.

Although the plot was a simple one, the story was admirably portrayed by Mrs. J. L. Frank as a proud mother, Miss Ruth Garber and Miss Vivian Affwine as her two daughters, who were finally wed, respectively, to George McCoy as Bernard Guillan and B. S. Kidwell as Albert Campbell.

A. P. Koch completed the romantic atmosphre, when, as Joe Brown, a revenue officer, he married Kate Van Tyle, a good-natured cook, played by Mrs. Carrie Painter.

Miss Ruth Richart as Dinah Johnsing, a colored servant, divided the comic relief with Warren C. Norwood, who was particularly enjoyable as Rastus Juhnsing, the easy-going husband of Dinah.

Contrary to expectations in amateur theatricals, not a cue was missed or a line forgotten and the only disturbance of the entire program was occasioned by the return of the remaining members of the Fire Department, who had succeeded in extinguishing the fire and were racing the engines of their trucks in celebration, directly beneath the auditoriumu.

Women Drivers Score Few Hits at Lynchburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 5.—Of the drivers of automobiles which were involved in automobile accidents here during November, only two were female. The other 73 were male drivers, 18 years or more of age. Forty-one of the mishaps were to drivers whose ages ranged between 25 and 54 years.

Woman Drops Bottle, Leaves in Great Hurry

Hurrying through a corridor of the State, War and Navy Building yesterday morning, a young woman dropped and broke a bottle which bore a "cider" label, but the contents that trickled along the tile flooring smelled strongly of a liquid stronger than cider and forbidden.

The young woman left the building in great haste following the mishap.

Lamont Street Safe Resists Their Efforts, So They Get "Small Change."

WATCHMAN IS GAGGED

After cutting all telephone wires, four robbers early yesterday entered the Arcade-Sunshine Laundry Building at 713 Lamont street northwest by use of a duplicate key, bound and gagged the watchman and after half an hour's work escaped with approximately $400.

Their faces covered by masks of white gauze, the four seized James Russell, 70-year-old colored watchman, and secured him in a chair, while one stood guard over the watchman, the other three searched the place.

Ransacking the cash tills of the office, the robbers obtained the $400, then turning their attention to the safe, they succeeded in knocking the combination dial off, but were unable to open it. The safe contained $4,000 of the firm's funds.

After half an hour's work, the robbers gave up in disgust. Before leaving, they freed the watchman from his chair and ordered him to keep quiet under a threat of death while they backed out of the place, locking the door behind them. As soon as the invaders had departed, the watchman notified police of the Tenth Precinct. Russell told police all four were armed and furnished police with a description of them.

Forty thousand cigarettes of assorted brands were stolen early yesterday from the William Delches Co., tobacco merchants, at 410 H street northeast by thieves, who gained entrance by sawing bars from a rear second story window. The loot was valued at $200.

James W. McKee informed police that thieves gained entrance to his restaurant at 1817 Adams Mill road northwest by smashing the glass of a rear window and, after ransacking the place, escaped with $45 from the cash drawer.

COMMERCE GROUP TO DISCUSS PARKS

Monthly Luncheons to Be Devoted to Playground Problems of City.

MEETING DECEMBER 10

Monthly luncheons, devoted to discussions of the park playground and public thoroughfare systems of the Capital, will be held each month by the Chamber of Commerce. This was decided yesterday at a meeting at the Homer Building of the committee on parks, playgrounds, highways and bridges of the organization.

Each meeting, which will be held at the City Club, is to be given over to the consideration of special subjects relating to the work of the committee. Officers of the Federal and District governments having jurisdiction of parks and playgrounds will address the meetings.

Consideration was given by the committee to the suggestion to make a park of the Sixteenth street reservoir because of the discontinuance of its use for water storage. A subcommittee was appointed to study the project.

It was also announced yesterday at the organization's offices that a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held December 10 at the Mayflower Hotel. The occasion will be known as "Retail Trade Night."

William Butterworth, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will be the speaker of the evening. Representatives of the leading mercantile firms in the city will be guests of honor. Among the guests will be:

FOR PROSPERITY.

President Hoover's appearance before a distinguished group of business and industrial leaders at the United States Chamber of Commerce marked the transition of leadership in the movement for economic stability from public to private hands. The President called the foremost men in economic affairs of the country together and drew from them promises that business would not be curtailed. He brought about a restoration of confidence in the people. He pledged the Government to extensive development programs. It is quite proper that he should now resign leadership in favor of a group which is capable of carrying out this policy throughout the business world.

The stabilization program, which at first was thought to be a mere psychological gesture, becomes a far-reaching practical plan for maintenance of every major industry at its normal productivity. Confidence in continued prosperity has a solid basis. There is no thought of the Government meddling in private affairs to steer business through a critical period. Mr. Hoover has pointed the way and set the example, leaving to business itself the task of making the plan effective.

Mr. Hoover's reference to the "one good old word—work" signifies a wholesome evolution in economic philosophy. Formerly when a period of depression was imminent the watchword was to save, to restrict operations and wait for better times. This very tendency made depression periods more severe. When the President found hundreds of industrial chiefs assembled together to plan expansion, loosening of credit, and stimulation of buying to avert a slump in production, it is not surprising that he declared: "This is a far cry from the dog-eat-dog attitude of the business world of some 30 or 40 years ago. The very fact that you gentlemen have come together for these broad purposes represents an advance in the whole conception of the relationship of business to public welfare."

The President's program has already brought results. He pointed out that capital is becoming more abundant in all parts of the country, and the bond market is growing stronger. The response which his appeal has brought from State and municipal governments, as well as from industrial, business, agricultural and labor leaders, suggests that the possibilities of economic cooperation have not heretofore been realized. This is a force that has not been utilized. It can work wonders for the prosperity of the people.

UNIT OIL OPERATION.

Adoption of a "unitization" policy for development of oil pools provides a new approach to problems growing out of the widespread overproduction and waste of petroleum and natural gas. The American Petroleum Institute has heretofore sought to bring about a blanket agreement for limitation of production, which runs counter to the antitrust laws. The unit development has been fostered by the Government, and there can be no objection to it legally or economically.

Under present conditions when oil is discovered in a field in which a number of different companies have holdings there is invariably a race for development. Every company must sink a well with great speed to prevent other companies from drawing out more than their share of the oil in the pool. To hasten the process many wells are frequently opened on the same holding, which means that neighboring interests must match this wasteful duplication. The result is a high percentage of waste and excessive production costs. A more serious result is that the markets are glutted with oil, a considerable amount of which is "dumped" in foreign countries, and this irreplaceable resource is rapidly diminished.

Under the policy proposed by the Institute each oil pool would be developed as a single unit. This method calls for cooperation of all interests owning holdings in the pool. Instead of each sinking a well to beat his neighbors, cooperative wells would be scientifically located and each property holder would share in the output. A pool would be developed with only a fraction of the wells that are used under present conditions. Production costs would be substantially cut down and the output would be regulated over a much longer period.

This plan also opens the way for conservation of natural gas. Storage capacity for gas is usually not available, and a market is frequently lacking when an oil field is exploited. Under those conditions the gas should be pumped back into the oil pool to keep the pressure stronger. Because this restoration of gas pressure is usually neglected under competitive development only a fraction of the petroleum in the pool is recovered.

The most striking achievement of the Interior Department in the oil conservation field is the agreement which it negotiated for cooperative development of the Kettleman Hills field in California. The policy of the Petroleum Institute is patterned after this enterprise. A committee is to be organized to cooperate with the institute in promoting the plan throughout the oil industry in America. If the oil producers put the plan into practice it should go a long way toward establishment of economical production.

TWO NEW JUDGES.

Senator Capper has earned the thanks of the District for his immediate response to President Hoover's request for the strengthening of the judiciary. His bill providing for two additional justices for the District Supreme Court is deserving of prompt attention of Congress.

The justice which is guaranteed to every person by the Constitution can not be given by a court which has more than 700 indictments pending, some of which are more than four years old. Such conditions result in punishment of some who are not guilty and in the escape of many criminals from just punishment. Congestion in the civil courts is hardly less serious. Any attempt to make the District a model for law enforcement is hopeless until this condition is corrected.

The bill will have the support of the administration and of every senator and representative who is interested in the welfare of the National Capital. There should be no delay in its enactment.

A ROOSEVELT STADIUM.

When Lindbergh came to Washington upon his return from the flight to Paris there was no satisfactory place in which to hold a public reception. The Naval and Military Academies can not be brought to Washington for their important football games because there is no field upon which to play. The National Capital needs a stadium in which important events of nation-wide importance can be staged. Until it is built the facilities of the Capital can not be held complete.

The Board of Trade has been interested in the stadium project for some time. A year or so ago it approached officials of the Roosevelt Memorial Foundation with the suggestion that the memory of President Roosevelt could be perpetuated most fittingly by a stadium located in Washington and bearing his name. The board was assured that the suggestion would receive consideration. This week, following a conference between the board, District officials and representatives of the Allied Architects of Washington, it was decided to begin work immediately upon the preparation of plans for a coliseum, to be located in the eastern section of the city, on a line with the Capitol, the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial. This marks the first definite step toward securing for the District the stadium and coliseum that is so sorely needed.

The Roosevelt Memorial Foundation has in hand approximately $1,000,000 and is in the process of raising an additional million or more. No decision has as yet been made as to what shape the proposed memorial will take. Under any circumstance, a great coliseum and sports arena would be a more fitting memorial to the great sportsman-President than a monument of no utilitarian value. If a plan for a dignified, artistically beautiful and imposing structure is prepared, it may provide the impetus needed to win the foundation to the idea.

REVISING STATE BOUNDARIES.

Seldom is such an audacious enterprise launched as that sponsored by the Chicago Tribune, which aims to bring about rearrangement of State lines throughout the Nation. The Tribune offered a prize of $3,500 for the best map showing how State lines could be drawn more logically and with greater convenience for the people. But, fanciful as this idea is, it is not without interest in this age of shifting population and rapid development of cities.

Chicago has spread out into Indiana, and all of southern Wisconsin is tributary to it. Southern Illinois, on the other hand, is tributary to St. Louis. New York is the pivotal center for Connecticut and New Jersey, but is only distantly connected with the up-State counties. Kansas City, it is pointed out, is in both Missouri and Kansas. It might be added that part of Arizona is accessible only from Utah because of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. Many other examples of awkward boundaries under present conditions might be noted.

One other reason which prompts the Tribune to advocate realignment of boundaries is the wide difference in density of population. New York, with 12,000,000, has no greater representation in the Senate than Nevada with 77,000. Joseph R. Grundy recently suggested that the "backward States" be silent when the Senate acted on such important measures as the tariff. The proposed adjustment would remedy the evil by paring down the populous States and building up those sparsely settled.

Southern California periodically threatens to secede from the northern portion of that State. A movement for the division of Kansas was recently agitated because the Legislature refused to reapportion seats in the Legislature. There has also been talk of dividing Florida. But these schemes never amount to anything more than talk, because the Constitution prohibits both division and junction of States without the consent of their legislatures. No State would submit to any loss of territory. Whatever may be the disadvantages of the present State boundaries they are fixed by social and political ties which could not be removed even though the Constitution were circumvented.

Movements of this kind exaggerate the importance of State lines. Boundaries between States are not trade barriers, as they are between the political divisions of Europe. Interests of the States are similar, trade is free, laws are similar and traditions, social customs and governments differ but little. With the development of communications, growth of interstate commerce and unification of laws those differences are becoming constantly less important. Under these conditions the suggestion of a rearrangement of State lines has no practical importance.

VIA RHODE ISLAND AVENUE.

Washington can well join with Maryland in celebration of the opening of Rhode Island avenue from Mount Rainier, on the District line, to Hyattsville. This new concrete highway will be opened with a parade and appropriate ceremonies on Saturday.

From the viewpoint of Washington, the chief significance of this project is that it opens a new and attractive approach to the city. Rhode Island avenue has previously been open to the District line, but traffic by this route has been diverted to the Washington-Baltimore boulevard through Bladensburg. This route is indirect and congested, and is not wide enough to carry all the traffic between Washington and the great Eastern cities.

The extension of Rhode Island avenue will bring much of this traffic into the city through the residential section of the Northeast. It provides a more attractive approach to the National Capital than the existing route by way of H street, and affords better distribution of the traffic after it reaches the business district. Cut-offs to the Northwest residential section will be more accessible.

Another valuable improvement has been made in the elimination of the railroad crossing in Hyattsville. This will tend to popularize the Bladensburg route, but prospects are that a considerable portion of the traffic will use Rhode Island avenue because of the direct approach it offers. It may be found necessary to widen the new road before long to meet this demand. Increased traffic on the avenue within the District will make removal of the central trolley poles advisable. The District should cooperate wherever necessary to effectuate this important approach to the city.

THE FUNCTIONS OF A DISTRICT ATTORNEY

From Law Notes.

A political campaign now being conducted in New York City has brought out some discussion of the question whether it is the duty of a prosecutor merely to try criminal cases on such evidence as the police department secures, or whether he should himself conduct an active investigation of each crime and be responsible for the absence of adequate evidence to convict. Of course in small rural communities when a serious crime is committed the prosecuting attorney must take the initiative, since he is usually the only officer with brains and training adequate to the occasion. But confining the matter to large cities with extensive police and detective departments, under a chief presumably chosen for experience and fitness, active intervention by the prosecutor would result in nothing but conflict of authority and confusion of effort. Moreover, if the office of prosecuting attorney is to be maintained at a decent professional level, its functions must be confined to the scope of professional conduct and not extend into the field of police work which is necessary but rests on a foundation of low ethics.

The reports contain cases where it was shown to the satisfaction of an appellate court that the district attorney was present while a confession was extracted by brutal torture. How can such a man walk into court the next day to serve as a minister of justice, representing the state whose law he has just aided in breaking?

The virtues of British justice come from several causes, but it is believed that the most important is that the crown prosecutors are barristers of ability and dignity, trained to high professional standards, and conducting themselves during the trial with scrupulous fairness. We have too many prosecutors now whose sole ambition is to cut notches in their gun stocks and get their names on the front page.

To promulgate the idea that the district attorney's office has the functions of a detective bureau would multiply these and drive into disgusted retirement the worthy prosecutors that we now have.

Of course the desire to have the district attorney take part in investigation of cases springs from natural motives. In few cities is the head of the police department a man competent for his position. In few instances has he had the years of training which fits him for its heavy demands. It would be invidious to give instances; let the resident of every large city look at his chief of police and reflect whether he is qualified as men must be qualified to hold responsible positions in business. With a high class detective at the head of the forces of detection and a high class lawyer to present criminal cases in court, holding himself aloof from all partisanship for the police, saying as do English prosecutors, "I am instructed," and the problems of the administration of law would be largely solved.

The greatest and oldest of our fraternal orders admonishes those who have taken its degrees: "Let nothing be more intolerable in your sight than letting yourself down to a lower level. Bid men come up to you, and refuse to descend a single step to them." How many of our prosecutors have heard with attentive ear this charge? How many recall it as an ethical guide in dealing with police officers in the preparation of a case for trial?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

EVER AND EVER.

Ever and ever the day returns
And tawdry the tasks are seeming,
Nor duller nor brighter the forge fire burns,
Nor changes my age old dreaming.
Life must be lived to the last pale minute
And who can tell me the secret in it.

Ever and ever I face the day
An intangible hope pursuing,
Planning and toiling as best I may
And bound to the task I'm doing,
Yet rises the dream that my life shall be Fit for the eyes of all men to see.

I have been granted a measure of time,
How much or how little I know not,
Yet I must get out of the mud and the slime
And the places where mortals grow not,
By a stronger force than a sense of duty
I am upwards urged to the things of beauty.

Ever and ever in spite of despair
And the shackles which bind and fetter,
I set my face to the winds of care
And struggle for something better.
Troubled and puzzled by life's strange plan,
Yet constantly driven to play the man.

The Sheep Think a Strange Dog More Dreadful Than the Wolf They Know.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE textile industry of the South is in the midst of a family quarrel. There are strikes, floggings, murders. Unionism has invaded the last stronghold of Bourbonism.

And the outside world does not understand, and never will understand, until it recognizes the quarrel as a contest between prejudice and progress.

Textile workers receive an average wage of less than $15; they live in "company" houses that are mere shells; they are undernourished; their wives and children must work in the mill; they endure privations and hardships unknown to other workers in America.

And yet they reject and resent the proffered help of Northern "organizers."

They whip and threaten with death the alien messiahs who bring them a promise of shorter hours and higher wages.

This resentment of outside interference is not universal. Many accept alien leadership and follow where it leads, else there would be no strikes—no violence—no struggle.

But many more—perhaps a majority—look upon their would-be saviors as the most sinister of enemies.

Why? Why do poor men, denied a share in the land's prosperity and progress, hate the "friends of labor" who offer them salvation?

Because they are a clannish people, the descendants of clannish mountaineers for the most part, and the labor organizers are "furiner"—aliens—damned Yankees.

Because the textile workers guard their racial superiority as a starving man guards his one remaining crust.

And because word has gone about that the aliens are communists who do not believe in God or the sacredness of marriage.

That is the explanation. Men who are down will not accept a helping hand they think unclean.

They are beginning to be conscious of ill treatment; they feel a vague resentment against the scheme of things; but they will not be saved by "outsiders" and "atheists."

Organized labor has more on its hands than a war against "capitalism." It must overcome prejudices that are bred in the bone before it can win the hearts of those it would save.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

STREET CORNER VERSION OF THE POLAR FLIGHT.

"I see the South Pole's been discovered."

"Yeah? By who?"

"By a feller named Byrd."

"You got it wrong. The South Pole was discovered long ago. I remember hearing about it."

"It was not. Byrd just discovered it in an airplane."

"Don't pull that, sister, unless you wanna be laughed at."

"I can show it to you in the newspapers. It was just discovered by Byrd and three other fellers."

"You're all mixed up. He only flew over the South Pole. He didn't discover it."

"What did he fly over it for, then?"

"That's his business."

"You're so smart, if he didn't discover the pole, who did?"

"Livingstone."

"Yeah, he and George Washington."

"You don't need to get nasty about it. I'm only setting you straight so you won't talk foolish."

"Lissen. I read all the articles. If the South Pole was already discovered by somebody what would Byrd bother about it for?"

"For science."

"Science?"

"Sure."

"Why didn't the guy who discovered it tell science all about it?"

"He didn't find out much. That's why Byrd is there. From an airplane he can get a better idea what it's all about."

"You're silly. It's all snow and ice, ain't it?"

"Sure.'

"Well, is snow any different from an airplane than it is from a sled?"

"There's other things at the South Pole besides snow."

"What, f'instance?"

"How do I know?"

'Youre supposed to be smart. I thought you knew everything."

"I ain't even interested. If I wanted to know what's there as bad as you do I'd be up there with Byrd."

"You an' your friend Livingstone."

"What Livingstone?"

"I dunno. You brought him up. I suppose you'll be saying Byrd didn't discover the North Pole, either."

'Of course he didn't."

"Ha! Livingstone did that too, eh?"

"No."

"Who, then?"

"Mason and Dixon."

"They and Moran and Mack, eh?"

"Go ahead and wisecrack if you want to. I'm only trying to give you the straight dope."

"I know what I'm talking about. Byrd discovered the North Pole and then he discovered the South Pole."

"On the face of it, you're crazy. Nobody would be foolish enough to discover two poles."

"Why not?"

"When you've seen one pole you've seen 'em all!"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Vermont Citizen, Also a Washingtonian, Deprecates Meddling in Manchuria.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am a citizen of Vermont. It is my custom to spend the winter months in your city; rather, "our" city, the Nation's City.

As a subscriber and regular reader of your excellent paper, when in the city, I wish to voice pleasure and satisfaction in your editorial words in the issue of this morning, under caption "Meddling in Manchuria."

It is a timely, strong, direct, worthy statement of view by an important organ of public information and influence. You do well, it seems to me, in thus clearly bringing the facts to public attention for thought and due consideration.

With the general spirit and purport of your editorial I am in full accord.

As one of the general public, I was startled and surprised by the announcement of the act by the Nation's Department of State.

The act is executed; forces have been set into motion; results will surely follow; whether happily for this Nation is an open question; the trend and ultimates of immense forces set in motion are not easily or fully to be foreseen.

Your editorial points toward, and implies, possible complications not now capable of measurement, in their final influence on national and world affairs.

America has had, indeed, a "fixed policy." It is to be hoped that its foundation has not been disturbed or weakened. JAMES B. ESTEE,

The George Washington Not a Wet Ship, So Naval Negotiators "Compromise" on the Bremen.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The American delegation to the London naval conference, it is now announced, will sail from New York on the North German Lloyd steamer Bremen. Originally it had been planned to go over on the White Star liner Olympic, but such a storm of criticism was raised over the prospect of an official American delegation proceeding to a conference on maritime matters in an English vessel that the original plans were abandoned. Acceptance of bookings on the German liner, it is said, represents a "compromise."

The American steamship George Washington could have been used, since it sails on January 10. The Bremen sails on January 11, which will enable the American delegation to spend an additional day in the United States. But since so little can be accomplished in one day, it is assumed that some "unsatisfactory features" led to the abandonment of the George Washington. Were the George Washington a wet ship, the additional day on the high seas would have been held an attraction rather than a drawback.

Well, if Government officials insist upon traveling on wet foreign ships let them pay their own fare. The law prohibits the Government from financing booze trips by Federal employes. E PLURIBUS UNUM.

Snow and Ice Should Be Removed From Sidewalks at Cost of Property Owners.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Are there no regulations requiring householders and storekeepers to clean their walks immediately following a snowstorm? And if not, why not? It is an outrage that for days after a storm many streets are notorious for their icy, slushy walks, and we unfortunates who are obliged to venture out, and the children schoolward bound, are risking life and limb uselessly. School walks, church walks, and even vast factories make no pretense of cleaning their sidewalks save for a narrow space from the curb to their doors.

If there is no law requiring the immediate removal of snow and ice, for God's sake let us have one at once, and let it provide that policemen on their beat notify each and every householder and storekeeper to clean up forthwith, and if, after four hours the walks are still messed up with snow, slush or ice, let the District government hire laborers to perform the duty ignored by the rightful ones, and file the cost as a lien against the property. JOHN VINCENT LUCAS.

From One of the Unlucky Guys Who Is Never Present When the Senate Breaks Loose.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I guess I am one of those unlucky jerrys who always arrive on the scene when the excitement is all over. Judging by what I see in the papers they must be some real lively times in Congress once and again. And that's one of the things I don't so much like to read about as to see.

Take that branch of Congress which old Don Platt way back in the seventies of the hoop-skirt century used to call the Cave of the Winds, now known as the paddock of the wild —— No, I never was present when John Sharp Williams was feeling his senatorial oats in the good old days. Although I would love to be one of those present when a politician or a political party is being parboiled. I have always been one of the not counted when Senator Harrison presided at the grid.

Inasmuch as these ordinary shindigs and free-for-alls are concerned, it is an unpleasant fact that I have always missed my opportunity when the wild—well, when they break loose. A. SAPP.

A Question for Evolutionists—But Don't All Speak at Once.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One question I wish to ask evolutionists: If man is descended from the anthropoid ape, as you contend, at what stage of the evolution did he acquire the human soul? Or are we to believe that our cousins, the anthropoid apes, have souls today?

I believe that all animal and vegetable matter evolutes and improves, but I can't accept the doctrine that my ancestors lived in a tree.

Will some evolutionist be kind enough to answer my question?

ITALIAN ROYAL PAIR CALL ON POPE PIUS

First Event of Its Kind Held With Simple Ceremony in Vatican City.

GASPARRI RETURNS VISIT

Rome, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—A king of united Italy paid a visit to a pope today for the first time in history.

Giving public evidence that the Lateran treaties, which settled the Roman question, had ended difficulties between the papacy and the house of Savoy, King Victor Emanuel and Queen Helena went to the Vatican and were received by Pius XI in the throne room.

The royal trip from the Quirinal palace to the Vatican was made privately and without display in eight automobiles. Guards on motorcycles escorted the party as far as the old papal fortress, the Castel of Sant Angelo, where the visit became official.

Soldiers Guard Way.

From the castel the king and queen and their suite proceeded through files of soldiers to St. Peter's Square, which had been cleared of people and was guarded by papal troops.

The interview between the king and Pope followed a welcome by the Governor of the Vatican City, ecclesiastics and members of the papal court. It lasted twenty minutes, after which the king and queen visited Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, for an interview in his apartment.

The royal couple then visited St. Peter's before returning to the palace. They were on the territory of the Vatican City for about an hour and a half. Pope Pius stood at a second floor window over the main door of St. Peter's to watch them leave.

Presents Are Exchanged.

The Pope and the sovereigns exchanged valuable presents at their interview, the king giving his holiness a pectoral cross studded with jewels and an ancient crucifix, while the Pope gave the king a book about the Vatican coin collection and three commemorative medals. To Queen Helena the Pope gave a rosary of precious stones and a mosaic picture.

Cardinal Gasparri, on behalf of Pope Pius, returned the royal visit shortly after the king and queen had left the Vatican City. The cardinal also left his card for Foreign Minister Grandi at Chigi Palace. Foreign Minister Grandi accompanied the royal party to the Vatican.

Another result of the Lateran treaty was seen today when the new Archbishop Monterisi of Salerno, and Bishop Taccone of Ruvo, swore fealty to the king.

SENATE TO END VARE CASE AT NOON TODAY

A. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association, who created such a stir before the Senate lobby investigating committee here recently, will first be tendered the vacant post. Should he for any reason decline, the position will be offered to Henry P. Fletcher, former Ambassador to Italy, and then Cyrus E. Woods, former Ambassador to Japan, former secretary of State for Pennsylvania and an intimate friend of Gov. John S. Fisher.

Following them, other names suggested include those of W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Owen J. Roberts, Government counsel in the oil cases, and Representative George S. Graham, chairman of the House judiciary committee.

These names have been suggested largely, however, because of the political prominence of the men rather than with any inkling of a decision on the part of the organization.

Must Fit Whole Ticket.

The question must first be settled as to whether Vare intends to again seek the seat by entering the primary this summer. So far as known he has never said whether he would or would not, but it has been strongly intimated on his behalf that this was his plan.

Should he decide to run then, Fisher's appointment would be of a temporary or stop-gap variety, or as the cynics say, a seat warmer.

Fisher's appointment at any event must be made to fit in with the entire State ticket that the Pennsylvania organization has to set up for next year's elections.

This whole thing, beginning with the defeat by Vare of Senator George Wharton Pepper in the 1926 primaries has been a farce, Senator Waterman told the Senate and he severely condemned former Gov. Pinchot.

"We have squandered hundreds of thousands of dollars in ferreting and running this thing down," he said, "all occasioned by the indecent methods that were sponsored by Gov. Pinchot and his class in Pennsylvania, not for the purpose of electing Mr. Wilson but for the purpose of exploiting at public expense and the expense of the Senate this man.

"I say that there never was such a fiasco brought to the attention of the Senate as this has been shown to be. What is the result? It is that the contestant has not made good his case and in my judgment it results fairly in the conclusion that Mr. Vare was elected by a plurality of more than 120,000 legal votes."

Magruder School Plans Resumption of Sessions

The 34 pupils of the Magruder Colored School for crippled children will be able to return to their classes at least by the end of the Christmas holidays, if not before, Garnet C. Wilkinson, first assistant superintendent in charge of colored schools, announced yesterday following the temporary closing of the school because of a breakdown in the heating plant. Radiators will be installed in the Magruder Building and connected with a new steam heating plant in the Sumner School, which is on the same lot. The heating system at Sumner has a boiler which is not in use. The old plant at Magruder was the hot-air system.

The children were sent home Wednesday after several unsuccessful attempts were made to raise the temperature in the school to above 60 degrees. Despite roaring furnaces and a shortage in coal, the heating plant could not create a temperature above an average of 55 degrees.

Woman Reports Purse Snatching.

Lucile Mienis, of a third-floor apartment at Fifteenth and U streets northwest, reported to Eighth Precinct police that a colored man, about 25 years old, snatched her purse containing $5 and escaped on U street between Thirteenth and Sixteenth streets northwest at 7:30 o'clock last night. She pursued the man to a nearby alley, but halted at the dark entrance.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Fifty million dollars which had been loaned on call in Wall street are back in St. Louis, fattened by high interest rates during the spring and summer, and eager to be earning something around home this winter. They are available at a period when this big middle western city has been almost without new construction for nine months, eager to finance new projects.

This offsets, to some degree, the losses of some 70,000 persons residing here in the stock market. This estimate is from a careful survey made here, which also counts up 25,000 margin accounts wiped out!

Retail business here is a little under par, with automobiles and radio hardest hit, but the manufacturers of the State, just canvassed by the Associated Industries in order to give the data to the conferences called by President Hoover, show a surprising optimism. A clear majority of the manufacturers of the State expect a material improvement in 1930 over 1929, Elmer Donnell, of the Associated Industries, told the writer as he worked over the reports. Some few of the manufacturers expect a slight falling off in the next six months, but assign it to seasonal reasons.

* * * *

FIFTY-SIX PER CENT of the manufacturers of the entire State report collections are normal, while 29.7 per cent report them better than normal, a showing of ability to pay which in view of everything was far better than the most optimistic calculators had figured.

Fifty-two per cent of the manufacturers reported employment conditions in their plants unchanged. Twenty-two per cent reported an increase in the number of workers employed, and 26 per cent a decrease. Nearly 60 per cent, 56.8, to be exact, expect no change in the number of persons employed in the next six months. The remainder are divided precisely evenly (21.6 per cent in each group) between those predicting that more will be employed and those who predict that less will be employed.

On wages these predictions of the Show Me State manufacturers are even more interesting. Those predicting that the present wage scales will be continued during the next six months comprise 86.4 per cent of the total, while less than 3 per cent predict decreases.

The tremendous importance of these figures can not be exaggerated, for it is not a mere expression of opinion, valuable as that might be from the thousands of manufacturers in one of the rich States of the Central West. It is the careful estimate of each man as to what his own plant will do in the next six months.

* * * *

MISSOURI as a whole seems well pleased with what President Hoover has done, especially since the stock crash threatened the business prosperity of the country. Criticism of Washington centers largely on the Senate, which is interesting in view of the fact that although normally Republican, St. Louis is not a high tariff town. The big shoe manufacturers here, for example, are not interested in getting a tariff placed on shoes, now on the free list, as their colleagues in Massachusetts are. Perhaps their different attitude is the result of their distance from ports where imported shoes can be laid down, but at any rate they do not clamor for tariff. But they wish Congress would stop talking about it and do whatever it is going to do. The uncertainty as to various schedules does have a tendency, men in all lines point out, to restrain merchants from buying until they know what prices are going to be.

Incidentally St. Louis is going to cooperate heartily in the public building program President Hoover is encouraging. She has an unexpended balance of $40,000,000 out of an $87,000,000 bond issue for local work. There is strong hope here also that the public improvement spending to help business conditions will result in more rapid progress in solving the Mississippi flood problem.

$50,000 Trousseau Bought By Aix-les-Bains Cinderella

French Candy Girl Who Is to Be Married to Indian Potentate of Fabulous Wealth Prepares for Wedding Ceremonies Saturday.

Paris, Dec. 5.—Preparations are going forward rapidly today for the wedding Saturday of Aga Khan, Indian potentate of fabulous wealth, and his bride, who two months ago was a humble saleswoman in a candy shop at Aix-les-Bains. She has been shopping for a $50,000 trousseau. One of the features of the ceremonies will be the dress of the bride, in the racing colors of her husband.

Immediately after the wedding he will take her to inspect his vast estates in India, though the couple later will make their home in France, where the bridegroom has many villas.

Mlle. Jane Andrye Carron, the bride, is personally supervising the selection of her immense wardrobe, for which she is calling upon the most exclusive fashion houses of the Rue de la Paix. She is living at the Ritz in a sumptuous apartment.

The wedding has aroused considerable interest, with newspapermen and photographers from far and near, as well as many widely known members of French and British society filling up the hotels.

Henri Clearc, the playwright, who is also mayor of Aix, will perform the ceremony.

Aga Khan's gifts to the bride are magnificent. One of them is a huge square cut diamond that cost half a million dollars.

Her wedding dress will be emerald and chocolate, his racing colors, of velvet encrusted with heavy lace, surmounted by a cape worn from the left shoulder and held by a band of weasel fur.

While Mlle. Carron is thrilled over what she is going to wear, Aga Khan, following an old Parisian custom, is receiving the condolences of his bachelor friends on his becoming a benedict.

The civil ceremony over, a religious service will take place in the Moslem Mosque of Paris. Mlle. Carron, however, will retain her own religion.

Their future home will probably be on the shores of Lake Bourget, where the potentate built a chateau recently. His villas are at Cannes, Biarritz and Deauville.

C. U. SHRINE WILL RECEIVE VATICAN MOSAIC THIS MONTH

uable mosaic to the National Shrine. Six men have been working on the artistic design since 1923, when His Holiness first decided upon Murillo's painting as his gift to the Catholics of America.

The head of the Catholic Church, upon the occasion of his visit to the Vatican Mosaic Works, expressed himself as most pleased with the mosaic and congratulated the directors upon the perfect piece of work. He was accompanied on the visit by Cardinal Merry del Val; Mgr. Pellifio, secretary of the mosaic works, and Count Muzzoli, director of the works.

The Rev. Bernard A. McKenna, director of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, was greatly pleased last night at news that the shipment of the mosaic was expected within a few days, and he expressed the hope that it would arrive in Washington in time for display during Christmas week.

Dr. McKenna received the first notice that such a mosaic was to be sent to the Shrine in 1923. It was then that Pope Pius XI ordered the mosaic works to have Murillo's "Immaculate Conception" copied with the greatest care and reproduced as a mosaic.

The first letter in connection with the gift of his holiness came from Mgr. Borgon Gini Duchu, then assistant secretary of state of the Vatican and now representative of the Holy See at the Quirinal. Mgr. Duchu was elevated to the archbishopric last June.

Dr. McKenna saw the original of the "Immaculate Conception" at Madrid and on several occasions, during visits to Rome, saw men working on the mosaic which will be installed in the national shrine here.

The mosaic is 10 feet 6 inches high and 8 feet wide. A temporary chapel at the end of the 304-foot crypt in the national shrine is being erected to house the mosaic upon its arrival in the Capital and until it can be installed permanently in the upper church when that structure is completed.

According to Dr. McKenna, Pope Pius on several occasions expressed the wish that every effort be made to produce a perfect piece of work on the mosaic and that he be permitted to see and approve the completed job before it was sent to America. His holiness, Dr. McKenna declared, wanted the mosaic to be a worthy gift, showing the affection of the pontiff for his spiritual subjects in the United States.

Just a few weeks ago Dr. McKenna received the following letter concerning the mosaic:

"The mosaic of the Immaculate Conception will be completed by the coming December. His holiness sent word that he wished to see it and therefore we are waiting for the highly desired honor of his visit. We hope that the Pope will deign to give his approbation, and as he gives the order, the mosaic will be shipped.

"The work has turned out to be a perfect one and I hope it will meet with yours and everybody's approbation.

"Believe me to be,

"Yours truly and devotedly,

"COUNT CARLO MUZZOLI,

"Director, Vatican Mosaic Works."

SCHACHT MAINTAINS YOUNG PLAN IGNORED

Chief of German Delegation to Reparations Parley Claims Evasion.

NEW BURDENS ARE CITED

Berlin, Dec. 5. (A.P.).—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, chief German delegate to the conference which framed the Young plan for reparations payments, tonight issued a formal protest against what he said were attempts by creditor states and also by the German government itself, to tamper with that plan. He said these efforts were endangering the success of the project.

In a long memorandum addressed to the German government and to all others concerned, Dr. Schacht emphasized that the German delegates signed the Young plan and recommended its adoption on the assumption that the scheme would be respected by all other powers represented at the conference. Furthermore he said the signatures were attached with the understanding that the German financial and economic policies would be revised in such a manner as to enable Germany to bear the burdens imposed by the Young plan.

The financier said these suppositions were not being respected. Although the German delegates specifically did not admit that the total annuities named in the Young plan were bearable by Germany, creditor states were already demanding additional burdens or renunciation.

All these demands taken together, Dr. Schacht said, would run into billions of dollars. In his view there is not the least justification for them under the Young plan.

Also he blames the German government for having done nothing in the way of reforming Germany's budget or reorganizing her finances, as should have been done in view of the changed conditions that are in prospect.

"I want to address a solemn warning to the world to go 'back to the Young plan,'" said Dr. Schacht in explaining his broadside to the Associated Press. "When I signed the Young plan at Paris, I did so because it constituted the maximum of what we would be expected to pay. Also it contains certain possibilities of revision and the experts from other nations agreed unanimously that the figures in the Young plan represented Germany's maximum paying capacity."

McCormick Aid Upsets Defense

Male Nurse Says Wealthy Incompetent Shows No Improvement.

Santa Barbara, Calif., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Conflicting testimony concerning the mental condition of Stanley McCormick was given by two of his attendants today as his wife resumed her court battle to wrest his guardianship from his brother and sister. From Kenneth McKillip, brawny Scotsman, the defense met a reversal in its efforts to show an improved mental condition. McKillip, who for 21 years was the invalid's head nurse, testified that in recent years the patient had shown no advanced mental development.

Withdrawing McKillip from the stand, Oscar Lawler, chief defense counsel, brought Miss Margaret Gleason, present head nurse, to the stand. She praised the manner in which the patient had responded to treatment and teachings in the last two years and said he "was very happy in his home now."

Miss Gleason said McCormick never had been violent with her, although she saw him attempt to strike a male nurse with a shovel less than a year ago. McKillip testified to numerous outbursts of the patient in the last few years and denied that McCormick had lost any of his peculiarities.

League Council Date Set Up to January 13

Geneva, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—The fifty-eighth session of the council of the League of Nations has been advanced to January 13 in order to avoid a clash with the opening of the London naval conference.

The proposal of the Italian representative on the league council that the date be advanced by one week was accepted by a majority of the members. At one stage there was a suggestion that the naval conference be postponed a week, but this was rejected.

Silver Years

"After the golden years of youth, comes those of fine silver."

By GERTRUDE S. TROWBRIDGE.

By GERTRUDE S. TROWBRIDGE.

The average person makes a picture of later years that is altogether too imaginative. It suggests work over, spirit serene and religion on top. Whereas, the only ones to retain zest in life are those who go on working after maturity; they are not serene without effort, and they risk losing ideals and spirituality through fatigue in upholding them. (It is the tendency of fatigue to demand change that is unworthy and degrading.)

Yet this demand for late effort is a good provision for keeping body and brain briskly alive in order to meet increased demands upon our best qualities. Without this hounding toward struggle, we might quit the field before the game is over, the victory won.

If we decide to look into ourselves, not only to regain lost qualities but to add some joyful new ones, where shall we find the technique of redirecting, refreshing and transforming our lives?

Many, many times we have had the answer, from sages of all times and all lands, but we will not listen because they throw responsibility for our condition directly upon ourselves when we should so much prefer to place the blame elsewhere. We do not like the unshakable companionship of the Hound of Heaven, with its nipping suggestion that we ourselves are heaven or hell. So we wander about searching through libraries of the world to see if there is not some easy way whereby to put the wilful part of us into other hands or cloud its naughtiness in mists of obscure cults. We are never so ingenious and queer as when we blame others or try to squirm away from self control.

"Let the counsel of thine own heart stand,
For there is no man more faithful unto thee than it.
For a man's mind is sometime wont to show him more Than seven watchmen who sit above in a high tower."

Men Recalcitrant In Shopping, Claim

Survey Shows Women Are Prompt in Holiday Purchases.

Washington merchants were advised yesterday by Ernest D. Shaw, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, to direct their advertising appeals for earlier Christmas shopping almost exclusively to men.

In connection with the Shop Early-Mail Early campaign of the association, Shaw said that a study of the shopping tendencies revealed that men are more prone to delay than women. The bulk of last-minute shopping is now done by men, the survey reveals.

He declared that experience has shown that the movement for earlier shopping had found response in women buyers, but that men were inclined to delay. "As a result," he said, "the stores have much smaller stocks for them to make their selections."

France to Match German Cruisers

Naval Committee Plans to Out-Build Rival in the Future.

Paris, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—In a report adopted by the naval committee of the Chamber of Deputies today it was argued that France must build cruisers superior to the new Admiral Scheer and the Leipzig, of the German navy.

The report, written by Pierre Appell, recommended approval of the government's 1930 naval construction program. This calls for one cruiser of 10,000 tons, six destroyers, six submarines and a number of auxiliaries, the whole totaling 48,000 tons.

"It is indispensable, however, that by 1931 France begin to build warships better than Germany's best," said the report. The committee decided that Germany's new 10,000-ton cruisers "utilize methods that assume better protection without lessening speed or reducing armament," than do the plans for French vessels of that size.

Records Scanned In Oil Fraud Suit

Aid of Fall Nears End of Testimony in Action to Cancel Lease.

Los Angeles, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—A parade of court history involving alleged bribery and fraud in the leasing of millions of dollars worth of naval oil reserve lands was continued by the Government today in its latest move against the Doheny-Fall scandals.

Edward C. Finney, former first assistant to Albert B. Fall when he was Secretary of the Interior in the late President Harding's cabinet, resumed the witness stand and neared the end of his task of identifying voluminous records of other proceedings involving Edward L. Doheny, oil multimillionaire, and his old friend, Fall.

Through the records the Government hopes to prove that the leasing to the Pan-American Petroleum Co., which Doheny once headed, of $15,000,000 worth of oil lands at Elk Hills, Calif., by Fall, was fraudulent and brought about through bribery, and should be canceled.

Miss Phillips Becomes Bride Of Bostonian

Bishop of Washington Is Officiating Prelate at Nuptials.

By JEAN ELIOT.

A BONNY bride stole the spotlight yesterday from the season's debutantes, who have held the center of the social stage for the last several weeks. She was Miss Faith Phillips, daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Ze Barney Phillips, and she was married to Mr. Guido Rinaldo Perera, the the ceremony taking place in Epiphany Church, of which Dr. Phillips is rector. Afterward there was a brilliant reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Phillips. As Dr. Phillips is chaplain of the Senate, as well as rector of Epiphany, there was important senatorial representation at the wedding, which was attended by groups from official diplomatic and resident society, with all of whom Miss Phillips has been popular. She was a debutante last season.

Mr. Perera is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Perera, of Boston. He is engaged in the practice of law in Boston and he and his bride will make their home there on their return from a honeymoon abroad.

As the guests for the wedding were assembling, Mr. Adolph Torovsky, organist of Epiphany Church, played a program of wedding music and the vested choir sang "O Perfect Love" as a preface to the ceremony. The church was decorated with palms, evergreens and ferns, with calla lilies and cathedral candles on the altar.

The Right Rev. James E. Freemar, Bishop of Washington, officiated, assisted by the bride's father. Dr. Phillips also gave his daughter in marriage, but she was escorted to the altar by her uncle, Dr. Thomas S. Phillips, of Springfield, Ohio.

Miss Phillips' wedding gown was of rare old rose point lace, ivory in tone, which had been in her family for generations. It was designed on princess lines, with close-fitting sleeves and a long skirt with a graceful train. Her veil of lace was mounted on tulle and she carried a shower bouquet of lillies of the valley and orange blossoms.

Miss Sallie Hews Phillips was her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Florence Pierson, of New Orleans, cousin of the bride, Miss Elise Alexander, Miss Laura Tuckerman, Miss Anne Carter Green, of Washington; Miss Elizabeth McClenahan, of Philadelphia, and Miss Jane Trueman, of Kansas City.

They were gowned alike in eggshell satin made on princess lines, the full skirts edged with deep flounces of tulle. The maid of honor had chosen an orchid velvet hat with slippers to match and carried orchids, the other attendants wearing hats and slippers of deep rose velvet and carrying roses.

Mr Charles H. Barnes, jr., of Boston, was best man. The group of ushers included Mr James Todd Baldwin, Mr. Brooks Potter and Mr Hamilton Lockwood, all of Boston; Mr. Raoul Tanteleoni and Mr. Carlo Viccario, of New York; Mr. Luke Lockwood, of Greenwich, Conn.; Mr George Abell and Mr. Julien Greene, of Washington.

Greek Envoy And Wife Are Feted at Home

U. S. Minister Is Host at Athens to Minister and Spouse.

The Minister of Greece and Mme. Simopoulos, who have been abroad since early autumn, are at present in Athens, where they are being much entertained, according to letters from the ancient capital of Greece. The minister, from all accounts, stands exceptionally well with a government appreciative of the importance of his service in the United States and he and Mme. Simopoulos are extremely popular in the diplomatic colony.

Mr. Robert Peet Skinner, who has but recently arrived in Athens to take up his duties as United States Minister to Greece, gave a dinner for M. and Mme. Simopoulos on the evening of November 16, at which Prime Minister Venizelos, "back from Elba," and again reputed the most powerful personage in Greece, was a guest

The return of the Minister and Mme. Simopoulos to Washington is not expected until "some time after Christmas," but they will be given a warm welcome when they do come, for they are popular here as well as in Athens. They entertain delightfully and always for groups chosen with discrimination. Mme. Simopoulos, who is an English woman, is distinguished as one of the best dressed women in the diplomatic corps—and as the best bridge player.

Honor Slated To Be Given to Mrs. Hobart

D.A.R. Head to Be Given Huguenot Cross at Luncheon.

A signal honor will be bestowed upon Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, today at Allentown, Pa., by the Huguenot Society of Pennsylvania, when she will be decorated with the society's Huguenot Cross. The cross was awarded to her at a recent meeting of the Huguenot Society's executive committee "in recognition of the patriotic service rendered by her." The Rev. John Baer Stoudt, the chairman, in notifying Mrs. Hobart of the award and inviting her to be honor guest at a luncheon of 400 persons in Allentown today, stated she was the first American woman to receive the Huguenot Cross.

The society had bestowed the decoration only about twelve times in its history in the United States. Among these recipients were Herbert Hoover, the Queen of Holland, Gaston Doumergue, the president of France; Admiral W. S. Sims, General Pershing, Gen. John A. Lejeune, Gen. Charles P. Summerall, Gen. Wendell C. Neville, John Wanamaker, Robert DeForest and former Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

The design of the medal follows that of the Huguenot cross familiarly used in French families prior to the revocation of the Edict of Nantes in 1685 as a gift of the godmother to the babe at baptism, and on other church, festive and ceremonious occasions. It is in the from of the cross of Malta, with fleur-de-lis between the arms of the cross and a dove suspended beneath the cross.

The Congressional Country Club will present another of its delightful "twilight hour" musicales at 5 o'clock

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

By MARIE PAULETTE.

IT is interesting to observe how exceedingly simple smart women dress for general daytime occasions. They wear frocks of exquisite fabrics that are practical as well as smart.

This season the wool crepes are premier in milady's daytime wardrobe. Black is especially popular as model I've selected for today's showing.

A jabot frill stitched through center down left side of bodice of white panne satin lends charming contrast and falls in soft ripples. It is a clever means of detracting from width, and decidedly flattering.

The collarless neckline is very becoming, cut round at back and in diagonal outline at front.

The long-waisted bodice molded through the hips with attached skirt cut with full circular hemline makes Style No. 8113 rather suggestive of princess silhouette.

To make it! Merely close side and shoulder seams of bodice. Seam sides of two-piece circular skirt and stitch to bodice matching notches for same. It is now ready to stitch jabot along dotted line, pipe neckline and set sleeves into armholes.

It is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. In the medium size, 3⅜ yards of 40-inch material with ½ yard of 18-inch contrasting is sufficient.

It also adapts itself charmingly to featherweight tweed, faille silk crepe, printed rayon crepes, canton crepe, crepe satin and plain and printed sheer velvets.

For a pattern of today's style, fill out coupon, writing very clearly, and be sure to state number and size of pattern. Send coupon with 15 cents (stamps or coin) to Fashion Bureau, The Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City.

All our styles are created in Paris or New York. Every pattern contains full directions. No experience necessary. Very easy to use and guaranteed to fit perfectly.

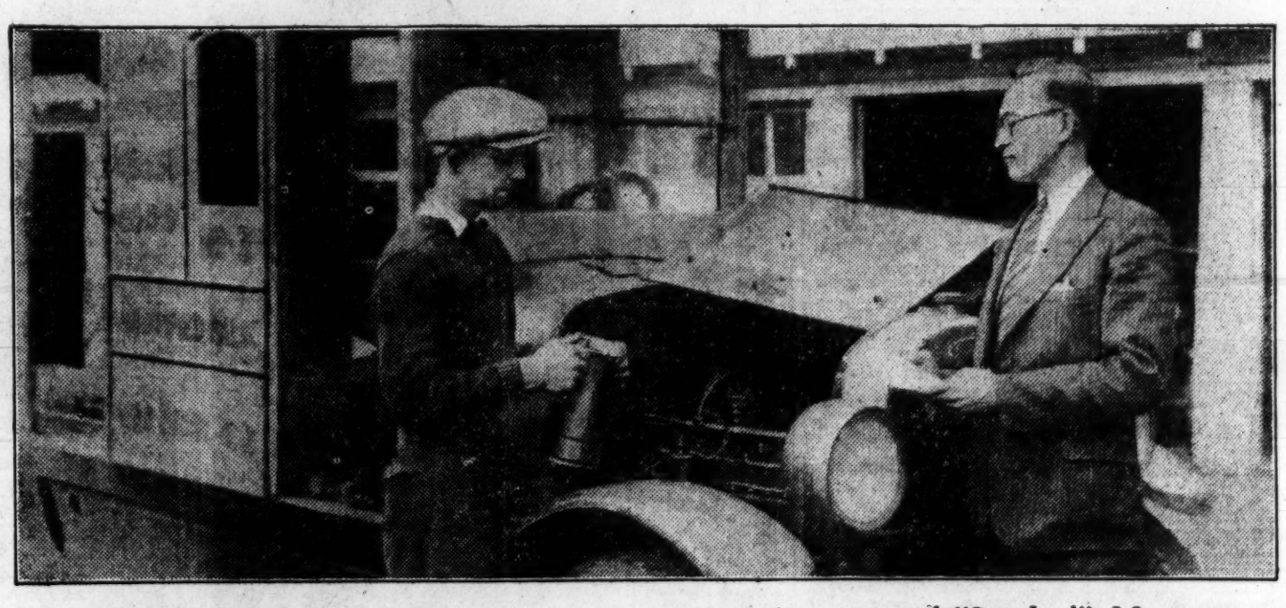
You wouldn't take time to make this test

but a milkman did it for you



UP before the sun, morning after morning, milkman Daniel Wilson made his rounds. Exchanged fresh, clean milk for empty bottles. And at the same time, for 16 days, he tested motor oils under actual driving conditions.

For I. D. Richter, General Manager of the Puritan Dairy, Red Bank, New Jersey, like so many other successful executives, insisted on using the best motor oil on the market in the delivery trucks under his control. Eleven quarts of Brand "Z" oil were used against nine quarts of "Standard" Motor Oil—and 8 quarts of "Standard" Motor Oil remained comparatively fresh, still good. Using "Standard" Motor Oil gave an increased gasoline mileage of 42.2 per cent.

Such records are made, but usually unrecorded, by motorists and truck operators everywhere with this oilier, richer-bodied motor oil. Your car too will enjoy better lubrication and increased mileage if you ask for "Standard" Motor Oil of the proper consistency.

Senator Capper Lauds Work of Organizations and Pledges Support.

VOTE ENDS TOMORROW

Everything that goes with a circus except sawdust, pink lemonade and the tents were incorporated in the Federal Employes' Unions circus at the Masonic auditorium, Thirteenth street and New York avenue, last night, and two full house sof Government employes, their relatives, and friends seemed to enjoy it.

Senator Arthur Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee, was the guest of honor and speaker at the opening performance. Declaring that he hoped to see in the near future action on legislation to liberalize retirement annuities, the Saturday half holiday, and other matters affecting Government workers, he added: "Government employes are the backbone of Washington life. Your needs are the city's needs."

The senator lauded the District government, though he asserted that he favored giving residents of the District the right to vote for President and for District Commisisoners.

"A splendid work is being done by your organization with its 25,000 members in Washington and nearly 100,000 members throughout the United States," he said. "I wish to congratulate you on what you have done and tell you taht I will do all I can to further legislation you desire."

Calling attention to the item of $13,000,000 for District schools in the last budget, Senator Capper said he is in favor of giving the Capital the best schools in the country and of eliminating portable schools, which he called "a disgrace to the National Capital."

The circus will continue today and tomorrow, with a matinee at 3 o'clock, and night shows at 7 and 9 o'clock. At the final performance Saturday the winner of the "Miss Federal Employe" contest will be announced. Polls will cose at 10:30 o'cock.

Eighteen candidates are in the field, with Miss Mary E. Laughlin, of the Interior Department, still in the lead.

The acts include acrobatic stunts on rings, ponies, performing dogs, trained monkeys and a dancing and rope sketch.

CHURCHMEN DENY LOBBY AT CAPITAL

Federal Council's Bureau Here Gets Only $11,000, They Declare.

"HIDDEN FOES" BLAMED

Chicago, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Executive leaders of the Federal Council of Churches declared in a statement today their council of Protestant denominations had never maintained a legislative lobby at Washington or elsewhere and disclosed a budget of $11,000 for the council's Washington bureau.

The executive committee was informed by Dr. Charles S. Macfarland, general secretary, that the Council of Churches was a victim of a "widespread propaganda for the purpose of injuring movements for international peace and general social progress."

The committee authorized the following statement:

"The Federal Council has carefully refrained from maintaining at Washington or elsewhere any lobbyist or legislative representative and from using any form of political or personal pressure or partisan alignment, and has relied wholly on the moral power of its statements to influence public opinion.

"The council has, upon occasions, conveyed as information, expression of what it believed to be public opinion, and at times petitions to the President of the United States, to the heads of departments or to Congress.

"We deem it our duty in shaping a sound public opinion to make known such information and judgments, both to the public and to Congress."

Dr. MacFarland said certain persons or agents who "evidently do not dare come out openly and attack our Government for its work in behalf of peace," seeks to injure it indirectly by attacking organizations devoted to these movements. He said the Federal Council had been charged with spending enormous sums from its Washington headquarters, while its Capital bureau actually had a budget of $11,000, three-fourths of which he explained, was spent in "helping the Army and Navy in the work of chaplains and disabled veterans." The Washington secretary of the council was paid a salary of $1,500, he said.

STEAMER RESCUES CREW OF SCHOONER

Three Ships of Storm-Tossed Fishing Fleet Are Still Missing.

THREE OTHERS SIGHTED

St. Johns, Newfoundland, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—With the rescue at sea of the crew of the schooner Cander Deal today by the liner Republic and the sighting of the schooners Effie May Petite, Merry Widow and Jean Blackwood, all but three of the fleet of ten fishing vessels which disappeared from here in last Friday night's storm have been accounted for.

Capt. Barbour and his crew of ten men of the Cander Deal were picked up by the Republic this morning nearly 1,000 miles seaward, off Cape Race, where the schooner had been blown helpless in the fury of the storm. All of the men were reported well. The Republic, with Capt. A. M. Moore in command, is bound for New York.

Schooner Effie May Petite Sighted.

The schooner Effie May Petite was sighted 100 miles off the coast by the steamer Newfoundland. The government steamer Meigle was dispatched to take her in tow. The steamer Henri Jasper passed the schooner Jean Blackwood, and in an answering hail received the word that all was well aboard the fishing vessel.

The Merry Widow was reported sighted by the Meigle, heading in a southerly course from Newfoundland.

Still missing from the little fleet, which was torn apart by the storm, are the schooners Lloyd Jack, with Capt. Edward Bishop, of Wesleyville; the Neptune, with Capt. Joe Barbour, and the Northern Light, in charge of T. Parsons. All were bound for Brookfield and carried crews of from six to eight men.

Radio Will Tell of Giant Telescope

200-Inch Instrument to Be Described Tonight Over WRC—Damrosch in Morning—Breakfast Brevities on WOL.

Radio will enter the American Philosophical Society for the first time tonight when Dr. Elihu Thomson, vice president and senior member, describes plans for a giant, 200-inch telescope, now under construction, through a network of National Broadcasting Company stations. The speech will be picked up direct from the society's hall in Philadelphia.

The instrument to be discussed is expected to extend the range of man's knowledge of the universe to a great extent, according to scientists following the course of its construction in the Thomson Research Laboratory of the General Electric Co. at Lynn, Mass. It will dwarf in size all other telescopes.

The American Philosophical Society was founded by Benjamin Franklin in 1727. George Washington was a member when he was inaugurated first President of the United States. Many Presidents since then, including President Hoover, have been on its rolls, as have many leaders in America's progress.

The program will be heard between 9 and 9:30 o'clock through Station WRC.

"Rounds and Canons" and "The Modern Suite" will occupy the attention of millions of students in the N. B. C. music appreciation hour, which Walter Damrosch will conduct over WRC at 11 o'clock this morning. The first half-hour will be devoted to series C and to a study of old rounds and canons.

The "Symphonic Fragment," from Ravel's "Daphnis and Chloe," will be offered by Mr. Damrosch for concert four of series D, which comes in the second half-hour.

The "Sixth Symphony," by Alexander Glazounow, director of the Leningrad Conservatory of Music, who is at present touring the United States, will be played by the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra under the direction of Eugene Goossens during the broadcast from Rochester through WRC at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon. A strongly nationalistic flavor reminiscent of the ruggedness and sentiment of the Scottish people characterizes the selection by Hamish MacCunn in the following program:

Overture to the "Land of the Mountain and Flood" (MacCunn), "Concerto for Organ and Orchestra" (Handel) and "Symphony No. 6" (Glazounow).

A violin solo by Sasha Fidelman and a symphonic arrangement of "I've Got a Feelin' I'm Fallin'" are featured in the Cities Service Concert to be heard at 8 o'clock tonight from station WRC. Rosario Bourdon directs the following program:

"Cotton Pickers," "To a Wild Rose" (MacDowell), selections from "Funny Face" (Gershwin), "Missouri Waltz," "Danses Persannes" (Guirand), "G Minor Prelude" (Rachmaninoff), "Norwegian Rhapsody" (Schytte) and Moonlight and Roses" (Moret).

Warm Southern melodies temper winter's chill when Billy Artz's orchestra and the Hallelujah Singers, of the Planters Pickers, broadcast Dixie airs and Negro spirituals at 10 o'clock tonight from WRC. Among the selections for the quartet are "Be Ready When de Great Day Comes," "Sunday Mornin' Band," "De Faults in Me" and "Carolina Jane."

Marie Spurr Howe, pianist, will be the guest artist during the organ recital to be broadcast at 2 o'clock this afternoon by WRC.

Another Curtis Institute of Music program will be presented by Station WMAL at 10:30 o'clock tonight. The student-soloists will be Tibor de Machula, cellist; Rose Brampton, contralto, and Martha Halbachs, pianist.

Another musical feature from the station will be a program by Rho Beta Chapter of the Mu Phi Epsilon National Honorary Musical Society at 6:45 o'clock from the studios of WMAL.

"Breakfast Brevities" from The Washington Post will be one of the outstanding morning features from Station WOL at 8:15 o'clock this morning. Peggy Clarke's daily household chat will be broadcast at 10 o'clock, to be followed by a musical program, a beauty talk and the program known as "Half Hour with Great Composers."

Harriette Spaulding will tell a Christmas Story at 4:15 o'clock from WOL, to be followed by a program for children, under the direction of Edith Reed.

Dinner music will be broadcast from 7 to 8 o'clock.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCIS M'DONALD

"Long-Distance Tyranny."

DEAR MISS McDONALD: I have always read your letters with great interest and now I am asking you for advice.

I am a girl considered very popular, with a good education and a good social position. Some time ago I fell in love, while away on a visit, with a man who seemed madly in love with me also. Since I have been back he has written to me every day, and his letters are usually very ardent—telling me of his great love for me. However, although his fare to this city would be only a few dollars, he has never come to see me, and at all times he has avoided the subject of matrimony. However, if I do not write him every day he writes a letter—so cold and sarcastic—that it is almost insulting. He objects to my going to dances or out with other men. I replied truthfully that I did go to dances sometimes, but that I felt no interest in any of my friends because I was in love with him. This brought only sarcastic remarks that hurt me deeply. In a few days a letter came apologizing for his unreasonable actions and telling me that he loves me so much he was driven by jealousy—also a promise that he will never do it again, &c., but it happens just the same over and over.

Hoping that you will answer this soon in your column, I am,

GWEN.

Well, I "dunno," but I don't believe I could get a temperature over this type of long-distance tyranny. Why do you bother with such a man? I often marvel at these inventive souls who do their heavy courting by mail, when in this day of scientific business every one knows the direct approach is the thing. Seems to me such a man is at least well supplied if not overburdened with self-confidence—don't you think?

Since you're asking me, I'd say—let him spend the price of a trip to see you and while there a straight talk would do him no harm. I've received a lot of very interesting letters and quite a few exceedingly thrilling ones, but I'm still strong for the personal interview. Of course, if a man is on a hospital bed, or does not know where his next postage stamp is coming from, a letter heavy with declarations may be an evidence of something or other. But the hero up and around, with money enough for a railroad ticket, buys a railroad ticket instead of a stamp when he wishes to woo. So just reserve your fervor for some one who does not do his wooing from the side lines.

And just between ourselves, let no man dictate to you—even after marriage, much less before!

This column is for you. Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help all who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Frock of black georgette and ecru lace is made long by side godets. (Courtesy of Martial et Armand, Paris.)

Paris, December 5.

QUITE aside from the fact that one Dare arrived in New York from Paris two years ago wearing a hat that just came to the hairline on the forehead, it is interesting to note that this winter at last the hat that is quite high on the forehead has come into its own.

Among other things in the hat world, we have gotten very tired of shading our eyes, noses and cheekbones all the time. It is sufficient to shade them in the summer, and in the type of hat known as sports hat.

• • • •

Too, the hat that allows some space above the eyebrows, gives length to faces and consequently to figures. Also, it inclines one to hold up the head, which gives a long gracious line from the point of the chin straight down the throat to the neckline. And, in the natural course of events, makes a woman feel more gracefully free all over.

Yes, why not admit it—it gives a woman who is flattered by the softening effect of a veil a chance to wear a tiny little veil!

High on the forehead and down at the back—not only following the general back-swooping silhouette, but giving that bob a chance to become a coiffure. But—if you like this mode, take advantage of it while you may, because it will not last forever and a day.

• • • •

How to make really distinctive and novel Christmas cards! You are told that and a lot more Christmas things in this week's illustrated leaflet, for which you may send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post.

Christmas Gift Suggesstion.

It seems to me that any studio owner numbered among your friends would relish the gift of an unusual lamp. Or perhaps just the shade. Something artistically suitable for a particular nook in your friend's home. And if you can't seem to find it in a shop, why not make it yourself? Oh, yes, you can. You'll have a lot of fun doing it, too, and your friend will be so specially proud of it!

• • • •

Wouln't you like to know some novel and unusual ways to wrap and seal Christmas gifts? Those ideas are in this week's illustrated leaflet, too! Better sit down and address that envelope!

• • • •

Lines explain themselves in this graceful Martial et Armand black georgette dress with ecru lace thimming.

• • • •

An English alienist said that "women not only sleep longer and more peacefully than men." . . . &c. Is that-a-a-at so?

What he means, probably, is that the average woman, who doesn't come in contact with the hectic business world, has less nerve strain than men, except what their husbands, who do come into such contact, impose upon them.

• • • •

Do you want to know how to make some lovely boxes in which to send your Christmas gifts? Modernistic boxes of gold, silver and black—boxes that are so lovely they will be kept in use for decorative purpose long after Christmas. The directions for making them are in this week's illustrated leaflet.

• • • •

Are you looking for the weekly Dare fashion letter in each Sunday's Washington Post. It has many new and intereting ideas.

Au revoir!

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

CRIME AND MENTALITY.

AT one time, not so long ago, it was held that some peculiarity of some part of the human body marked the criminal. The opinion was advocated by a school which took the name of a great Italian, Lombraso. This opinion has been proved to be incorrect.

Next arose a theory that the criminal was below par mentally. This had as a foundation mental test made on prison inmates and showing a percentage of feeble-mindedness which was unexpectedly high. The present opinion is that the feeble-minded in prison populations makes up a large part of the whole merely because it is the feeble-minded criminal who is caught and convicted.

In the warfare between society and the antisocial the feeble-minded fail to protect themselves and land within prison walls. A fair part of the normal-minded escape through the meshes of the law and the master-minded criminals nto only go scot free but they sit in their places of security and ridicule the society which fights them, and the shortcomings of those of their own rank and file who land in prison.

However, a certain proportion of criminals are feeble-minded and should be handled as such. Whatever chance there is for reform of any considerable part of these is dependent upon recognizing the peculiarities of the subnormal mind and adjusting all reform effort on that basis.

Of the several groups of criminals divided according to their crimes the killers are the most intellectual. This is especially true of those who slay as the result of anger or revenge, or jealousy, or some emotion of that character. In all probability the gang killers who are professional enemies of society, and who kill their opponents as normal men kill mosquitoes or bedbugs, in all probability the men of this group outrank the passion killers, but so few of them are caught and convicted that the facts are not known.

The tendency of opinion now is toward the theory that if criminality be a disease at all it is a disorder of personality or has its roots in such disorder rather than in physical stigma or mental abnormality. Criminality as a disease, regardless of its roots, merely represents enmity against society.

LOOK TO FUTURE DIET.

M. B. writes: I am very stout and am trying to cut down on my eating. What kind of bread is best for me to eat? How about gluten breads? I love breads.

REPLY.

There is no great difference, since so-called gluten breads run high in starch. It is the quantity eaten that counts. You are fat because you like breads and other fattening foods.

Reducing will be worth your while if you feel certain that for the remainder of your life you will eat sparingly of breads and other fattening foods.

SEE A NOSE SPECIALIST.

B. C. writes:

1. What causes a bad odor in mucus from the nose?
2. Does this make the breath bad so that other people can detect it?
3. Is there anything I can do to get rid of this odor?

REPLY.

1. There is a nose disease called ozena in which the nose secretions are offensive to the smell.
2. Some cases of halitosis are due to ozena.
3. If you have ozena you will find cure difficult. See a nose specialist.

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF DECEMBER 6 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 6:30 a. m. to 8:15 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:10 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m., and from 5 p. m. to 6:25 p. m.

This date, from an astrological standpoint, should be a good time for the health, for the materialization of plans, and for social advancement. There are very few unlucky stars shining, and the day should end with a feeling of satisfaction.

Children born on this date will possess sensitive personalities which easilyy take offense. They can be coaxed, but not bullied, into doing things. They will be very proud, very ambitious, and very thrifty.

You are a simple, frank, gay and open-hearted person. Behind a background of frivolity and jocularity, however, there can be found sufficient seriousness and an abundance of brains. You have the divine gift of combining work and play; and this rare quality makes for success in any undertaking. You may get tired, but it is seldom that you are found disgruntled. You are a spontaneous individual, and your mission in life seems to be that of cheering and enlivening others. You have your own troubles, but they are cleverly concealed from the world. You have your own secret sorrows, but they do not embitter you. You have a profound deep philosophy to help you—a belief in and understanding of humanity and religion in its truest sense.

You will always maintain a fervent and adventurous outlook. The romantic side of your makeup will never be killed. You are always looking for surprise packets from life. You are not a book student, but you are a self-informed person from observation. You are a very good listener as well as talker. Your ambition is neither fame nor wealth, but you seek peace, comfort and happiness. Your love is irresistible and impetuous. You adore children, and would make a very devoted and patient parent.

Successful people born December 6:

1—Amos R. E. Pinchot, lawyer and politician.

3—Victor Blue, U. S. Admiral.

4—Rudolph Block, "Bruno Lessing," author.

5—Edward H. Sothern, actor.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

WITHOUT benefit of ballyhoo, Mr. Fritz Kreisler, the eminent Austrian violinist, can fill Poli's Theater any time. The trick will be turned again this afternoon at 4:30, when Kreisler enthusiasts start their promenade across the Avenue. This is the compliment paid Mr. Kreisler by none other than Earle Dorsey, publicist, who says he can not remember a time when Kreisler was "not a sell-out," in the vernacular of the theater, nor when people seeking to hear the concert were not turned away from the box office. It all shows that if you have the goods, as the saying goes, the boys and girls will come to the exhibition, whatever it may be, drygoods or music.

• • • •

TOMORROW night the Belasco Theater closes its doors for good and all. There is great regret amongst the citizenry, as attested by many letters to this office. "What to do about it?" "Is there no hope of saving the Belasco?" These are the questions. It would seem, off-hand, that if a considerable number of plays like "The Infinite Shoeblack," Norman MacOwan's drama now occupying the stage at the old playhouse, came along in rapid succession there would be no need for a closed shop on Lafayette square. Then, again, it may be just an office policy that slams down the padlock on the Belasco, rumor having it that fire regulations here demand the installation of a new fireproof curtain of some sort that would cost in the neighborhood of ten grand, as the gamblers term it.

AS these dark days descend upon the theatrical world, what with a lack of good play material, and other ills, Poli's goes into a trance again next week—and Mr. T. D. Bonneville, the manager, will be enabled to shoot duck in the lower marshes of the Potomac, or, if he chooses, the Chesapeake Bay region. As the Belasco and Poli's belong to the same management, fly the same banner, there should be few, if any dark weeks ahead for the old playhouse on the south side of the Avenue. Bookings originally intended for the Belasco will, naturally, be shifted to Poli's. Certainly there ought to be enough of these to keep the house going full blast ahead until early spring.

WHILE the two rival houses are closed, the National Theater steps in next week with all intentions of "copping the coin." There will be no opposition, whatsoever, aside from the Gayety, and so Mr. Earl Carroll, in sending his "Vanities" here at this time proves to be what they call at the race track an odds-on favorite. For the first time in the history of this producer a star is advertised in big black letters over and above the name of the attraction. Mr. W. C. Fields, the comedian, is the favorite of the gods, and of the Carrolls. Surrounded by a hundred or so beautiful girls—said to be the prettiest that ever went on the road—the old trouper, W. C. Fields, who will be remembered from the salad days of Washington when he played the Keith circuit, carries all the comedy on his broad shoulders. According to Forrest Crossman, the advance agent, as truthful a man as ever stepped in front of a show, the "Vanities" this year, aside from the girls and its comedian, has the only curtain in the world that ascends instead of descends. Just how this works will be seen by the pewholders on Sunday night at the opening services.

WELLS HAWKS, president emeritus of the Theatrical Press Agents of America, came into town yesterday afternoon just to pay his respects to the Old-Timers. For years Wells was ahead of the circuses—and there is no man in the writing game who knows more about the Big Top, from the time of the Little Red Wagon Days, than this same Wells Hawks, one of the beloved in the business. Some time ago Mr. Hawks was stricken, laid up for repairs; but now he is decidedly well again and on the way back to New York, after a visit to his old home in Charles Town, W. Va. Back in the big town, Wells Hawks plans to write a series of stories reminiscent of the old theater and the circus days he knows so well. They will be published first in a national magazine and then in book form. This, then, a contemplated treat for readers who like to recall the good old days and the wanderings of Wells Hawks.

Mining in Olden Times.

III. DANGERS IN COAL MINES.

LONG ago people learned about the dangers of coal mining. These dangers were chiefly from two kinds of gas.

One gas was known as "chokedamp." When miners went into a pit filled with chokedamp, they would fall down in a little while—not dying at once, but unable to move. Some of them were likely to die before their comrades came to the rescue.

A man pumping bellows to supply air for a mine.

On reaching the surface, victims of the chokedamp would slowly recover. There would be spasms and they would cry with pain as they came back to their senses.

It was learned that a candle would go out if placed where there was chokedamp. When possible a candle was let down into deep chambers of a mine before men went down to work—if it went out, the miners would not enter the chamber until air was pumped in, driving part of the gas out. Sometimes a huge bellows was used to force the air in.

Another danger was from the gas known as firedamp. This gas was often found deep in the earth. Any flame would cause it to explode. Sometimes dozens of miners were killed in such explosions.

When there was reason to believe that there was only a small "pocket" of firedamp a candle flame was often used "to get rid of it." A man—very bold—would place a lighted candle on the end of a long pole, and would set off the gas. This helped in certain cases, but it was dangreous—the man holding the pole might be killed.

What could be done? The miners needed lights to see for their working, but a candle or lantern might cause a deadly explosion.

In those days there were no electric lights. To find their way, men had to use a flame of some kind.

An Englishman named Humphrey Davy invented a kind of lamp which had a wire mesh where air was let in for the flame. The wire kept the flame from setting fire to gas, and saved the lives of many miners.

"Did you get money for your invention?" a friend asked Davy.

"No," replied Davy. "I was not thinking of money when I made the invention. I was only trying to serve the human race."

The Washington Post Presents

A Practical Program of Character Building

For Children Between the Ages of 6 and 12

The Knighthood of Youth

This is a national club for young people of less than scout age in which each child is termed a "Knight" of varying rank. He enters the order as a "page" and by following knightly precepts of behavior advances in regular periods.

Boys and girls approaching the teen age are full of imagination. Ritual and ceremony are highly attractive to them. In Knighthood they readily picture themselves as "Knights" on a journey to their "Castle of Knighthood." They slay dragons, personified by their own bad habits—and supplant them with good deeds.

The child joins the national organization of the "Knighthood of Youth," which is sponsored by the National Child Welfare Association of New York City, and receives a button identifying him as a "Page." He also has a chart which acts as a daily reminder of the "dragons" he must slay and the good "adventures" which he may have. This chart is kept at home and marked by the child under the supervision of his parents.

A group of "Knights" become a "Castle" and such a group may be composed of an entire class in school or Sunday school. When so organized the children become more interested in their regular studies and are genuinely concerned with maintenance of class order and discipline. The organization helps the teacher to awaken and enliven her regular classroom work because it is an all-inclusive project which will keep the pupils active, and permit them to form their own moral judgments. Parents may also make use of it in their own home training. Knighthood becomes a game which the children play and in which parents and teachers join.

This brief resume can only give an idea of the great scope and wonderful possibilities of this character building program. The Washington Post will be pleased to give more detailed information to any parent or educator desiring it.

Three pages of The Sunday Post Tabloid Magazine, beginning Sunday, December 15, will be devoted each Sunday to news and activities of "The Knighthood of Youth." This will supplement the regular four pages for Juvenile Post readers . . . This newspaper can not undertake the work of organization of various "castles" but it is ready to render all assistance to every group desiring to affiliate with "The Knighthood of Youth."

It is never too early to inculcate the right principles of conduct in children. Parents are invariably successful in the discharge of their duties during the period preceding school age—afterward the parents' responsibility is divided with that of the educator, but the child is also subject to many influences beyond the control of either.

Children are naturally inquisitive and their active minds and restless bodies lead them into many escapades, often classed as deliberate wrong doing, which are in reality the mere result of a search for mental and physical occupation. A child's imagination is almost inconceivable to the adult. It soars far beyond the limits prescribed by the orders of those in authority and induces actions that can seldom be anticipated. It is therefore evident that any system of child-training must start with a proper consideration of a child's habits of thought and give him an idea that requires personal initiative, that he may follow through to his own conclusion and which nevertheless follows a prescribed course, although to the child it appears as a path of his own choosing.

The program outlined herewith has been successfully practiced by leading educators in Western States and in metropolitan New York. It bridges the gap between parental and scholastic training and coordinates them in a manner that is most acceptable to the children while developing their habits of thought and conduct along most approved lines.

The Washington Post is sponsoring this program of child character building in Washington and nearby Maryland and Virginia with the conviction that it is the most practical and efficient method that could be devised. It conflicts in no way with either a parent's or a teacher's prerogatives; it is enjoyable for the youngsters to follow and it has proved its value in other cities.

STOCKS ARE MARKED BY PROFIT TAKINGS

Bear Selling and Easy Day Features; Washington News Discouraging.

RISE IS LED BY UTILITIES

New York, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Wall Street was inclined to temper its renewed confidence with conservatism today, and the latest bull movement in stocks became bogged with profit taking and bear selling.

The market opened with distinct easing tendencies, but further vigorous operations for the advance in the utilities soon turned the price movement upward, and a wide assortment of shares reached new high ground for the recovery. Bulls lost control of the movement in the last hour, however, and leading stocks largely closed moderately lower.

Traders sensed a chance in the tenor of the flow of news from Washington, a chance of a character to restrain excessive optimism. President Hoover, in his address before the conference held by the United States Chamber of Commerce, stressed the word "work."

Klein Says "Brass Tacks" Needed.

Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, urged business to get down to "brass tack realities." These advances, while still indicating confidence in fundamental industrial stability, dispelled hasty illusions of a new golden era of prosperity in the immediate offing. Dr. Klein pointed out that readjustments will take time.

Furthermore, indications that the declining curve of money rates has reached its nadir were more pronounced. Call money held officially at 4½ per cent, and was unavailable in the outside market below 4, compared to 3 recently. Two bankers acceptance dealers increased their buying rates. The Bank of England made no reduction in its discount rate, leaving it still 1 per cent above the New York Federal reserve rate, and further firmness of sterling foreshadowed loss of gold to London, while an additional shipment to France, amounting to $3,000,000, was arranged.

The weekly Federal reserve brokers' loans figures showed a further reduction of $58,000,000, which was unexpectedly favorable, as they covered but three stock market trading days, and days of moderately rising prices. It was notable that the out-of-town banks were again placing funds in the market, increasing their loans by $42,000,000, while New York banks and "others" withdrew about $100,000,000. The Federal Reserve System condition statement displayed a reduction in rediscounts of approximately $40,000,000 outside of the New York district.

Woolworth Store Report Favorable.

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce estimate of automobile production in November showed a sharp curtailment from October, and a moderate curtailment from November, 1928. Despite the consequent slack in the steel industry, however, Wall street estimates indicated that United States Steel's unfilled tonnage figures for November 30 would show little change from the previous month. Favorable reports of November sales were returned by the Woolworth and Kresge store chains.

The action of U. S. Steel was indicative of the general price trend. It sold up about a point and closed off 2¾. American Telephone mounted more than 4 points, but closed 1 lower. Columbian Carbon ran up nearly 15 poin's, then lost nearly all its gain.

Utilities, although losing much of their maximum gains of the day, generally closed higher. Stone & Webster mounted 8 points, reflecting the initial dividend of $2, and closed up 6. Peoples Gas, a mercurial issue, ran 32½ points and retained its gain. Rails were inclined to sag, with the exception of the Van Sweringen group. Alleghany Corporation closed a point higher, despite the Interstate Commerce Commision's recommendation for an investigation of holding companies, and Chesapeake & Ohio closed up nearly 6 points.

Commodity Markets Heavy.

General Electric was down 6 points at the close, and such shares as American Can, Johns Manville, Kennecott, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, New York Central, Radio, and U. S. Industrial Alcohol were off about 1 to 3 points.

Commodity markets were generally heavy. Wheat futures lost about 2½ cents, reflecting larger Argentina estimates, and corn sagged about 1 cent. Cotton sagged 65 to 95 cents a bale.

In the foreign exchanges, sterling cable moved up 1-16 of a cent more to $4.88 3-16, another new peak for the year. The discount on the Canadian dollar was reduced to ⅛ of a cent.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Cotton was comparatively quiet today with prices lower under further realizing or liquidation by recent buyers who appeared to be disappointed over the failure of private crop estimates to show a greater falling off and who may also have been influenced by reports of freer offerings from the South. January contracts sold off to 17.24 and closed at that figure with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 10 to 19 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 to 4 points. Some buying was reported on relatively steady Liverpool cables, but it was readily supplied by Southern selling and liquidation. The latter became somewhat more active after the publication of a private report placing the crop indication at 14,591,000 bales and placing the ginnings prior to December 1 at 12,980,000 bales.

This crop figure compared with an end-October indication of 15,020,000 bales by the same authority, but the reduction was evidently less than anticipated by people who had bought on the unfavorable weather reports of last month, and no doubt accounted for some of the selling. Otherwise no particular news factor was mentioned in connection with the decline, but demand was limited and Southern selling was a little more in evidence during the late trading.

December sold off to 17.13, March to 17.52 and May to 17.78, with active months generally showing net losses of about 14 to 19 points. Closing prices were the lowest of the day on the active positions.

Up to the close of business today seven of the private crop reports had been published with figures on the indicated yield in bales of 500 pounds gross ranging from 14,635,000 up to 15,035,000 bales and averaging in the neighborhood of 14,872,000 bales.

Private estimates of the ginnings prior to December 1 have ranged from 12,887,000 up to 12,989,000 bales and averaged 12,942,000 bales.

Liverpool cable advices said that scattering liquidation and hedging had been absorbed by trade calling in that market, but added that sales of cotton cloth were running below production and that stocks of goods were accumulating.

Exports today, 13,676 bales, making 3,442,190 so far this season. Port receipts, 31,740. United States port stocks, 2,594,375.

HAGEN TO MEET DIEGEL IN PRO TOURNEY SEMIFINAL

ROCKNE MENACE TO COACHES' UNION

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—With some indignation, Knute Rockne denies a report emanating from the East that he will receive $40,000, or 5 per cent of the net receipts of the season for coaching Notre Dame's football team this year. He reveals that his pay is $10,000 a year, or roughly $200 a week the year around and this being the case, it is no wonder that he is indignant.

It is generally a debatable question whether a football coach or the players deserve the greater credit for a football team's achievements, but Rockne and perhaps half a dozen others are exceptions. He has come to stand for football at Notre Dame and Notre Dame, as one of the learned priests in high authority at the university, found reason to complain some time ago, has come to stand for football rather more prominently than for education in the public imagination.

Discharge of Rockne One Solution.

Whether or not the school wishes to continue in this significance is another matter, although the erection of an ambitious stadium on the school premises at South Bend to be dedicated next year would seem to commit the institution to a further football career of some years at least. A simple way to effect the readjustment of values would be to fire Mr. Rockne.

The members of the coaches' union, of which Mr. Rockne is a leading spirit, will be shocked to learn that a man who has done as much for a university as he has for Notre Dame is, after all these years, in receipt of no more than $200 a week. The salaries of coaches are confidential and, like the guarantees of prize fighters, the expense accounts of sport writers, the wages of moving picture actors and the cost of ginger ale in night clubs, subject to liberal exaggeration.

I have heard, for instance, that Mr. Charlie Crowley, a Notre Dame alumnus, received $18,000 a year or about $360 a week the year around during his term as coach at Columbia University, which concluded the other day. Inasmuch as football at Columbia is not an all-year concern as it is at Notre Dame, Mr. Crowley's pay has been almost twice as great for about half as much work of a much less effective nature, if he got that much.

Coaches Union Might Revoke His Card.

Certainly, if the coaches' union has such an office as walking delegate, Mr. Rockne should be checked up and reported to the next meeting of his local, for disciplinary action, perhaps the revocation of his card.

The figures are not readily available and figures, in my hands usually disprove what I wish to demonstrate anyway, but Notre Dame alumni tell me that since Rockne began to develop great football teams at Notre Dame, the enrollment of the school has increased by large numbers. Not only that, but the receipts of the football games must have been among the two or three or four largest in the country for several years, provided, of course, that the fiscal agents of the university have been alert to their business prerogatives as representatives of the greatest drawing card in the entire sport business today, not excluding any heavyweight fighter, active or quiescent.

If Notre Dame's football earnings have not exceeded those of Harvard or Yale or Princeton this year, then somebody in the business department must have been unduly modest about the division of the gate for even in the Army game in New York last week with the corps of cadets to adorn the spectacle with their formations, Notre Dame dominated West Point in the "draw."

Attracts Good Players To Notre Dame.

And without wishing to minimize the essential part played by the Notre Dame athletes this season or any other season, it is significant that Rockne can come up every year with a good football team. Now that he is established as a great coach, good football players are attracted to Notre Dame by the challenge to make good or fail among the best in the land.

Such was the case, I hear, with Marty Brill, of this year's champion team, who first spent a year at the University of Pennsylvania, failed to make the team owing to a temperamental difference with Lou Young, the coach, and was withdrawn by his wealthy father, who told Mr. Young

Penn's Offer Spurned by Little

Post as Head Coach Declined by Hilltop Football Head.

Indefinite Regarding Future Connections at Georgetown.

THE status of Lou Little as head coach of football and director of athletics at Georgetown University remained unchanged yesterday following his refusal to accept an offer to coach football at the University of Pennsylvania.

Little confirmed an Associated Press dispatch from New York yesterday which asserted that it was authoritatively learned there that the Georgetown coach had been proffered the position resigned by Lou Young, who has coached at Pennsylvania for the last several years. The dispatch also stated that it was understood that Little had other football coaching offers and that his name has been mentioned in connection with the vacancy at Columbia, where Charley Crowley recently resigned as head coach.

The Georgetown coach did not elaborate on his refusal of the Penn offer and declared that his position at Georgetown was unchanged.

Little was indefinite regarding his future at Georgetown. Asked if his refusal of the Penn offer eliminated the possibility of his leaving the Hilltop, Little told The Post that it did not inasmuch as he could not be expected to reject an offer which would enable him to better his position.

"I am still at Georgetown and have no offers under consideration," he said. "I may be here next year and I may not."

G. W. to Stage Games In H Street Gymnasium

Contrary to reports, George Washington University will hold its basketball games in its own gymnasium, 2010 H street northwest, Director of Athletics James E. Pixlee stated yesterday. It had been reported the Colonial Quintet would perform on the Tech High School floor. The H Street court does not have as large a seating capacity as in 1928 but still should meet requirements for the current season, said Pixlee. Installation of lockers has diminished the space for seats since last winter.

Bozek Again Foregoes Basket Ball at G. U.

Johnny Bozek, popular Gonzaga High graduate and one of Georgetown University's leading all-around athletes, has passed up basket ball for the second year in succession. He will give all of his time to studies this winter as he did a year ago although he is recognized as a fine floor performer. He is undertaking a difficult classroom course.

KERR SHAPES TEAM FOR COAST

Brazil, Booma, Others Accept East-West Game Invitations.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Eight Eastern college football stars have accepted Colgate Coach Andy Kerr's invitation to join his all-star East's team for a charity game on the Pacific Coast with a similar Western team, Kerr announced today. Kerr annually selects such an Eastern team for the East-West game.

Replies have not been received from three other men invited. Those who will join the squad which assembles in Chicago on December 16, are: Siegrist, Washington and Jefferson end; Booma, Dartmouth end; Donchess, Pitt end; Montgomery, Pitt guard; Cox, center; Yablock, quarter back, and Dowler, half back, of Colgate, and Brazil, University of Detroit, half back.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Bronko Nagurski, full [illegible] of tackle, and Bob Tanner, end, of the University of Minnesota, today announced acceptance of an invitation to play in the annual East-West football game, a Shrine benefit, at San Francisco, on New Year's Day. They will play with the East team.

Nebraska Stars to Be Rivals.

Lincoln, Nebr., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Two University of Nebraska football stars will play in the annual New Year's game at San Francisco, one on the East team and one on the West.

Clair Sloan, husker fullback, today accepted the invitation extended him and Ray Richards, tackle, by Percy Locey in behalf of the "West" team. Richards had already accepted the invitation of Coach Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, to play with the Easterners.

San Francisco, Calif., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Chances of the Westerners in the Shrine annual East-West all-star football game to be played here New Year's Day improved today with the announcement that Roy Riegels, captain and center of the University of California eleven, and Benny Lom, star half back of the Golden Bears, had agreed to join the Western lineup.

Their addition to the lineup swells to six the number of players who have accepted invitations to represent the West on the gridiron. The others are "Dutch" Clark, Colorado College quarter back; Francis Hunting, Gonzaga half back; Gregar, Washington guard, and Holmgren, Whitman College end.

Dempsey and Tunney May Meet as Officials

New York, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney may meet without combat in the ring at Madison Square Garden Monday night if the plans of the promoters of the annual Christmas fund boxing show go through. Dempsey is sought as referee for the fight card and an announcement from the New York State Athletic Commission that he has been given permission to serve in the capacity is expected daily. An invitation has been extended to Tunney to serve as one of the judges for the same program, but he has given no indication whether or not he will accept.

St. Mary's Asks Pitt To Play at Frisco

The Junior Chamber of the Commerce, sponsor of the proposed game, had dispatched a telegram to the undefeated Pittsburgh gridsters offering a guarantee of $20,000 with an option of 50 per cent of the net gate receipts.

G. W. to Name Mitchell, Is Likelihood

Youthful Basket Ball Official First in Line for Coaching Post.

Appointment Expected Following Conference Today.

JOE MITCHELL, prominent young official and formerly an outstanding player here, is first in line for appointment to the post of varsity basketball coach at George Washington University, it was learned authoritatively last night.

Mitchell's candidacy for the position will be the subject of a conference today between Cloyd Heck Marvin, president, and James E. Pixlee, director of athletics of George Washington.

Mitchell is known to have made early application for the job when it was announced that Pixlee was seeking a special assistant to take the varsity coaching off his hands. Pixlee has been coaching the squad temporarily, but is desirous of devoting all of his time to the duties of athletic director.

Recognized as Keen Student of Game.

A favorable decision on Mitchell's bid is anticipated in view of his fine record as player, coach and official in local basketball circles during the past eight years. He is conceded at present to be one of the most efficient court arbiters in the city, while during his career as player and coach he was widely recognized as a keen student and smart exponent of the game.

George Washington has some promising player material available this season and Mitchell, it is believed, is capable of getting the maximum results if he lands the coaching assignment. The Colonial schedule, although as yet incomplete, probably will call for eighteen games, or almost twice as many as were played a year ago.

Londoner Will Seek Auto Speed Record

Daytona Beach, Fla., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Formal notice that Kaye Don, of London, would attempt to break the world automobile speed record of 231 miles an hour during the international speed classic here next March, today was received in a letter from the British driver to Mayor Armstrong.

Dates for the speed classic tentatively have been set for March 1 to 15.

Don will attempt to break the record established here last March by Maj. H. O. D. Segrave, of England, who has announced his retirement from the automobile racing to take up motorboat racing as a hobby. William Von Benz, 35-year-old German racing enthusiast, also has announced that he would enter a car in the meet and Capt. Malcolm Campbell, of England, former holder of the record, has notified Mayor Armstrong that he would come here for the trials if he could complete his car in time.

So far, no American drivers have announced their entry.

W. MARYLAND EAGER FOR BATTLE

Team Is More Intent on Winning From Maryland U.

WHAT happens when two fighting football teams collide should plainly be demonstrated tomorrow in the Baltimore Stadium when Maryland plays Western Maryland for the State championship.

Ordinarily, the results include a few broken bones, heart palpitation and freezing of the spine. Tomorrow's clash, judging from all indications, should be no exception. The bone crushing will be limited strictly to the players, barring the unforeseen, while anybody will be subject to the rest.

Latest reports were to the effect that Dick Harlow has keyed the Western Maryland crew up to the highest pitch of determination, and, that being the case, it will be a battle between two teams fully primed physically and mentally to meet the issue Maryland has been pointing for this game for two weeks, and long since acquired the proper confidence in itself. That 13-13 tie with Yale and 24-0 defeat of V. P. I., boosted the morale of the Terrapins to heights unknown theretofore.

The loss of five regular players through ineligibility has acted as a spur on the minds and hearts of the Green Terrors, for now they are intent on proving they are superior to the Terrapins even though minus several of their most valuable men.

Teammates to Carry Fight.

The team mates of the ineligibles—Capt Havens, Weisbeck, O'Lear, Pelton and Gomsak—have promised to compensate with fighting spirit the physical losses encountered through enforcement of a Southern Conference rule which prohibits more than three years of varsity competition. The Terror ineligibles are all four-year men.

In spite of the weakening of the Westminster eleven, some Baltimore "experts," who have seen the Harlowmen in action before, still rate them as the favorites, while others are inclined to figure that the game will be decided by a one-touchdown margin, although refusing to venture a prediction as to the winner.

Many Washingtonians will journey to the Maryland metropolis to view

Former Champion, 62, Would Fight Again

French Lick, Ind., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Tommy Williams, a former Australian and English lightweight champion, is 62 years old, but he wants to make a one-fight ring comeback.

Williams, through Charles B. Dillingham, New York theatrical producer, who was here, has challenged any fighter, or former fighter, or former fighter 60 years or older, the bout to be staged as a preliminary to some big show in Chicago or New York.

The former champion boxes almost daily. He is a physical instructor at a hotel. He has worked out with Dillingham for 30 years.

Cubs Trade McMillan For Kansas City Hurler

Chicago, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—The Cubs today obtained Lynn Nelson, leading pitcher of the American Association last year, from Kansas City in exchange for Third Baseman Nosman McMillan and an unannounced sum of cash.

Thistlewaite Decries Absence of Captains

Madison, Wis., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—The growing policy in universities and colleges of having no regular captains for athletic teams finds no favor with Coach Glenn Thistlewaite, of the University of Wisconsin.

"I hope Wisconsin will never reach the state where it is afraid to elect a football captain," he said. "I believe the election of a captain is one of the biggest, most important and finest traditions in football. Fraternity politics—one of the reasons offered for abandoning football captaincies at some universities—has not entered into elections during my time at Wisconsin. When it does will be time enough to seek some means of combating such a condition."

Tech Team and Coach Honored by "T" Club

Tech High's championship football eleven and its coach, Elmer P. Hardell, were feted at a banquet given under the auspices of the graduate "T" Club last night at McKinley High School. H. C. Byrd, Maryland U. Coach, Maj. Brewster, Marine Corps, and Warren Spencer, of the graduate T. Club addressed the squad, while Capt. Willis Benner and Coach Hardell replied in behalf of the Tech football team.

Dr. Sharp and Kip Edwards of the downtown coaches association presented the following players and Manager Roccati with gold footballs: Capt. Benner, Stutz, Goldman, Winston, Geiger, Kolker, Spencer, Hoy, Nelson, Reichman and Goss. Capt. Benner presented the school with the Princeton cup, won by Tech for permanent possession by virtue of its three championships since the cup was offered. Coach Hardell was presented with a wrist watch by the members of the Tech team. The Tech squad will leave tomorrow for Stamford, Conn., where it meets the Stamford High School Eleven tomorrow.

MINORS FAIL TO CHANGE DRAFT

Vote to Revise Code Falls Short; Many Deals Made.

By BRIAN BELL.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—The minor leagues of baseball met an old friend today for a few hours in the form of a draft resolution, but after half a dozen speeches, an effort by William G. Bramham, president of three leagues, to amend the draft rules, failed for the want of a three-fourths majority.

Mr. Bramham, who is president of the South Atlantic Association, the Piedmont and Eastern Carolina Leagues, mustered a two-thirds vote in favor of his plan to amend the constitution so that players shall not be subject to draft until they shall have been officially credited with participation in 200 games on clubs of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, but he fell shy of the number needed to amend the constitution.

Montreal, Que., won the 1930 convention without serious opposition, only Springfield, Mass., and Washington, D. C., pressing invitations after West Baden, Ind., withdrew. To accept the invitation from either West Baden or Washington would have involved an amendment to the constitution as the law requires that the convention be held in cities represented in minor league baseball.

Cubs Make Another Deal.

William L. Veeck, president, and Joe McCarthy, manager of the Chicago Cubs, returned home today, but before they left, they engineered another deal by which a promising young pitcher will become a Cub. Norman McMillan, infielder, and a

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

Leo Diegel defeated Gene Sarazen, 3 up and 2.

Walter Hagen defeated Tony Manero, 6 up and 5.

Johnny Farrell defeated Craig Wood, 1 up (37 holes).

Al Watrous defeated Al Espinosa, 2 up.

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Over the knolls and valleys of Hillcrest today raced the two "greyhounds" of the field—Leo Diegel and Walter Hagen—to turn in decisive victories, but the real gutting thrills of the day traced their source to a former open title holder who fought his way out of the shadows of defeat to stay in the running for the National Professional Golfers Association championship.

While Diegel, defending champion, and Hagen, chief challenger, were sailing through an easy third round of 36-hole match play to the semi-finals, smiling Johnny Farrell, of New York, met and matched a stern golfing test, to come from behind and nose out Craig Wood on the thirty-seventh.

Trailing from the start of the morning's round, Farrell was 2 down at the eighteenth and in the same position at the twenty-seventh. On the thirty-first, Wood stymied his opponent to win the hole and go into a 3 up lead. With the score 3 up and 5 to play, the gallery of several thousand persons sensed victory for the Bloomfield, N. J., youngster, but instead, were treated to a "comeback" as spectacular as any witnessed on this course.

Tremendous Ovation Greets Victory.

Farrell won back the thirty-second and thirty-third; halved the thirty-fourth and squared the match on the thirty-fifth. The thirty-sixth was halved and Farrell's birdie 3 on the thirty-seventh clinched a great win and brought a tremendous ovation from the throng of spectators, who had followed him through two gruelling rounds.

Diegel and Hagen clubbed their way to the semifinals without much effort. Gene Sarazen, of New York, a former open champion, fell a victim to Diegel's shots, 3 and 2, while Hagen disposed of Tony Manero, of New York, 6 and 5.

The finals Saturday will produce the national title holder in the "pro" ranks, but the golfing classic of the week will be carved into the fairways of the Hillcrest layout tomorrow.

Keenest rivals in a field of stars, Diegel and Hagen will renew a golfing duel that last year saw Hagen's hopes for a sixth P. G. A. championship shattered in the third round. Diegel won and continued on to capture the title. Fates of the draw placed the pair in the lower bracket this year and tomorrow they will match strokes for the right to enter the finals. It will be their fourth meeting in P. G. A. competition. Hagen won in the first two matches and the Agua Caliente, Mexico, professional came out on top in 1928.

Farrell to Oppose Watrous Today.

In the upper bracket, Farrell will oppose Al Watrous, Detroit, tomorrow. Watrous worked his way into the semifinals by defeating Al Espinosa, Chicago, today, 2 up.

Farrell's comeback started on the thirty-second after he had lost the 31st to go 3 down. He was stymied on the thirty-first and tried to jump Wood's ball but landed on top, skidding over the hole.

The New York entrant snared a birdie 4 on the thirty-second and dropped a 10-foot putt on the 33d for a birdie 3 and another win. He

FAIR GROUND'S MEET TO BRING OUT NEW JUVENILES

54-Day Meet To Open on January 1

Prominent Stables' Future Greats to Be Seen Racing.

Juvenile Handicap to Be Chief Stake for Newcomers.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 5.—When the Louisiana Jockey Club inaugurates its 54-day race meeting at the Fair Grounds on January 1, some of the turf's future greats will embark on their racing career.

Several hundred yearlings, highly bred and fleet, are quartered at the Fair Grounds course and will fly the silks of some of the American turf's most prominent stables during the winter. The Rancocas Stable, Greentree Stable, H. P. Whitney, Jack Howard, F. P. Leteller, Paradise Stock Farm, Jadell Stable and numerous others have a large stock of youngsters that are being groomed for the 2-year-old events.

The New Orleans Juvenile Handicap, designed to bring out the best juveniles that will race here, is one of bright features of an attractive stake program which include twelve other stakes to be contested for between New Year's Day and Mardi Gras.

Parnell Bound Won 1929 Stake.

In the past two seasons this stake proved as attractive as any offered by the Louisiana Jockey Club, and each year since its inauguration brought out an improved set of youngsters to compete. Maria Nash and Parnell Bound accounted for the stake in 1928 and 1929, respectively. The latter went on defeating a good class of juveniles in the East and Canada throughout the year.

Prospect for an even better field of starters this year is very bright, due to the splendid looking gathering of yearlings that will be eligible for racing at the first of next year.

Starter Bill Hamilton and a corps of assistants have been educating the youngsters in the ways of racing and proper barrier etiquette for the past two weeks, and the belief of the veteran starter is that there are several promising looking thoroughbreds among those which have been brought to his barrier.

Paradise Stable Has 16 Yearlings.

Joe Tigue, trainer for the Paradise Stock Farm, and B. A. Jones, Missouri breeder and the horseman who brought Parnell Bound to the races last winter, were the first to send their charges to the barrier. The Paradise establishment has 16 yearlings while Jones has 17.

Many of those in the Paradise contingent are sired by that speed merchant of a few years ago, Angon. The latter has sent many good sprinters to the races, and J. P. Headley, owner of the stallion, is confident that there are several speedy youngsters in his band.

Since the passing of Seth, for a long time the main stallion on the Jones Farm at Parnell, Mo., Nutcracker is the chief server and a large number in the Jones' outfit were sired by Nutcracker.

Double Heart Beats Jefferson Favorite

Jefferson Park, New Orleans, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Over a fast track the Three D's Stable's Double Heart scored in the National Broadcasting Handicap here today. Only four faced the starter and Extreme was an odds-on favorite.

Justina ran into an early lead with Double Heart second. Double Heart soon went to the front and Jockey May rode him hard. Double Heart held his advantage and was never headed, but was ridden out to win by two lengths. Justina beat Extreme a length for the place. The latter was hard ridden but lacked speed.

ROCKNE IS MENACE TO COACHES' UNION

that his boy Marty would now go to Notre Dame and make good with a better coach than he was.

If Notre Dame has not made a great deal of money out of Knute Rockne's football teams then the university needs a box office and turnstile man to make the contracts and count the house. And, always alert to promote the interests of the worthy, I would suggest for the consideration of the trustees Mr. James Joseph Tunney, one of the sharpest young business men of his time, who is now without regular employment.

Tunney's Record Is Recommendation.

Mr. Tunney has rejected the presidencies of two or three corporations devoted to the rude business of prizefighting, six-day bike riding, and so forth, but football is a genteel, amateur industry, patronized by the best people, and he might entertain a proposition

Of course, he would want to be president of the university, and that might be difficult to arrange, but certainly no other business man of the sport industry, not even excepting Jack Kearns, has shown a better knack for bargaining than he did in negotiating for his last two exhibitions under the late Tex Rickard. It will be remembered also that in both of these deals he paid his manager a generous fee, not to do his business for him but to mind his own business so to speak, while he drove his own bargains.

But after all I doubt that Notre Dame need go outside the institution for a business man to handle the commercial phases of the football organization there. Any school which can hold Knute Rockne at $10,000 a year must have somewhere in the background as shrewd a horse trader as ever Mr Rickard dealt with.

DOUBLE HEART, under light weight, was rushed to the front, was hard ridden all the way and won doing his best. JUSTINA broke fast, had fine speed and held on gamely. EXTREME broke slow and could not keep up. He was hard ridden. VESTA was running very strong at the end and is worth remembering over longer route.

AGAPANTHUS was well and nicely rated along, moved up fast in last three furlongs and, running gamely, was up to win by a nose. BILL SETH was perfectly ridden, made his run at the right moment and held on well. CORBEAU broke in a tangle, closed ground fast and ran well. LAUNDRYMAN ran a good race and should improve. SOUTHLAND BOY is worth remembering. CELIDON quit badly after leading to the stretch. BARITONE was weakly ridden.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT E. COLLYER

CLEAR and fast. That, anyway, is the promise Uncle Sam's official guessers have handed out for the races of this aft. at Jefferson Park at Nawleans. And the prospect of a dry, speedy strip has lured a band of racers a bit superior to those that have been contesting over the Shrewsbury course within the past few days.

Don't get me wrong; I didn't say they were high-class horses. Heavens, Hattie, no. However, several good things seem on tap for the sport of today. Here they are for your delectation: QUIBBLER goes in the fifth spasm and has all the ear-marks of an eagle-bird. Tight as a drum and only has to run back to his race at Lincoln Fields—where he packed 117 pounds and tincanned to beat better hides than these. And the price? Well, how would about 5 to 1 and your own dough back be? I wouldn't be surprised if he were twice that much.

safest proposition of the day. Should be graduated at last and, although the price won't be so much, it looks like a double X barreled dose of buckshot. Grab this one in the first and play with their money.

JOHNK won her first out in mud by four lengths. Knobelkamp has her right on edge now and I look for her to duplicate that last effort. The hot info from boy Walter is to the effect that this is the one best of the day. Now, if you are not solid ivory from the shoulders up, you'll know what I means.

EARL OF WARWICK—after a long vacation—has been singled out as the one to beat in the feature fourth. One of the most improved nags in captivity this year and has been breaking the crystals in recent works. Tight fit between COUNT PALATINE and RAUCONA for the place. There you are and by the way, don't let GUEST OF HONOR get away from you in the sixth. He should preside at the round table. Make mine over easy.

IOWA WAITS ON RESULT OF PLEA

Meeting Tonight Will Decide Course of Big Ten Group.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—The University of Iowa, banned effective January 1, from engaging Western Conference teams in further athletic competition, will make its plea for reinstatement tomorrow.

The faculty committee of the conference will decide whether the Hawkeyes, charged with proselyting and subsidizing athletes, have corrected these alleged athletic abuses and are now fit to carry on athletic competition with the other nine universities comprising the Big Ten.

The meeting tomorrow night is expected to bring to a close the most sensational upheaval in the history of the conference. The final outcome was in doubt tonight. Faculty members of the nine institutions have cast no definite light on the situation, but the general impression prevails that when Iowa presents its plea the committee may decide the Hawkeyes have done everything in their power to clean house, and will accordingly act to reinstate them.

Iowa's Chances Seen As Even.

John L. Griffith, Big Ten athletic commissioner, thinks Iowa has an even chance of being restored to good standing, but he has no voice in the matter. The decision rests in the hands of the members of the faculty committee, which includes one representative from the faculty of each institution. This body is the supreme court of the conference. A majority vote of six is needed to restore Iowa to good standing.

The University of Iowa has thoroughly and effectively "cleaned house," according to its 4,500-word petition. The report takes up each specific charge lodged against the institution's athletic policy, when it was suspended last May. Some of the charges are admitted—others are denied, but all things contrary to Big Ten practice have been corrected, the petition states.

The four important questions Iowa will be required to answer are:

1. Can Iowa guard effectively the manner of scholastic eligibility?
2. Can she eliminate the subsidizing of athletes by funds of various kinds and by the use of student notes?
3. Can she restrain alumni influence and maintain full faculty control?
4. Is the athletic department willing to disqualify all present athletes who have received improper financial aid?

Iowa's defense plea attempts to establish the fact that all the alleged abuses have been corrected. Control of athletics at the Hawkeye institution has passed into new hands Dean O. O. Williams has been made head of the athletic council, replacing E. H. Lauer.

HAGEN AND DIEGEL MEET IN TOURNEY

evened the match on the thirty-fifth after a great shot out of a trap. His pitch sailed 40 yards to the green for a 5-foot putt and a birdie 3. Farrell sank a 10-footer on the thirty-sixth for a half. On the extra hole he was outdriven but dropped a beautiful approach shot 5 feet from the pin that gave him a birdie 3. Wood's approach was short of the green and his chip shot went wide.

Diegel Removes Sarazen With Steady Golf.

Diegel removed Sarazen from the ranks of the contenders with the same steady brand of golf that has marked his play from the start. After Sarazen had won the second hole, Diegel evened the match on the fifth and went into a lead at the seventh. He never was headed. At the eighteenth he was 3 up and at the twenty-seventh 2 up.

Hagen had his own way with Manero, who was nervous from the first. Twice Manero missed putts of less than 2 feet to lose the holes. At the eighteenth, Hagen had increased his margin to 3 up. He was 6 up at the twenty-seventh.

The Watrous-Espinosa tilt was close all the way. Watrous held a 1-up advantage at the eighteenth but they were all square at the twenty-seventh. One up and one to go, Watrous won the thirty-sixth with a birdie 4 to finish 2 up. The cards:

WESTERN FIVE DEFEATS HYATTSVILLE HIGH, 32-3

Opener Easy For Red and White Five

Maryland Club Held to One Field Goal and a Foul.

Coach Moore's Team Shows Strength in Court Debut.

NOTWITHSTANDING the meager opposition offered Western High's basket ball team in its season debut yesterday by the Hyattsville Court Team, Coach Clifton Moore's boys deeply impressed him with the type of plays which they exhibited and revealed unmistakable signs of strength which should carry them a long way in the coming season. Only one field goal and a single foul toss was allowed Hyattsville by Western, which walked off the floor with a 32-to-3 victory.

The guarding of the winning combination especially was effective throughout the entire game, and after Lewis had broken away to score a double-decker within the first three minutes of the game, the losers were unable to score thereafter from the floor. When Lewis took his shot at the basket to count his team's single two-pointer, it marked the only time during the afternoon that a Hyattsville player was left entirely free to shoot, so closely guarded was each man by his opponent on the Western Five.

Winners Show Clever Passing.

Although their defensive tactics featured the game, the winners likewise had time to show a clever passing attack, with quick, short tosses continually working the ball down the floor under their opponents' goal. In fact, with the exception of two instances, no player on the Western Five was forced to take a long shot at any time during the game. Bob Freeman, all-high center of last season, batted the ball in the net on no less than five occasions when standing directly beneath the net.

However, Everett Buscher and Eaton came through with two beautiful shots from the side court, with Buscher's heave coming from an overhead pass and Eaton's shot the result of a backhanded throw when off balance.

Buscher Shows Good Form.

Buscher, especially, looked good throughout the game, cutting for the basket time and again to place himself in scoring position. Hatfield, guard, was another source of joy to Coach Moore, breaking up would-be opposing shots time and again throughout the afternoon.

Moore sent in a new team at the start of the second half, and while effective in holding down the Hyattsville score, they failed to demonstrate the smooth all-around play of the Eaton, Buscher, Freeman, Hatfield, and Taylor combination. This quintet worked together like the mechanism of a well-timed clock and its general team-play stamped it as a five which must be watched by any opponent tackling the Western combination this year.

Yankee Puck Stars On Cambridge Team

Cambridge, England, Dec. . (A.P.) Three American college graduates have been chosen to play for the Cambridge University ice hockey team.

They are Richard Warren, of Boston, Mass.; Henry B. Cannon, of Cherry Valley, N. Y., and Henry W. Bragdon, of Rochester, N. Y.

Warren, who played for the Harvard second team last year, plays center; Cannon, a former Yale varsity oarsman, plays defense; Bragdon, a graduate of Harvard and Kent school, Kent, Conn., is a substitute forward.

All three are students at Trinity College.

The Cambridge University hockey team plays most of its matches in the Christmas vacation during a month's tour on the continent. It will be in Vienna early in December, then in Budapest, from where it goes to Gstaad and Davos, famous Swiss resorts. Its final stop is St. Moritz, where the annual match with Oxford is played.

It meets teams of half a dozen European nationalities, and itself is a miniature league of nations, for in addition to the three Americans it includes three Englishmen, a Canadian, an Austrian, a Persian, and a Colombian.

Michigan Tossers Open Season Monday

Special to The Washington Post.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 5.—Ohio Wesleyan, champions of the Ohio Conference last year, will invade Yost Field house next Monday night to inaugurate Michigan's 1929-1930 basket ball season.

The Bishops, under the tutelage of Coach Detrick, are reputed to have a good team again this winter, and Coach George Veenker is expecting a good stiff game for his depleted outfit of Big Ten champs.

Capt. Bob Chapman, 6 foot 3 inch center, and all-conference forward last year, may be the only regular of the Wolverine title winners to start, as Joe Truskowski will not be ready. He reported Monday from a short lay-off after the grid campaign. Bill Orwig, third veteran, also may be missing from the opening game. Kanitz and Lovell, substitute forward and guard, respectively, last year will probably see a great deal of service.

Kanitz is expected to play the pivot post, with Truskowski not available and Chapman dropping back after the tip to bolster up what looks to be a far inferior defense as compared with last year's showing.

SEVEN BENEDICTS PLAY.

Seven married men played on the Oregon Aggies Eleven.

PRESIDENT ON HAND.

President Denny, of the University of Alabama, never misses football practice unless he is out of town.

LEADING THIRD TEAM.

Bull Brown, Vanderbilt guard and captain, is leading his third football team. He captained the Morgan School Eleven, of Petersburg, Tenn., in 1924, and before that led the McTerrin prep outfit, of Martin, Tenn.

PAIR OF GIBRALTARS AMONG THE ROCKS OF SOUTH BEND

This All-America pair of the South Bend Ramblers helped build one of the most remarkable records in the history of modern football. The Ramblers played nine games, most of them against major opponents, and finished with a perfect average.

By ORLO L. ROBERTSON.
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—The time is 3 p. m. on any school day during the football season. The place is the quiet but spacious campus of Notre Dame.

Five minutes later the scene has changed. What a few minutes before was a picture of solitude, with the stately buildings rising above the spreading elms and maples, has suddenly become a bee hive of industry. Twenty-two hundred men and boys rush hither and thither with but one thought—football.

From the 12 hall teams and the four or five second teams—all of which play a regular schedule—came the men molded by Knute Rockne into one of the greatest gridiron machines of the South Bend school's history.

Victorious in nine successive battles from coast to coast, the men of Rockne have been developed from players, seeking recognition on some hall or second team, to a team called the equal of the eleven of the "Four Horsemen" days.

Pushed aside by the rising new stadium, which will seat 50,000, even the Notre Dame varsity has been forced to fight its way through practice sessions over improvised and crowded playing fields.

Two hundred freshmen, flanked by more than a hundred varsity men under the eagle eye of Rockne at the start of the season and then Tom Lieb, has crowded the capacity of the practice field.

Elaborate bucking machines, dummies and other conditioners are foreign to the men, who bowled over Indiana, Georgia Tech, Carnegie Tech, Northwestern, Drake, Southern California, Navy, Wisconsin and the Army. In their drive to a mythical national title plenty of gymnastics, falling on the ball and tackling is the schedule arranged by the Notre Dame board of strategy.

TEAMS PLAY FOR STATE TITLE

N. Carolina U. and Duke to Battle Saturday.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Dec. 5.—North Carolina's hard-driving Tarheels will be fighting for a State championship and a number of scoring records when they clash with the Duke Blue Devils in Durham next Saturday.

Davidson turned the Devils back, 13-12, to leave Carolina the one undefeated Big Five team. But Carolina must beat Duke to win the State championship, for a loss would make it a tie between the Tarheels and the Blue Devils.

The 41-7 margin by which the Tarheels swamped their ancient Cavalier rivals from Virginia ran the North Carolina scoring total to 298 points, giving the Tarheels a wide lead in the Southern Conference scoring race They will be fighting to close the season with the same lead.

Tarheels Hope to Maintain Scoring Average.

They will also be striving to maintain their 33-point scoring average and set a new Tarheel scoring record, a notch or so above the 32-point season average turned in by Capt. Dave Tayloe's famous Tarheel eleven of 1914.

Wyrick and Magner were both benched with injuries for the Virginia game, but Ward, Nash, Maus, Spaulding and Erickson led a great running offensive that netted more than 500 yards.

The same back field power should be available for Duke, with possibly the addition of Wyrick and Magner, for the Tarheels came through the Virginia game without serious injuries.

No Virginia Gains Around Tarheel Ends

Chapel Hill, N. C., Dec. 5.—Don Holt and Julian Fenner, 180-pound Tarheel ends, kept up their great work against Virginia, and when the statistics were compiled it was found that Virginia's gains around the ends stood at exactly 0. Tarheel foes have averaged less than 10 yards a game around the big Tarheel flankmen. The sports writers will be watching the big boys closely in the Duke game next Saturday, for the all-State picks are at hand.

FINALLY WINS AWAY.

When Michigan State defeated the Mississippi Aggies at Jackson, Miss., it marked the first time the mid-Western eleven had won a road game in six years.

Shoes of All-American Not Too Big for Parnell

Flashy Florida Sophomore Groomed to Replace Dale Van Sickel as Wingman on "Alligator" Grid Team Next Season.

Special to The Washington Post.

GAINESVILLE, Dec. 5.—If it were not for Ed Parnell the University of Florida might feel that replacing the All-American Dale Van Sickel at left end next year was going to be a tremendous problem, and especially in view of the fact that Harry Green, for three years Van Sickel's chief understudy at the left flank, likewise does the graduating act next June.

But Sophomore Ed Parnell has played enough varsity football this fall to convince folks that he is just about ripe to carry on at left end next season with all the color and capability that Van Sickel has shown

Ed was a half back on the freshman team last year—a wild, galloping, lanky lad whose pass receiving ability was outstanding, and whose speed afoot and whose spirit were qualities that made him a most promising prospect The coaches looked Ed over closely and figured that Florida had sufficient half backs, but in 1930, ends to replace Van Sickel and Green would be scarce

Parnell Surefire Hit On Wings.

They accordingly planted Parnell at the left wing, and he's smashed through in most satisfying style. Football fans on the lower East Coast will undoubtedly flock to Miami next Saturday in huge numbers for Ed went to Stuart High School in 1924 and distinguished himself in four sports before coming to the University of Florida.

When four sports are mentioned, football is understood to be one of them, but Ed's gridiron experience before he came to 'Gatorland last year to show up brilliantly as a half back was confined to the single season of 1927. Stuart had never had a football coach prior to that date, and no football had been played. But a coach was procured, and Ed performed as a half back for three games.

In basket ball and baseball, however Parnell contributed four full seasons of excellent performance to the Stuart athletic cause, and worked in two years of participation in track also Stuart High is one of those smaller high schools of Florida where opportunity for great attention by the press and the public is lacking, so Ed was comparatively a stranger when he came here to start a great sports career.

Shows Promise as Star On Diamond.

Born in Bessemer, Ala., December 29, 1909, Ed lived there for twelve years and came to be known as the crack marble shot of the community When he moved to Newington, Ga for a residence of six years, his talents came to be the talk of that part of Georgia, and he acquired the nickname of "Spee," and down on the East Coast to this day, there are lots of folks, so Ed says, who don't know any other name for him except "Spee."

Ed made a numeral in freshman baseball last year, and gives promise of developing into a varsity performer in this sport. If his baseballing as a sophomore can match his footballing, he'll be one of the sensations of the 1930 Florida nine.

Ed stands 6 feet 1 inch and strips 180 pounds, and with all his ability he's a clean cut, modest, well liked boy with a great host of friends. He is a member of the Sigma Chi Fraternity, and prominent in affairs of his sophomore class.

Mich. A. A. U. Tank Title Meet December 13

Special to The Washington Post.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 5.—The Michigan A. A. U. swimming championships will be held under the auspices of the University of Michigan Athletic Association December 13 in the pool of the Intramural Sports Building.

Coach Matt Mann and his varsity tankmen will use this meet as their second bit of early season preparation for the Big Ten and other collegiate engagements which are to follow.

Arkansas School Eleven Swears by Zebra Mascot

Pine Bluff, Ark., Dec. 7 (A.P.).—Football teams will have to go a long way to match Pine Bluff High School's mascot, uniforms and string of victories.

A zebra travels with the eleven, which has won four State championships in a row and has trampled everything it has met this season The team has more stripes than a penitentiary, to match its prized quadruped, but hasn't worn socks since 1924.

The zebra is kept in a stall on the sidelines at every game.

The school has turned out many performers who have made good with university elevens. Two of its products, Charley Rucker and Elmer McCanse, Tulane tackles, have been playing together seven years in high school and college.

Celtics Beat Soldiers In Court Debut, 38-13

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Dec. 5.—The St. Mary's Celtics opened their basket ball season tonight with an easy victory over the Fort Humphreys team by the score of 38-to-13. Coach MacDonald and Manager Corbett were pleased with the showing of the Celtic team, especially of Wilbur Wright, formerly with the Hyattsville Company F Team.

Coach MacDonald also saw action tonight and performed well at forward. Next Thursday night the local boys will swing into action against another worthy opponent. In tonight's game, Wright was easily the outstanding player for both teams, while Harrison was best for the visitors.

V. P. I. CUBS AGAIN GAIN HONORS

Redd's Eleven Claims State Championship of Freshmen.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Dec. 5.—Henry B. Redd, director of freshman athletics and head coach of freshman football at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, has turned out his fourth State championship eleven in eight years. The 1929 title, recently copped by the Tech Yearlings, placed a new feather in the cap of the former Gobbler star and made his coaching record one of the most creditable in V. P. I. sport annals.

Henry Redd took over the reins of freshman athletics in 1922 and turned out an unbeaten team which held all opponents scoreless that year. He was runner-up for the State title in '23 and turned out another unbeaten team in '25, the year that the widely known "Pony Express" back field of McArthur, Peake, Tomko and McEver started its rampages on Virginia gridirons. New laurels were gained in '27, when another unbeaten yearling team carried Polytech colors to the championship.

Claim Title Despite Loss to Virginia.

Coach Redd's 1929 team lost to the University of Virginia Freshmen by one touchdown at Charlottesville but established claim to the title by downing yearling aggregations from Roanoke College, William and Mary, Washington and Lee and V. M. I. The Virginia Cubs previously had tied the Little Generals of W. and L. and had lost to V. M. I., a team the young Techmen vanquished by three touchdowns.

Coach Redd has gained his successes during the past three years despite a new system of freshman athletics which seeks primarily to train a large number of men and not to turn out championship teams. Victories are prized at V. P. I., as everywhere else, but instruction is for every member of large squads of candidates all season and not primarily for one or two teams.

All Teams Unbeaten During One Year.

The court, the diamond and the cinder path also have come within the realm of Henry Redd's work, and he has turned out title-winning combinations on all three. He has turned out South Atlantic champions in basket ball and baseball. One of his most notable feats was in the session of 1925-26, when he turned out freshman teams which were undefeated in four sports. He was one of V. P. I.'s best athletes in postwar days.

Secretary Pin Team Gains Series Title

Although the end of the first series is three weeks away, the Secretary Team last night clinched the Interior Department Duckpin League first half championship by defeating its closest rival, Survey, in three games. By taking these three victories, the Secretarys ran their lead to eleven games with nine to go. Flannery, of the victors, had a triple-header strike in his first game.

The game to be played at Shady Oaks comes under the Maryland commissioner and the referee has not yet been appointed. Silver Springs, the seventh local team to enter the tourney, has drawn one of the strong teams of Baltimore as its opponent in the opening round.

Charlottesville Midgets Win Over Ohio Champions, 27-0

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Dec. 5.—By virtue of a 27-to-0 victory here today over the Bearcats, of Kent, Ohio, Midwest champions, the Fives, local midget eleven, furthered its claim to the 100-pound national championship in football Two thousand fans flocked Lambeth Field to witness the battle of midgets, which was fought on a muddy gridiron.

The Ohioans, undefeated in nine games with teams in their own class, were outclassed in today's contest and were unable to registetr a single first down. Their only threat came near the close of the second quarter, when Flowers gathered in a short punt to the right side of the field and raced to the Fives' 12-yard mark, where the ball was lost on downs. The victors played two-thirds of the game without the services of Capt. Davis, who was withdrawn following the injury to Long, guard, and beaviest players on the Ohio squad.

The Fives started off with a rush, registering two touchdowns in the opening period. Both followed blocked punts on the 25-yard line. Three plays produced the first score, Davis crashing through tackle and adding the extra point on a line plunge. A pass, Dinwiddie to Davis, netting 17 yards, led to the second score.

The Fives marched all the way from their 15-yard line to register a touchdown in the third period, and added another in the fourth, mainly due to an air attack which the Bearcats could not solve. An intercepted pass on the 5-yard mark prevented another score in the closing minutes and when the game ended the Fives had possession of the ball on the Bearcats' 1-yard line.

A big hand was given the field general of the Bearcats, Martin L Davey, jr., son of former Representative Davey, Democratic nominee for Governor of Ohio last year. He is 11 years old and weighs 74 pounds. He played safety man and his deadly tackling checked the locals time and again.

The Ohioans, who left tonight for Washington, will be taken to the White House tomorrow. The Fives made sixteen first downs today. In twelve 100-pound contests, they have scored 342 points to 55.

The championship of the eastern half and the western half of the State will be decided on Saturday, with the winners of each section meeting for the State championship the following Saturday.

Its most one-sided victory came from the George Mason team which it whipped, 51-0 The only team to score on Washington-Lee was the Charlottesville eleven which registered one touchdown in its 19-7 defeat.

BASKET BALL
As Champions Play It

What is to be said as to the relative merits of the individual star team as compared with mediocre players using good teamwork?

Answered by
W. E. MEANWELL,
Coach, University of Wisconsin.

The individual star team, when operating smoothly, is almost unbeatable. However, let some combination of circumstances array against it, such as a hard trip which fatigues the men and so throws them temporarily off shooting form, or a particularly close guarding opponent team, or frequently, let overconfidence be present due to supposedly weak opposition, and the star team meets an unexpected defeat. On the contrary, a team which bases its chances primarily on combination work has far fewer upsets, and rarely meets a wholly unexpected defeat. Such a team will win its victories by smaller margins than the teams of stars, but will consistently defeat all weaker opponents, usually defeat its equals and frequently defeat its marked superiors, judged from the standpoint of material.

The all-star team, featuring brilliant individual handling of the ball and employing long shots, is a terror for leading teams to meet, for it is usually highly geared for such contests. Where it falls down is in the consistent defeat of second division teams. The majority of championships fall to fives of clever passing, closely cooperating, team spirited players, rather than to teams featuring brilliant individual play.

Hard-Fought Grid Contests Loom in South Tomorrow

Oregon and Florida Move on Miami; Thomason, Georgia Tech, Injured; Duke, N. Carolina in Traditional Clash.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—The Oregon and Florida Teams arrived at Miami tonight where Saturday they will clash in the big Madison Square Garden Stadium in the day's only intersectional game in the South.

The Webfoots and Alligators traveled south from Jacksonville on the same train. Tomorrow they will take their final workouts on the scene of Saturday's battle.

Meanwhile disquieting news came from Athens where Georgia's Bulldogs are preparing for their annual battle for blood with Georgia Tech. Georgia freshmen, armed with Georgia Tech plays, rang up two touchdowns against the Bulldog varsity. Passes were used to score both markers and Coach Harry Mehre is redoubling his efforts to bolster his defense against overhead maneuvers.

"Stumpy" Thomason Injured.

At Atlanta, "Stumpy" Thomason, one of the wheel horses of the Tech back field, sustained a leg injury in the last scrimmage of the season for the Jackets Thomason was carried from the field, but trainers say they will have him ready to go against Georgia Saturday.

Traditions will be at stake at Durham, N. C., where North Carolina and Duke meet in the principal game scheduled for the northern end of the conference.

The Chapel Hill Tarheels have never been defeated by Duke since football was resumed at the latter school. Both teams are reported in first-class trim for a hard game.

The South Carolina Gamecocks, their preparations behind them, prepared to entrain at Columbia for Knoxville, where they tackle Tennessee's powerful Volunteers in the last game of the season for both teams.

Maryland, the only other conference team scheduled, takes on its old rival, Western Maryland, in the Baltimore Stadium.

AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

THE DIFFERENCE IN CONSTRUCTION OF DEEP AND SHALLOW FACED DRIVERS

What is the difference between the shallow and deep faced club?

By MIKE BRADY,
Former Western Open Champion.

The difference, of course, is in the construction. Both are made to serve a purpose. The golfer with the easy timed swing who can't put the punch into his shot without pressing, should never use a deep faced driver, brassie or spoon. It requires a hard hitter to use these modern deep aced clubs. The average golfer will get better results with a fairly shallow club.

W. & M. STAR TOPS STATE SCORERS

"Red" Maxey Totals 86 Points to Pass Littlejohn.

Special to The Washington Post.

WILLIAMSBURG, VA., Dec. 5. Clarence "Red" Maxey, of Portsmouth, Va., William and Mary College's flashy half back, holds undisputed claim to leadership for State individual scoring honors in Virginia. Maxey, by virtue of his three touchdowns against Richmond Thanksgiving, ran his total points for the season up to 86 to pass Littlejohn, of Emory and Henry.

Littlejohn, who has been leading the individual scoring in the State all fall, has finished his season with a total of 78 points, while Maxey has still another game to play. Spear, of V. P. I., is third with 66 points; Dunn, of V. M. I., is fourth with 43 points, and Thomas, of Virginia, is fifth with 42 points.

It is worthy of notice that three of the above mentioned backs—Maxey, of William and Mary; Spear, of V. P. I., and Dunn, of V. M. I.—were picked on the all-State team, and that the other two, Littlejohn and Thomas, were given honorable mention. Maxey is only a sophomore, and was the only sophomore to make the all-State team.

$25,000 GOLF BAIT LURES HAGEN

British Open Champ to Enter Agua Caliente Event.

Special to The Washington Post.

AGUA CALIENTE, Baja California, Mexico, Dec. 5.—Anyone who says Walter Hagen will not be a factor in the award of the $25,000 in prize money in the world's richest golf tournament, which will be held over the Agua Caliente Golf and Country Club course here January 14 to 17, is not reckoning with the ability of The Haig. Hagen is one of the best money golfers in the world today and already has displayed his intentions by announcing that he will confine his winter activities to about four of the major tournaments, winding up with the event here.

Sir Walter has won the British open championship four times. He scored his first triumph in 1922, repeated in 1924 and now has held the cup for two years running. He also was captain of the United States Ryder Cup Team this year.

Hagen has twice won the United States open championship, first in 1914 when he scored 290 and again in 1919 when he beat Mike J. Brady in the play-off after they had tied at 301. Hagen had a 77 to Brady's 78 in the play-off.

"The Haig" Has Great Tourney Record.

In other tournaments, Hagen has:

Won the 1929 Great Lakes open, 277.

Won the Harold Lloyd one-day tournament, 1928, 61.

Won the 1926 Long Beach open, 276.

Won the qualifying medal in the 1929 Yorkshire $5,000 event, 139.

Winter Sports Season On at West Virginia

Morgantown, W. Va., Dec. 5.—With basket ball, wrestling, boxing and indoor track now in vogue here as intercollegiate sports, and additional participation in these sports in intramural leagues, more than 500 young men of West Virginia University are taking part in some form of athletics.

Although intercollegiate competition will not be indulged in until after the Christmas holidays, the intramural leagues have opened in full force. Basket ball and handball for fraternity, nonfraternity and physical education classes have been indulged in here for the past three days. The annual fraternity wrestling tournament is being planned for next week.

Despite the fact that it is a new sport and will be inaugurated for the first time on an intercollegiate basis this year, boxing has been the most popular pastime thus far this year. Coach Eddie Vacheresse has a squad of about three-score swatters under his care at the present time, but wrestling under Coach Steve Harrick, basket ball under Coach Francis Stadsvold, and track under Coach Art Smith, are gaining in numbers as the week progresses.

Franklin-Marshall Mat Prospects Good

Lancaster, Pa., Dec. 5.—Having finished a successful football season last week, Franklin and Mrashall today started preparation for winter sports that will feature basket ball, wrestling and swimming. Ambitious schedeules in all three sports face the various groups, and the material is such, that in spite of the hard programs, the various Blue and White teams are anticipating good seasons.

The wrestling team in particular is preparing for what appears to be the toughest schedule ever tackled by Coach C. W. Mayser's "trained seals." The matmen open with Michigan University here on Jnauary 11, and the Westerners are followed by Duke University, University of Pennsylvania, West Point and Chicago University in successive meets. All but the Army meet will be staged in Lancaster. After these five meets, Ursinus, Alfred, Temple, Rutgers and Syracuse follow in order.

If Franklin and Marshall, long a leader in wrestling in the East, emerges from this schedule with a creditable showing, there will be few who will fail to recognize the quality of Coach Mayser's team.

Victorious Massanutten Players Given Letters

WORK ON BRIDGE

BRIDGE BREVITIES. A pamphlet by Milton C. Work, the world's preeminent authority on Contract Bridge. Free.

This valuable pamphlet, containing concise suggestions for players of both games, will be sent with the compliments of this paper to readers of Mr. Work's articles who request it. Requests must be addressed to Milton C. Work, care of this paper, and must include a stamped (2-cent stamp), self-addressed return envelope. Read Mr. Work's articles on Auction and Contract. Every day exclusively in The Washington Post.

FOR THE CONTRACT BRIDGE NOVICE.

I AM starting today a series of Friday articles for the Contract player who has had more or less Auction Bridge experience but is not familiar with the new features interjected by Contract.

The features that first attract the attention of the Auction player taking up Contract are: (1) The requirement that all points scored below the line must be bid for, (2) vulnerability, (3) slam bonuses.

The provision that the amount of the bid is all that counts for game is easily understood, but vulnerability is somewhat harder. A side is vulnerable when it has won a game toward the rubber. When the rubber starts, obviously neither side is vulnerable; after the first game, one side is vulnerable and the other not; after the second game, unless both games have been won by one side and the rubber is over, both sides are vulnerable.

The effect of being vulnerable is that premiums earned and penalties suffered by the vulnerable side are greatly increased; in many cases they are doubled, in some they are more than doubled. When a nonvulnerable undoubled side is defeated, the penalty is 50 points per trick; but when a vulnerable undouble side is defeated, the penalty is 100 for the first trick and 200 for each additional trick. If a side should go down three undoubled, the total penalty would be 150 if not vulnerable, 500 if vulnerable. When a defeated side is doubled but invulnerable, the penalty is 100 each for the first two tricks and 200 each for the third and fourth; if doubled and vulnerable, the penalty is 200 for the first and 400 for each trick thereafter. When a side makes good a doubled contract, the premium is 50 if not vulnerable, 100 if vulnerable; and for each extra trick the premium is 100 if invulnerable, 200 if vulnerable.

Conservatism is advisable in making high bids when vulnerable; but when making a low initial bid, vulnerability need not be taken into consideration. Initial bids are mainly information givers. A vulnerable side is just as anxious to go game as a non-vulnerable side; consequently, giving information is just as important when vulnerable as when invulnerable. So initial bids of one or two (in some cases three) are made with exactly the same strength whether vulnerable or invulnerable.

Another feature peculiar to Contract is the immense premium allowed for a slam bid and made, and the absence of premium when a slam is made but not bid. The premiums run from 500 for a small slam when not vulnerable, up to 1,500 for a grand slam when vulnerable. A small slam counts 750 when vulnerable, and a grand slam counts 1,000 when not vulnerable.

30 CARRIER BONDS TOUCH 1929 PEAKS

Convertibles and Foreign Groups Prove to Be Irregular in Tone.

$24,266,000 CITY LOAN

New York, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Nearly 30 listed bonds touched new highs on the New York Stock Exchange today. It was the largest number of 1929 maximums for a single session since the market began its advance, and indicated the increasing depletion in available supplies of high-grade issues. Most of the gains were in the rail group.

The time money market was dull and unchanged at 4½ to 4¾ per cent for all maturities. Maintenance of the rate at about these levels, which contrast with the maximum of 9½ per cent attained late in the summer at the peak of the credit stringency, is expected for the remainder of the month, but many observers look for lower changes after the turn of the year. At present, the tendency seems to be toward a hardening at current quotations.

Liberties were quiet and without much change, but there was considerable activity in the Treasury certificates, which shaded off about ⅛ of a point. The 3¾s, 1943-47, touched a high for the year.

Domestic List Slackens.

Trading in the domestic list slackened, but corporation mortgages of investment caliber held to their upward trend. First grade rails displayed the strongest tone and the averages advanced to the highest level since early in the year. Among the rails making new tops were Baltimore & Ohio refunding 5s, Canadian Nationals 5s, Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio 6s, Erie convertible 4s, Denver & Rio Grande 4½s, Kansas City Southern 5s, Nickel Plate 4½s, Missouri Pacific general 4s, New Haven debenture 4s, Northern Pacific prior lien 4s, Southern Railway general 5s and Virginian 5s. Miscellaneous issues in high ground were Skelly Oil 5½s, Midvale Steel 5s, General Petroleum 5s and Bethlehem Steel 5½s. Activity in the utilities diminished.

Convertibles displayed considerable irregularity. The new Chicago & Northwestern 4½s turned over to the extent of nearly $500,000, compared with $3,100,000 yesterday, and held around par, the price at which that part of the $72,335,000 loan not taken by the stockholders was offered publicly this morning. The subscription books, on this offering, which was less than half of the total, closed soon after the opening.

N. J. Public Service Advances.

American Telephone convertible 4½s traded in large volume and were on a downward course throughout most of the session, closing with a net loss of 2½. International Telephone 4½s lost 1½, but Reading Coal & Iron 6s rose a point and Public Service of New Jersey 4½s advanced .8, the latter on the usual small volume.

The foreign group was likewise irregular. Australian loans were active at small declines. German Republic 7s advanced nearly a point.

Another large municipal bond issue was placed today. The City of Detroit awarded to a Bankers Company Syndicate a $24,266,000 1 to 30 loan in 4½s, 4¼s and 5s on a bid of 100.009.

TREASURY TO OFFER NEW FINANCE ISSUES

Bearer Certificates and 90-Day Bills Go on Sale at Once.

EXCHANGE HERE ACTIVE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

New financing is announced by the Treasury Department today in two offers totaling approximately $425,000,000. The first of these is one offering for subscription, at par and accrued interest, through Federal Reserve banks, an issue of one-month 3½ per cent Treasury certificates of indebtedness of Series TS-1930, dated and bearing interest from December 16, 1929, and maturing September 15, 1930. The amount of this offering is in the neighborhood of $325,000,000.

Applications will be received at Federal Reserve banks and the Treasury will accept in payment for the new certificates, at par, Treasury certificates of indebtedness of Series TD-1929 and TD2-1929, both maturing December 15, 1929. Subscriptions for which payment is to be tendered in certificates of indebtedness maturing December 15, 1929, will be given preferred allotment up to $200,000,000.

The bearer certificates, it was explained, will be issued in denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000 and $100,000, and the certificates will have two interest coupons attached payable March 15, 1930, and September 15, 1930.

In addition to the offering of indebtedness certificates, the Treasury will also offer December 10, about $100,000,000 of 90-day Treasury bills, to be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders. Details regarding this offering will be made public on the morning of that day.

Treasury officials stated about $700,000,000 of Treasury certificates of indebtedness and nearly $97,000,000 in interest payments on the public debt become due and payable December 15.

Brokers' Loans Decline.

A fifth consecutive recession in brokers' loans was revealed yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board in its report for the week ended December 4, announcing a total of $3,892,000,000 in loans on securities to brokers and dealers, or $58,000,000 under those of the preceding week and $2,003,000,000 below those of the week of December 25, 1928.

There were declines in two divisions; loans for own account, $792,000,000, being $29,000,000 less than the previous week's; those for account of out-of-town banks, $680,000,000, or $42,000,000 more, and those for account of others, $1,921,000,000, or $61,000,000 below.

A reduction for the week of $40,000,000 in holdings of discounted bills and a gain of $29,000,000 in United States securities with small change in holdings of bills bought in open market was indicated in the board's consolidated statement of condition of Federal Reserve Banks on December 4.

Member bank reserve deposits increased $25,400,000; cash reserves, $4,100,000, and Federal Reserve note circulation, $8,300,000, although Government deposits fell off $10,500,000. Total bills and securities were $11,800,000 behind those of a week ago.

Offers Business Solution to Hoover.

Definitely suggesting that prosperity and purchasing power could be well maintained at an even keel through a Government agency, C. C. Hanch, secretary and manager of the National Association of Finance Companies, has informed the general business conference called by President Hoover that modification of an old regulation of the Federal Reserve Board was essential to the millions of citizens who bought "on the deferred payment plan."

He predicted that consumer credit, which has contributed to the success of mass production and mass consumption, would be curtailed unless the Federal Reserve Banks were permitted to rediscount the notes of finance companies, the proceeds of which would be used for financing the sales of merchandise.

Business on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday manifested the healthiest appearance in several days, there being advances in sales volume of both stock and bond divisions and a spirited activity in three important issues.

Mergenthaler Linotype was a market leader, 153 shares changing hands. The stock came out at 104, fractional recession, four shares moving at this figure; 20 then sold at 104⅞ and 129 at 105. Ninety-five shares of Capital Traction were in trading, 25 transferring at 75¼, latest level, and 70 at 75. Sales of 100 shares of Potomac Electric 5½ preferred were listed at 104, fractional decline; 14 at 104¼, last sale price, and 10 at 104½. Bond sales were confined to $6,000 Capital Traction 5s at fractional losses from 92.

The stock turnover totaled 790 shares, or 638 in excess of Wednesday, and the bond sale volume was a $3,300 improvement over the prior session.

$1,050,000,000 for Rail Equipment.

The present financial program of the Class I railroads of this country for the calendar year 1930 calls for $1,050,000,000 for new equipment and additions and betterments to property used in connection with the transportation service, according to R. H. Aishton, chairman of the executive committee of the Association of Railway Executives.

This estimate for the coming year was given by Aishton to the national business survey conference held yesterday at the headquarters of the United States Chamber of Commerce and attended by representatives of the principal industries of the country. The conference was the outgrowth of the recent series of conferences called by President Hoover with industrial leaders with a view of maintaining employment and business progress throughout the United States during the coming year.

Speaking for his section of the country, John G. Lonsdale, St. Louis banker and president of the American Bankers' Association, attending the prosperity conference at the United States Chamber of Commerce this week, said that the Middle West is rounding out a good year. He said that public confidence everywhere is becoming rapidly restored and business is being stabilized.

The current issue of the American Business Review congratulates the local brokerage firm of W. B. Hibbs & Co., organized in 1889 by W. B. Hibbs, and in which W. W. Spaid became a partner in 1900; Karl W. Corby in 1928; J. Thilman Hendrick is a special partner.

Says Business Optimism Justified.

That, whereas, a month ago there was a tendency on the part of most observers to emphasize the possible dire effects of the market crash on industry, there is now a growing tendency to minimize them, and that this leaning toward a more optimistic attitude regarding the outlook for general business appears to be well founded, are deductions of Gage P. Wright, New York economist and president of the Business Economic Digest.

"Asset value of outstanding preferred and common stock of Shenandoah Corporation and Blue Ridge Corporation has been restored to levels approaching those in force at the time these corporations were organized. This restoration, details of which were revealed in letters sent out to stockholders, has been accomplished through arrangements which constitute, in effect, a contribution of capital to the two corporations.

The Merchants Bank & Trust Co. has declared a semiannual dividend of 3 per cent payable December 31, to stockholders of record December 20.

SICK LEAVE GRANTED FAIRFAX TEACHERS

Five Days Off With Full Pay During Term Allowed by County Board.

SCHOOL SALE CONTESTED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

The County School Board met yesterday at the courthouse with John T. DeBell as acting chairman in the absence of Dr. F. M. Brooks, who is ill. The other members present were Vernon Lynch, Joseph Murphy, H. F. Williams, John Hazzett, Samuel H. Styles, F. S. McCandlish and F. W. Robinson. W. T. Woodson, county superintendent of schools, acted as clerk.

A petition from the County Teachers' Association was read, in which five days' sick leave with full pay during the school term was asked, with the school board to pay the substitutes. The board granted the request, requiring a certificate of personal illness.

A list of the necessary repairs and interior decorations for the Clifton School was presented, from the Parent-Teacher Association there in which it stated it had raised $100 toward having the work done and asked the school board to make a contribution. The board turned the matter over to Trustee DeBell, instructing him to get specifications and bids. The board stated it would contribute one-half the money needed. The question of having the furnace room in the Floris School made fireproof was referred to Trustee Murphy of that district, with the power to have the necessary work done. In connection with the necessity of having to make the numerous repairs to the schools the board discussed the feasibility of employing a mechanic the year round, providing him with a store room and truck. A report is to be made at the next meeting.

The petition of the residents in the neighborhood of the Vale School, asking for another teacher, was passed because the requirements of the State law, which require an average daily attendance of 36 pupils, could not be met.

Bids were submitted by the local newspapers for the publishing of the annual financial report of the school superintendent. The bid was awarded to the Fairfax Herald. The accounts of the various schools last month were considered and a total of $5,789.09 was approved. A note to R. C. Cornwell for $2,000 temporary loan was ordered renewed for six months, and interest amounting to $60 be paid.

County Superintendent of Schools W. T. Woodson was instructed to write Gov-elect John Garland Pollard, including a resolution indorsing Herbert Williams for the appointment to the State Board of Education.

A committee from the Merrifield Improvement Association questioned the board's right to attempt to sell the Merrifield school, which has been abandoned by the school authorities. Under an original deed of trust of 1874, from the Gaylord family, this property was given to five trustees and their successors to be used for religious and educational purposes. The deed contained a clause stating that if the property were abandoned for five years the land would revert to the grantor. Later an absolute deed was given to the school board by the purchaser of the Gaylord estate. The board has claimed title to this land for more than 40 years under a color of title of this deed. The school board informed the association that the board had not surrendered or abandoned claim to this property and that the matter had been referred to Commonwealth Attorney Wilson M. Farr for his ruling and suggestions.

A committee representing the owners of buses that are chartered by the school board for the transportation of school children asked that the board pay for the liability insurance on such buses. The board refused.

Sheriff E. P. Kirby appeared before the board in behalf of Mrs. Louise Mangum, county superintendent of public welfare, asking if any fund could be allowed to pay a portion of her expenses, as her work takes her among the boys and girls of the county and would be a help to the board in forcing the compulsory education laws. The board was in favor of her work, but has no fund out of which such an appropriation could be made.

The December meeting of the Floris Community and School League will be held in the high school auditorium Wednesday evening, December 11, instead of the first Wednesday night in the month.

The Floris Methodist Ladies Aid met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Laura Cockerille, near Floris. The meeting was held a week later than usual, owing to the Thursday of the week before being Thanksgiving Day.

The directors of the Falls Church Bank will hold a business meeting this afternoon in the directors' room in the bank.

Funeral services for Mrs. Harry Noble, of Falls Church, who died at her home Tuesday night, will be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock from the home. The Rev. A. B. Altfather, of the Presbyterian Church, will officiate. Interment will be in the Falls Church Cemetery. Mrs. Noble has been a prominent church worker in Falls Church for many years. She is survived by her husband and three children, Henry, Dollie and Adair; a sister, Miss Bertha Demarest, of Norfolk, Va., and a brother, Harry Demarest, of Falls Church.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Columbia Baptist Church in Falls Church will hold a bazaar and food sale in the church this afternoon from 1 until 6 o'clock. Mrs. H. H. Anderson will be in charge of the food table; Mrs. H. H. Rodgers and Mrs. T. O. Marr, fancy work table; Mrs. Walter Wrenn, children's table, and Mrs. Guy Ervin, the refreshments.

The Falls Church Parent-Teacher Association will hold a bridge and five hundred party this evening in the Madison Schoolhouse at 8:30 o'clock. The committee in charge of the party is Mrs. W. F. Callendar, chairman; Mrs. C. A. Ransome, Mrs. O. C. Sease, Mrs. A. L. Anderson and Mrs. J. W. Brown. About 40 tables have been provided. One woman will act as hostess at each table, and will be responsible for the refreshments and prizes at her table.

The vestries of the three Episcopal churches of the Zion at Fairfax, the Holy Comforter at Vienna and the Good Shepherd of Burke met Wednesday evening at the home of F. S. McCandlish in Fairfax, with Bishop Henry St. George Tucker presiding, and F. S. McCandlish as secretary. The meeting was in behalf of the parishes and to survey the field for a possible rector. A committee was appointed from each vestry to form a large committee to investigate the possibility of persuading a pastor to accept a call to this parish.

It was decided to alternate the services between Vienna and Fairfax, beginning December 15. The first services will be held in Vienna with the Rev. Paca Kennedy, a professor of New Testiment Greek at the Theological Seminary, acting as pastor.

A large quantity of fodder was destroyed by fire late Wednesday evening on the farm of Levi Harrison near Chantilly. The fire is believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion. It had been burning for a long while before it was discovered. Harrison kept the flames from spreading to a large stock barn, which was within a few feet of the stacked fodder. The Fairfax and Herndon Fire Departments, with the aid of chemicals, were able to check the fire and save the barn. The loss was estimated at about $500.

Midshipmen Given 11 Days' Vacation

Most Members of Regiment Plan Christmas With Folks at Home.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 5.—Eleven full days' respite from rigid academic routine will be given the 2,000 members of the regiment of Midshipmen at the Naval Academy at the approaching Yuletide, under an order issued today by Rear Admiral Samuel Robison, superintendent.

Many of the Midshipmen already have laid plans to eat their Christmas dinner with the folks at home, but a goodly percentage, chiefly those living in far Western States, will make most of the holiday in Washington, New York and other Eastern cities, as is generally the case.

The leave taking will begin after the midday meal of December 21, and extend until evening roll call New Year's Day. The Middies will have their annual Christmas festival, including a turkey dinner in Bancroft Hall, the evening of December 20, and following the feast they will gather about the big pine tree in front of the dormitory to sing Christmas carols.

FIVE FIREMEN HURT WHEN AUTOS COLLIDE

Hose Truck and Lieutenant's Car Crash Head-On on Brentwood Bridge.

NAVY OFFICER ARRESTED

Five members of the Brentwood Volunteer Fire Department were injured, two seriously, last night, when the hose truck, driven by Capt. E. M. Brown, was in collision with an automobile driven by Lieut. William A. Hadley, U. S. A., stationed at Walter Reed Hospital. The second car skidded while crossing a narrow bridge over the Northwest branch on Prospect avenue, Brentwood. The autos collided head-on on the bridge.

Fire Chief Harry S. Allison was thrown from the truck into the air, struck the top of the Army officer's car, and then bounced to the roadway. He was unhurt except for bruises and shock and refused treatment. Capt. Brown, who was driving, was injured when the steering wheel broke off in his hands and the shaft struck his chest. He was treated at Casualty Hospital. George Darney and Earl Nutting were treated at Casualty for a sprained neck and bruises.

Richard Keys, nephew of William F. Keys, member of the House of Delegates, was seriously injured. He was treated at Casualty for a broken hip and other injuries. William Randall was treated for a crushed foot at the hospital. The injured were taken to the hospital in the Prince Georges County Rescue Squad ambulance.

The fire engine was responding to a fire in a bungalow on Columbia boulevard at the time of the accident. According to Chief Allison, the siren of the engine was sounded continuously after the truck left the firehouse.

The accident blocked the Mount Rainier and the rest of the Brentwood fire engines from going to the fire, which was extinguished by the Hyattsville and Cottage City fire departments.

Lieut. Hadley was taken into custody by Sergt. H. G. Machen, of the Prince Georges County police and Town Bailiff Edgar Brown, of Brentwood. He was released on bond of $100 by Justice of the Peace H. J. Moffat, of Hyattsville, to appear in county police court Wednesday to answer charges of reckless driving. Lieut. Hadley's wife, who was a passenger in his car, was uninjured.

Luray Caverns Guide Dies in Virginia Home

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Dec. 4.—Mrs. Alice H. Mauck, wife of Joseph H. Mauck, for many years a guide in the Luray Caverns, died today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. H. D. Mauck, of Luray. She was well known to thousands of Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia visitors to the Luray Caverns, her home having been for many years a meeting place of tourists after they emerged from the cave.

Soon after the Luray Caverns were discovered by Andrew J. Campbell and William B. Campbell in 1878, Mrs. Mauck became an expert on cave formation. All of her calculations have been verified by leading geologists. Her unique method of calculating the growth of rock on the earth's surface and those in the cave showed conclusively the length of time required for the Luray Caverns formations.

The city council yesterday received a communication from the city school board asking for an additional appropriation of $10,000 to continue operating the schools on the old budget, it being understood this represents a deficit in the budget for school purposes. The matter was held over until the next meeting.

The annual license ordinance was presented by City Manager Wallace Lawrence, and held over with the understanding that a public hearing will be held at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to consider possible changes.

An application from M. April to take charge of the city dump, paying the city $10 for the privilege, in order that he might salvage any junk and waste from the dump, was turned over to the city attorney for a report.

Several applications for building permits were received and acted upon.

The budget of the city school board for operating the city schools, including those in the annexed territory, for the coming year, which was submitted to the city council yesterday, amounts to $212,160, an increase of $52,900 for the two schools in the territory taken over from Arlington County.

The budget as made up by the board indicates that the sum of $55,000 is expected to be received from the States, tuition fees from nonresidents will amount to $3,100, and the city's part of the fund will be $159,260 for the existing schools of Alexandria and $52,900 for the Mount Vernon School and the George Mason High School, in the annexed territory.

Of the $52,900 for these schools, $5,000 represents the equipment Alexandria will be required to purchase from the school authorities of Arlington County, and replacing old equipment. It also includes furniture for one additional classroom in the Mount Vernon School, and also an item of rental to Arlington County for free textbooks to be used until the close of the present session in June. The county records show that the cost of books per child is $1.75 a year, and the city will pay to the county $1 for books furnished each child.

The chamber of commerce, Fred C. Goodnow, president, will sponsor a dinner, reception and dance beginning at 6:30 o'clock this evening, at the George Mason Hotel, by the citizens of Alexandria in honor of the new residents of the city brought here by the Virginia Public Service Co. This company is at present augmenting its quarters by the use of the main offices of the naval torpedo station, until the new building of the Virginia Public Service Co. and the Seaboard Public Service Co., Washington and Prince streets, is completed and the entire force of the combined companies occupy it.

Industrial Deaths Are 14 for Month

Virginia Reports 3,016 Injuries Due to Same Cause in November.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Fourteen deaths occurred in Virginia from industrial accidents in November and 3,016 injuries were attributed to the same cause, Frank P. Evans, statistician of the State Industrial Commission, announced today.

In comparing industrial deaths and injuries last month with 11 deaths and 2,580 other accident cases in November, 1928, Evans said that part of the increase was due to an increased number of workers this year.

Last month the industrial commission approved 783 agreements whereby injured workers were to receive compensation because of injuries resulting from industrial accidents, in comparison with 676 in November, 1928. In addition to agreements approved by the commission, 81 awards were made last month in cases where parties in interest had failed to agree.

YOUTH'S ASSAILANT GETS PRISON TERM

Garland Falwell Is Found Guilty of Feloniously Shooting Student.

ADMITS FIRING TEN TIMES

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 5.—A jury here at 7:45 o'clock tonight returned a verdict of guilty with a penalty of two years in the State Penitentiary against Garland W. Falwell, of Campbell County, charged with feloniously shooting Gus B. Wiltshire, 22 years old, of Martinsburg, W. Va., a Washington and Lee University student, on the night of October 27, in an automobile chase near here.

The incident aroused considerable attention at the time and packed the Corporation Court here today when Falwell testified that he had used a revolver and a double-barreled shotgun in firing upon Wiltshire, driving an automobile with Misses Annie Margaret Hershey, of Louisville, Ky.; Elizabeth Cardwell, of Baragould, Ark., and Georgia Oliver Black, of Dewitt, Ark., students at Randolph-Macon Woman's College here. Wiltshire was painfully but not seriously wounded on the upper part of the body.

Testimony brought out that the two men became involved in an argument at a filling station, where Wiltshire had stopped in his car for a few moments, and that a few minutes later the students drove away toward Lynchburg. Falwell, declaring that he had missed money in his pockets, pursued the other car and overtook it a short distance away. Wiltshire suddenly sped away again, and on entering Lynchburg Falwell was arrested by police.

Falwell estimated on the stand that he had fired "ten or fifteen shots." He claimed he was trying only to stop the other machine. Several Martinsburg citizens testified as to the good reputation of Wiltshire.

Judge B. B. Campbell appeared for the defense, and W. H. Jordan, Edward Meeks and John D. Horsley for the State, with Judge F. P. Christian presiding.

$20 Average Tobacco Price at Petersburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Dec. 5.—Sales on the Petersburg tobacco market today took into account approximately 60,000 pounds of bright tobacco. The offerings sold at an estimated average of $20 a hundred pounds. Warehousemen reported that most of the leaf offered was of medium and common grades. The movement of dark tobacco to the local market has not yet hit its full stride and offerings of the dark leaf so far has been light.

Continued cold weather, which adds to the difficulty of the farmer in preparing his leaf for the market, has served to curtail the volume of offerings here within the last few days.

COUNTY CHAMBER ASKS INDUSTRY ZONE

Arlington Commerce Groups Want Rosslyn Left as Business Town.

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The board of directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce at its meeting last night held in Clarendon unanimously indorsed the following resolution, offered by Ashton C. Jones:

"It is the sense of the Chamber of Commerce that some commercial waterfront property is essential and that the plans of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission be so drawn that Rosslyn will be left as a business center and that all available water frontage at Rosslyn be maintained."

The adoption of this resolution was in answer to a recent letter received from Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, in which several questions were asked the chamber of commerce relative to the needs of water frontage for commercial use in Arlington County.

A second resolution offered by A. K. Stratton that the chamber go on record as favoring the location of the Sun Oil Co.'s plant on the water front in Rosslyn was tabled.

After much discussion in favor of the establishment of the Sun Oil Co. in Rosslyn, it was voted to take up the resolution offered by Stratton at a special meeting to be held Thursday night, December 12, in the chamber of commerce rooms at Clarendon.

Oil Company Engineer Talks.

engineer for the Sun Oil Co., addDuring the meeting, P. S. Cochran, dressed the meeting discussing the plans for the development of the ground which has been purchased. A permit has been granted by the County Board of Supervisors. It was brought out that it is contemplated to provide storage for 5,000,000 gallons of oil. Others speaking in favor of the plant were C. H. Greathouse, owner of the land, and John B. Fowler, of Rosslyn.

A strong letter of protest to the establishment of the plant from Hugh Lee Kirby, addressed to William S. Hoge, jr., member of the board, was read. The letter in part follows:

"The Sun Oil Co.'s move to establish a tank farm at the foot of Mackey Hill forces us to suspend any further development of this property until we know just what the authorities are going to do, and if they finally allow the Sun Oil Co. to establish a tank farm there, we shall permanently suspend any further development and shall offer for sale our property, because we know that the establishment of a tank farm endangers the entire community because of great fire hazard and the ugly and unsightly tanks which will immediately reduce the value of real estate in this whole section and thereby discourage any further development of this section as a residential section.

"I dare say that few people of Arlington County have witnessed a 25,000-gallon tank of gasoline on fire, and if they shall have 25 or 30 of these large tanks all of them will be subject to ignition, as gasoline will ignite within 60 feet on a still day, and much further if the wind is blowing.

Amazed at County Heads.

"The attitude of our county commissioners has amazed me by their granting a permit to allow the erection of this tank farm in an established community like this. I can not understand the basis of their reason, when they must know that by theoir act they endanger the lives and property of every citizen in this residential section, but they must also understand their personal responsibility in such a willful and drastic action which was taken in the face of a majority of the property owners and citizens of this neighborhood, who individually and collectively, privately and publicly, objected to hte establishment of such a tank farm."

Julian E. Tapp was elected president of the Arlington Volunteer Fire Department at its annual meeting held last night in the Firemen's Hall. Other officers are J. A. Dawkins, vice president; Elmer J. Blackmer, secretary- treasurer; N. T. Myers, assistant secretary; A. C. Scheffel, chief; Thomas Snoots, deputy chief; Jack Travis, fire marshal; Charles L. Snoots, captain, and Carl E. Scheffel, lieutenant. Members of the board of directors are Herbert L. Wilson, V. Ehrhardt and John R. Mossburg.

The Jefferson District Fire Department will hold its monthly meeting in the auditorium of the Firemen's Hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Consideration of the recent letter received from Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, in which several questions are asked relative to the needs for waterfront land for industrial development and whether industrial or residential development is most valuable to Arlington County, will be given by the Arlington County Zoning Commission at a meeting to be held tonight at the county courthouse.
